FOREIGN AFFAIRS MEETINGS

Briefing System To Be Followed In President's Race

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration and the new Democratic party leadership agreed swiftly Saturday on a system of secret foreign affairs briefings to keep this year's presidential campaigners abreast of the intensifying cold war conflict with the Soviet Union.

The move is considered critically important at a time when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is making an all-out drive to undermine American leadership abroad and break up the system of anti-Communist alliances.

PROPAGANDA

Khrushchev's political and propaganda offensive has been building up through intervention gestures in the Congo and Cuban crises and rocket-rattling threats against the United States and its allies. It is believed by top diplomats here to be timed, at least in part, to take advantage of this country's preoccupation with domestic politics and the forthcoming change in presidents.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters in Newport, R. I. Saturday press secretary James C. Hagerty announced Eisenhower will take up on Monday the problem of arranging for confidential security briefings for presidential and vice presidential candidates of both parties in this year's campaign. He said the briefings will be given by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Soon afterward, Sen. John F. Kennedy, the new Democratic nominee, announced to a news conference at Los Angeles he would accept the President's offer.

The Massachusetts senator added he would look to Adlai E. Stevenson, his predecessor as nominee in 1952 and 1956, and to Chester Bowles, Connecticut congressman and former ambassador to India, to maintain liaison with the White House on foreign policy matters.

It was clear from Hagerty's announcement that the same information supplied to Kennedy and to his vice presidential nominee, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, would be made available also to the Republican nominees when selected.

The agreement on foreign affairs briefings seems certain to be welcomed by Allied govern-

Inter-Nation Affairs Chief Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. State Department is putting a new man in charge of its inter-American affairs department, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

Roy R. Rubottom Jr., assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, is slated to be replaced by another career diplomat, Thomas C. Mann, the sources said. Mann now is assistant secretary for economic affairs.

Rubottom, they added, is in line to become U.S. ambassador to Argentina, replacing Willard Beaulac.

Earlier, high State Department sources had said there was nothing to a Buenos Aires report that Rubottom was to become ambassador there.

There has been no comment from the summer White House in Newport, R.I. President Eisenhower would have to approve the switch.

CHANGE

If the change is made it could reflect a recent shift in U.S. policy toward Latin America, noticeable by a hardening attitude toward Cuba and an announced new plan for economic aid.

Asked about the report, Mann said he could neither confirm nor deny it.

Rubottom, 48, a Texas native, was not immediately available for comment.

Arrest Youth In Holdup Try

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jefferson Parish Sheriff John G. Fitzgerald said a 20-year-old ex-convict from Lafeyette was arrested Saturday after he attempted to hold up a bartender at an Airline Highway lounge.

Fitzgerald said the man was Robert W. Prudhomme and that he was released last week from the El Reno, Okla., federal penitentiary.

The bartender, Arthur McElroy, 22, Metairie, told police Prudhomme threatened him. Prudhomme did not have a weapon when he was arrested several blocks from the scene.

Kennedy Set To Fight For Integration

Serves Notice He Intends To Wage Strong Campaign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Democratic candidate John F. Kenedy served notice Saturday that he intends to wage a very vigorous presidential campaign against Richard M. Nixon "within what I consider the rules of fact."

At his first news conference since winning his party's presidential nomination, he also pledged to fight harder than President Eisenhower for racial integration and called on Congress to pass three major bills at its bob tailed August session.

In the international field, Kennedy tapped Adlai E. Stevenson as a key foreign policy advisor during the November election campaign. His action lent weight to speculation that the two-time Democratic candidate might be Secretary of State in any Kennedy administration.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, Kennedy's pre-convention foreign affairs adviser who also figures in Cabinet speculation, will join Stevenson in receiving foreign policy briefings from the Eisenhower administration.

Kennedy's statement underscored what has become increasingly clear—the forthcoming election battle could be one of the roughest in recent history. Nixon already has said he would travel anywhere and do everything legitimately possible to capture the White House.

Following up the attack he delivered against Nixon in his acceptance speech last night, Kennedy said he wanted to make it clear that his campaign against

Keynoter's Brother

A group were discussing the Democratic convention in a local cafeteria and noticed a young man of college age who seemed to be interested in the conversation. As the group left he stepped up to one and said, "I heard you discussing the convention. What did you think of Frank Church"?

Well, just fine, was the reply.

He's my brother, was the reply. And we found that Jim Church, brother of the Key Note speaker of the Democratic Convention, Frank Church, is here working for an oil company, and is indeed proud of his brother.

ACCENT ON YOUTH

Name Sen. Jackson As Demo Chairman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Smiling Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington was chosen Democratic national chairman Saturday, accenting the youth of the party's new leadership.

The 48-year-old Jackson was picked by Sen. John F. Kennedy, the 43-year-old presidential nominee — an old friend and harness mate in the Senate.

The new chairman announced he would serve in the party post without pay. As a senator, he draws $22,500 a year plus expenses.

Jackson, a Lutheran, is the first Protestant in more than a quarter of a century to head the Democratic National Committee. Paul Butler, the retiring chairman, is a Roman Catholic. With Kennedy a Catholic, too, it was indicated in advance the post would go to someone of a different faith.

Jackson's appointment gives recognition to the West Coast, with its growing population and rising economic wealth. His predecessors in recent times have all come from the East or Midwest.

Jackson has been personally close to Kennedy—among other things, they play softball and touch football to unwind from the tensions of lawmaking.

Eight Leading Soccer Players Die In Crash

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A chartered plane crashed just after takeoff from Copenhagen airport Saturday, killing eight of Denmark's leading soccer players.

The players, all candidates for the Olympic soccer team, were on a flight to Jutland for an Olympic selection match.

The pilot, C. Vindeloev, the plane's only other occupant, survived but was injured so badly he was not expected to live.

Airport officials said one of the plane's two engines quit moments after the plane took off. The craft crashed in shallow water off the island where the airport is situated. The eight dead and the pilot were found inside the wreckage.

Death Claims Top Novelist J. Marquand

NEWBURY PORT Mass (UPI)- Pulitzer Prize - winning novelist John P. Marquand died in his sleep Friday night and his doctor said death was "probably due to a heart attack."

The 66 - year - old writer with about 30 titles to his credit and a life membership on the best seller list, had been in good health through the last day. Friends who saw him at a party in Boston last Sunday said he was "in fine fettle."

SPOKESMAN

A spokesman for Little Brown & Co., his publishers, said the writer had said recently he hoped he would die in his sleep. He was the victim of a mild coronary attack several years ago.

Marquand's last public appearance was at Newburyport High School commencement last month when he told the seniors graduating from his alma mater:

"My generation has gone by. The world is now in your hands."

At the time, Marquand also told the students of meeting a group of Russian authors who taunted him about television and trashy magazines in America.

"By the way," Marquand asked them. "Did you get to Disneyland?"

He did not have to remind them of Premier Khrushchev's humilia-

Claims Moscow Is Zeroed In

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth (R-Colo) said Saturday that during a visit to Vandenberg Air Force Base in California he had been taken into an operations room and "all you have to do is push one button and drop a missile on Moscow."

Chenoweth made the statement in a speech to the Colorado Republican Assembly and later confirmed it for a reporter.

The subject came up when he told the Republicans that military leaders all have informed the House Space Committee, of which he is a member, that "regardless of what comes to pass the U. S. military machine is ready to function at the drop of a hat."

U. S. Lashes Seizures By Cuba Regime

Note Of Protest On Law Permitting It Is Delivered

HAVANA (UPI) — The United States Saturday formally protested against Cuba's "arbitrary and discriminatory" law permitting Fidel Castro to seize American-owned property.

The protest, delivered by U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal to acting Foreign Minister Carlos Olivares was certain to be rejected by the government which, even as Bonsal delivered the protest, was bringing in three shiploads of Russian crude oil to be refined at seized Esso, Texaco and Shell refineries.

The United States called the Cuban "nationalization" law "arbitrary" because it admittedly was enacted in retalition for the United States decision to end the preferential Cuban sugar quota.

TRADE

The note, apparently referring to stepped up trade between Cuba and the Communist bloc, said the Castro government was trying to "alter radigally the traditional pattern of trade with the United States."

The United States charged that the Cuban exporpriation law failed to provide for "prompt," adequate compensation for seized property.

Bonsal verbally said the note was a "most serious and solemn protest against this hostile measure."

Bonsal delivered a second protest against the detention last week of two American newsmen, Bill Moeser of the Miami News and Judson Gooding of Rochester, Minn., a Time-Life correspondent.

Opposition To Loyalty Pledge By South Fades

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Southern opposition to the Democratic Party's "loyalty pledge" fizzled out Saturday in a sudden post-convention burst of North-South harmony.

All but one of the members of the party's national committee, Judge Tom R. Brady of Mississippi, readily signed the statement pledging their support to the national ticket of Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Outgoing party chairman Paul M. Butler granted Brady a reprieve to consult with his Mississippi party Superiors. He said this was only "fair play" in the case of committeemen bound by their state executive committees.

TWO WEEKS

"I am certain his (Brady's) statement will be in the hands of our executive committee in the next two weeks," Butler said. Brady nodded his agreement.

Even as the southerners capitulated, Kennedy told a news conference that he favors racial integration in such facilities as stores and restaurants.

In contrast to President Eisenhower, he said, he felt the chief executive should "use his influence" to bring this about.

Kennedy declined to give a time table for integrating all public schools. But he said "the President should associate himself with a great moral cause" and use his influence to help carry out court school desegregation orders.

Budget Meet Scheduled By Eisenhower

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower will hold a budget strategy conference Sunday. Top concern quite likely will focus on a proposal by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, for a speedy big increase in defense spending.

With administration determination to hold down federal spending certain to be a campaign issue, the President called Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson to the summer White House for a Sunday afternoon session.

In announcing plans for the meeting, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said only that Eisenhower and Anderson "will discuss the budgetary situation and the upcoming reconvening of Congress in August."

LITTLE DOUBT

There appeared to be little doubt that high on the agenda will be the Kennedy proposal—made a few days before his nomination to head the Democratic ticket—that 2½ to 3 billion dollars of increased defense funds be voted by Congress next month. Recessed for the political conventions, the Senate will go back to work Aug. 8, the House Aug. 15.

It is taken for granted that Kennedy will be on hand personally to lead a fight for the defense spending hike he says is vital for national security.

Also on hand as the Senate's presiding officer will be Vice

VIOLENCE THREATENS

Airlifting U.N. Force To Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — A vast airlift of U.N. forces was in full swing Saturday night to the chaotic Congo, locked in a war of words between its new rulers and its former Belgian Masters.

mer Belgian Masters.

Violence between Negro crowds and Belgian soldiers threatened the capital as the U.N. vanguard of Negro soldiers from Ghana and Tunisia took up positions around the capital. More soldiers were on the way from Morocco and Ethopia to swell the U.N. force that ultimately may reach 6,000 men.

Congolese police, assigned by the U. N. to share police duties with Belgian soldiers in the capital, dispersed a crowd of several thousand Negroes in downtown Leopoldville. The crowd has been shouting insults at Belgian troops on patrol duty.

The crowd was angry because Belgium ignored an ultimatum Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba to pull its troops out of the Congo by 6 a.m.

Man Shoots Way Out Of Trap; 2 Dead, 2 Injured

COLTON, Calif. (UPI)—A youthful undercover agent banked on a "fast draw" early Saturday to shoot his way out of a trap, killing two would-be assailants and wounding two others, police said.

Kenneth Brown, 22, a San Bernardino County sheriff's officer, was lured into a car with the four men with an offer of a "fix". Brown accepted to obtain possible information but was later told by the men:

"We know you're a narc and we're going to get you."

FIRES 5 TIMES

Feeling what he believed to be a gun at his head, Brown reached quickly for his revolver. Drawing the weapon from his left hip pocket, he fired five times, striking both men in the front seat near him and the two in the back of the car. He suffered a minor wound when a fifth bullet went astray in the scuffle.

Colton Police Chief Wayne Gamble identified the dead men as Tony Romero, 25, Arlington, who died at County Hospital, and Florencio Samano, 21, Riverside, who was instantly killed. Critically wounded was Richard Morales, 24, Riverside.

Precautionary Trip Is Fatal

KINGSPORT Tenn (UPI) — A precautionary boat trip to get life jackets for children turned into tragedy Saturday when a 14-foot boat overturned and one man lost his life.

The Kingsport rescue squad was dragging the Fort Patrick Henry Lake Saturday night seeking the body of Jessie Bife, 22, of Kingsport.

THE BAND PLAYS ON

Phantom Drummer Eludes Vigilantes

BOREHAM WOOD, England (AP) — Police and civilian vigilantes tiptoed through town before dawn Saturday on the trial of the phantom drummer and his band that's been keeping folks awake at night. But the band vanished — just as it has on all the other nights.

It all started about a month back. First a bugler, dressed in a cloak, started bugling at 2:30 one morning — and the morning after and the morning after that.

Later a drummer, said to be dressed in white, joined in. They toured the area, the bugler and the drummer. They got no applause, only angry catcalls from sleepy people.

Then one night a bagpipe player joined the troupe. And then a cymbal player. Now the bagpipes, a bugle, a drum and cymbals don't go too well together, even when people are awake, so the cops were called. A combined cop-resident patrol was formed. But the band always got away.

"Every time we manage to get near them they run off." complained one civilian guard.

"The people must act quickly," said Robert Prior, who is getting rings around his eyes through lack of sleep. "Otherwise we'll have a full-strength band blasting us out of our sleep."

Rejects Red Influence In Its Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States won hemisphere backing Saturday for its Communists-keep-out stand and then accused Cuba of "economic and political aggression" against this country.

At a morning session, the Organization of American States lined up in rejection of Soviet interference in Western Hemisphere affairs.

A few hours later, the State Department in a note to the Cuban foreign office protested Cuba's new nationalization law and lodged its aggression charge. At the same time, it denounced Cuba treatment of U.S. news correspondents in the island republic, citing examples of newsmen being held without charges or expelled without explanation.

The government of Premier Fidel Castro now has pending before the United Nations a charge that the United States has committed economic aggression agains Cuba.

CITES LAW

The U.S. note claimed that the law providing for nationalization of American-owned property in Cuba amounts to seizure without any suitable compensation for the owners. It dismissed as impossible of fulfillment the act's provision for payment in the form of 30-year bonds and called the law "both arbitary and confiscatory."

The protest said the law admittedly was enacted in retaliation for cutbacks in the U.S. purchase of Cuban sugar. But, the note said, the sugar action was necessary because of Cuba's announced intention to increase sugar sales to other nations—notably those in the Soviet bloc—and the "hostile attitude" of the Castro regime.

The note said any use of the July 6 nationalization law "will be viewed by the government of the United States as further evidence and confirmation of a pattern of economic and political aggression against the United States under the guise and pretext of acceler-

U.S. Embassy In Mexico Guarded By Riot Police

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A detachment of riot police Saturday guarded the U.S. Embassy to protect it from possible attack by Communist and pro-Castro elements which have staged two anti - American demonstrations here this week.

Three persons, one of them a policeman, were hurt in a clash Friday night when some 200 Communist-led students left a peaceful anti-American rally and attacked the office of the daily newspaper Zocalo, which is anti-Communist.

SHOWERED

They showered some 500 policemen with stones, smashed windows, burned a truck and beat up bystanders. One policeman was cut by flying class.

An effigy of a policeman holding a machine gun was burned while the demonstrators milled around shouting anti-American and pro-Cuban slogans.

The anti-Communist press Saturday described the attack on the Zocalo office as "The biggest Communist aggression against free press" in Mexican history.

The president of the University Student Federation denounced the "vandalism" and demanded an investigation of "infiltration" of the federation by "professional agitators."

The federation had sponsored the rally by some 2,000 youths to protest against the United States policies on Cuba. The Red-led group broke away and attacked the Zocalo office.

ments, always jittery about the extent of public controversy over foreign affairs issues which may be generated in the heat of a great national election campaign. To them it may stand as a symbol of determination on the part of political rivals to minimize the impact of the domestic battle for ballots on this nation's position in the conflict with the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic officials here understand the purpose of the briefings is not to choke off political dispute over the conduct of foreign policy but to make certain that the basic facts of the spreading struggle with communism are known to the candidates as their debate develops.

Hagerty reminded reporters at Newport that the President's plan to keep the candidates informed follows a pattern of recent campaigns. Information was provided by Eisenhower in 1956 to Stevenson as it was by President Harry S. Truman in 1952 to candidate Eisenhower.

The dangers of the present situation are more comparable, however, to those of 1948 when the Truman-Dewey campaign was conducted in the midst of the Berlin blockade crisis.

One of the perils of the international horizon now is a new Berlin crisis. Khrushchev had shelved at least until next winter his Berlin dispute with the Western powers. But he threatened recently to revive the whole issue in September.

Prior to Saturday's announcement, Eisenhower had given assurances that the man elected president in November will be afforded every opportunity to familiarize himself with the office between then and his January inauguration.

President Richard M. Nixon who by that time will be—barring a political miracle—the Republican candidate for president.

The Kennedy proposal is almost certain to be supported in the Senate by his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Legislation providing for $39,996,608,000 in defense spending during the fiscal year which started July 1 already has been signed by Eisenhower. This is 661 million dollars more than he requested, so an administration fight against a hike of the size Kennedy wants is taken for granted.

The Eisenhower-Anderson conference may deal, however, with additional spending the administration does favor—to finance the President's goodwill aid program for Latin American nations. Eisenhower reportedly will ask next month for congressional approval of a special loan fund of perhaps a half billion dollars.

Another matter quite likely will be the administration's plans to announce next week a budget surplus of close to one billion dollars for the fiscal year which ended June 30. The Treasury in January had predicted a surplus of only about 200 million dollars.

Glenda Sue Mayes, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mayes 145 Washington St., West Monroe, was injured recently when she fell from an observation tower in Vicksburg, Miss.

She suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, contusions and lacerations of the head, arms and legs when she fell about 20 steps from the observation tower at Ft. Hill Memorial Cemetery in Vicksburg, her father said.

tional chairman, also joined with Butler in underscoring the party platform with its strong civil rights plank.

"Our nominees will campaign on this platform," he told the national committee. "They will do everything within their power to see that the pledges we have made to the American people are carried out."

Brady told the committee he did not feel he had the authority to sign the pledge without clearance from Gov. Ross Barnett and members of the Mississippi State Democratic Committee.

But he noted that Mississippi failed to support the Democratic ticket on only three occasions—when William Henry Harrison was elected, when U. S. Grant was elected when Gov. Fielding Wright ran for vice president on the States' Rights ticket in 1948.

When he mentioned the state's failure to support Grant after the Civil War, Brady added: "You can forgive us that."

He then told the committee that "if it is the will of the majority that I leave, I do so reluctantly."

Butler quickly broke in to say "No, there is no need for that at all."

Kennedy Set To Fight For Integration

the Republican presidential candidate "is going to be very vigorous."

He said he was "going to attempt to make a fight within what I consider the rules of fact." He made the statement when it was recalled that he had said previously he did not believe in making personal attacks on Nixon.

As for the August session of Congress, Kennedy said he hoped the Democratic-controlled legislature would be able to pass minimum wage, medical care and farm legislation. He noted that the minimum wage bill, which he will manage on the Senate floor, was ready for debate.

He endorsed a Democratic bill to provide medical care for the aged under a plan calling for financing by increased social security taxes. Both this bill and any Democratic farm legislation would be in danger of a veto by Eisenhower.

Kennedy stated fimly that he favors racial integration in such privately-owned public facilities as stores and restaurants. In contrast to Eisenhower, he felt the President actively should "use his influence" to help bring this about.

He declined to give a timetable for integrating all public schools. But he said "The President should associate himself with a great moral cause" and use his influence to help carry through court-ordered desegregation.

In general, Eisenhower has taken the position that Supreme Court school orders are the law of the land and should be obeyed. Negro groups maintain, however, that he has not taken a vigorous lead in supporting integration.

While Kennedy's news conference was underway, Southern resistance to a Democratic "loyalty pledge" collapsed in an atmosphere of North-South harmony. The threatened row fizzled out within the Democratic National Committee as it organized under its new chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Southern committee members signed the pledge, which binds them to support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in the November election despite the strong civil rights plank in the party platform. Some took the position that the pledge was not really an "oath."

The senator flies to Boston and then to his summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., on Cape Cod, Sunday for a brief vacation. He said he would spend next week with his family and then hold meetings the following week to discuss defense, farm policy and economic growth.

Asked whether he plans to campaign in the South or leave Southern stumping to Texan Johnson, Kennedy said he would travel as widely as possible "but I can't be expected to go everywhere."

Anti-Communist Purge In Cuba Regime Is Seen

HAVANA (AP) — A purge of anti-Communist and Roman Catholic students and professors at Havana University was predicted Saturday on the heels of the takeover of Cuba's largest institution of learning by Fidel Castro lieutenants.

On the board directing the university of 20,000 students were two bearded, pistol-toting majors in the Prime Minister's army, Rolando Cubela and Angel Quevedo. Cubela is head of the Federation of University Students and Quevedo is his lieutenant.

Cubela and Quevedo plus two other students and four professors—all dedicated revolutionists—were on the board that seized control early in the day as the climax of a long campaign to oust all professors opposed or lukewarm to Castro.

OPPONENTS

Opponents of the action predicted a witchhunt of students as well as professors after the takeover was announced at a mass meeting of students.

From his sanctuary in the Argentine Embassy, a prominent former professor at the university said Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos himself drafted the manifesto for taking over the university.

ating the social and economic progress of the Cuban people."

Officials explained to newsmen that up to now there had been no seizures under the new law, although much American property had been taken over prior to July 6.

A report from Havana told of the seizure of an Armour & Co. fertilizer plant at Matanzas, East of Havana, but it was not immediately clear what procedure was used.

Of about a billion dollars of American-owned property in Cuba, around 700 million dollars worth already has been seized or taken over for operation by the Cubans.

Although a formal vote is not scheduled until Monday, 17 of the 21 OAS member nations approved a Peruvian call for a meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers to consider the situation raised by Moscow's support of Cuba in its dispute with the United States.

Only two nations—Mexico and Venezuela—did not formally commit themselves during a calm meeting of the OAS Council. And they are generally expected to give their approval on Monday.

Even Cuba did not explicity reject the call for the ministerial meeting, contenting itself with maintaining that its charge of economic aggression by the United States rightfully had gone to the United Nations.

The council meeting came only two days after the United States warned the Soviet Union to keep its hands off the Western Hemisphere and reaffirmed adherence to the Monroe Doctrine, in the name of the American nations.

Peru, in asking the ministerial meeting, said it would be to "consider the pressing needs of continental solidarity, the defense of the regional system and of democratic principles before the menace that could affect them."

Peruvian Ambassador Juan Baustista de Lavalle, who made the request, said the details of the "menaces" could be spelled out in the formal agenda for the meeting. His call made no direct reference to Cuba or the Soviet Union.

In his speech to the council, however, he mentioned the designs of international communism and said the American nations are faced with a plan to subvert the liberty and democracy of the Americas.

U.S. Ambassador John C. Dreier said there is "growing evidence of the desire of the Soviet Union to intervene more directly in the affairs of this hemisphere." A "spectacular example," he added, is Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's July 9 threat of missile warfare.

"Likewise challenging to the inter-American system," Drier said, "is the action of the government of Cuba in taking charges against the government of the United States directly to the U.N. security council."

knew how it wanted to revamp the party's machinery.

The roster of the reorganized committee shows 41 new names—and many of those who departed were outside the Kennedy camp or allied with other contenders before the Massachusetts senator's first-ballot blitz here.

Butler leaves the chairmanship after 5½ years in which, at one time or another, he feuded with the Southern Democratic wing, the Truman crowd, and other party elements.

In taking the rostrum, Kennedy gave one more sign he's grasping the campaign reins firmly.

The presidential nominee said he believes it has been a mistake in the past to have separate campaign organizations run by the committee and by the standard bearers.

"This year we hope to run it through the national committee," Kennedy said, leaving no doubt who will have the final say in the conduct of the campaign.

He called on Democrats to present a united front in the campaign.

"With your help we're going to win," he said.

Kennedy also recommended Margaret Price of Ann Arbor, Mich., for the committee vice chairmanship in charge of women's affairs. The committee assented.

One former official who stayed on was Matt McCloskey, the party's fund-raising treasurer. McCloskey is a Philadelphia contractor.

The elevation of Mrs. Price —a close associate of politically potent Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan—meant the easing out of Katie Louchheim, who has been the national committee's women's director for seven years.

However, Mrs. Louchheim will work in the Kennedy-Johnson campaign with a title and specific job yet to be announced.

Jackson followed Kennedy's wishes and appointed Larry O'Brien of Springfield, Mass., as executive director.

The new chairman also announced that his administrative assistant, John L. Salter of Everett, Wash., and Clarence D. Martin Jr. of Santa Monica, Calif., would be his assistants in the party organization.

tion when he was barred from the Hollywood amusement park for security reasons.

Marquand won the Pulitzer Prize in 1938 for his first best seller, "The Late George Apley," the story of a Victorian Bostonian being dragged into the 20th Century.

It was the high point, in a literary sense, of a career that began in 1921 when Marquand abandoned newspaper reporting (Boston Transcript and New York Herald Tribune) and advertising copy writing to become a fiction writer.

In 1922 he published "The Unspeakable Gentleman" serially in the Ladies Home Journal. Its success determined his course and from then on Marquand wrote almost entirely of Boston and New England which he knew intimately.

The popular writer was twice married and twice divorced. He had two children by his first wife and three by the second.

303 Persons On Flight From Congo

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A Sabena Boeing 707 landed in Brussels Saturday night from Leopoldville with 303 persons on board. It made the flight in one hop.

There were 293 passengers, mostly women and children.

A crew member said, "I am pretty sure this was the largest number of persons ever transported by air on any one flight. Certainly it is a world record for a 4,350-mile flight."

The State Department was criticized then for not foreseeing and forestalling the unpleasantness. But, it was understood, Rubottom was stoutly defended by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, and was not called on the carpet.

The assistant secretary came in for a much more direct and rougher going-over in February of this year for his part in the Caryl Chessman case. He sent to Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California a telegram from Uruguayan officials saying they feared demonstrations against President Eisenhower if Chessman were executed prior to the President's goodwill trip to South America.

Brown subsequently granted a 60-day reprieve to the so-called "red light bandit" who was executed at the end of that stay but not until after the President's trip had been completed.

Rubottom was roundly criticized in Congress for sending the message to Brown and there were demands that he be removed then.

DEMO PARTY MACHINERY

Kennedy Firmly In Control Now

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John F. Kennedy laid firm hands on the Democratic party machinery Saturday and all but said he also intends to become a take-charge man in next month's abbreviated congressional session.

The Massachusetts senator was conducting mopping-up operations on the scene of his winning battle for the party presidential nomination. Sunday he shifts his command post to his Hyannisport, Mass., home for a fortnight. He will confer there with party leaders on such issues as economic growth, national defense and farm policy.

Kennedy said that "the field of foreign policy is going to be the key to this campaign" now looming ahead. And he accepted a measure of opposition help in that area—an offer by President Eisenhower to keep him posted on foreign policy developments, as has been the custom now every election year.

The new presidential nominee installed Sen. Henry M. Jackson, 48, of Washington, as the new chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Kennedy scurried from a breakfast of party leaders to a news conference and on to a meeting of the national committee.

The news conference was the first full-scale one he had held since he captured the party nomination Wednesday night. It was far-ranging but it left a good many questions unanswered or answered only in generalities.

Kennedy said he wanted more time to consider matters of national policy before going into details on them.

But he did say he will confer with a quartet of Democratic leaders in Congress before the Senate meets again Aug. 8 and try to work out a program for a three-week session.

The consultants will be Johnson; Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Senate leader; House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas; and the House majority leader, Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts.

Kennedy thus cast himself in a new role in the legislative halls and underscored the degree to which he is taking over as head of the Democratic party.

The forthcoming session will be something of a political freak, with Kennedy and Johnson in key spots and the prospective Republican nominee for the White House Vice President Richard M. Nixon, sitting up in front with gavel in hand. Also there will be the rival national chairmen, Jackson and Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky.

No, Kennedy told reporters, he doesn't think the presence of a trio of national candidates might hurt the chances of getting legislation through. In fact, he said, with both himself and Johnson on the Senate floor, it may be easier to get things done because "we both are committed to a program of action."

Kennedy indicated he doesn't intend to pull many punches at Nixon.

On that point, he told newsmen: "Let's make it clear. This campaign is going to be a very vigorous one."

Nixon has taken a more prominent role in the government than any previous vice president. So Kennedy was asked whether he would give a ccomparable role to Johnson.

"I hope I could make more effective use of him than the President has of Nixon," the senator replied.

Kennedy denied that the impetus for putting Johnson in second place on the Democratic ticket came from the Texan. He said it was his own idea, that he personally made the offer, and Johnson accepted.

Johnson was given a chance to back down, he said, when word got around that there might be a floor fight against him. But he said Johnson still was willing to be nominated. Some of the party liberals had objected, futilely, to making Johnson the vice-presidential nominee.

As for the upcoming congressional session, Kennedy will be in personal charge of a bill to boost the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour and expand coverage. He said he hopes that will get through, along with another to boost farm income and one to provide medical care for oldsters through the Social Security system.

Kennedy felt it would be premature to discuss the matter. He said he had made no decisions and figured it would be unwise to do so now.

Once again Kennedy spoke highly of Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee in 1952 and 1956. He had said previously that any Democratic nominee should consider Stevenson for secretary of state.

And Saturday he said he had asked Stevenson and Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, a former ambassador to India, to serve as liaison men with the Eisenhower administration in keeping him abreast of foreign policy affairs.

But Kennedy said he has no commitment to Stevenson on the Cabinet post and hasn't offered it to him.

IN CAMPAIGN

Kennedy Slates Open Door Policy

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy promised party leaders Saturday that his White House campaign will be run through their national committee headquarters on an open-door policy.

The 43-year-old senator, in a prelude to the election of Sen. Henry M. Jackson as the new Democratic National Chairman, also said that outgoing party chief Paul M. Butler had not favored his cause over that of his rivals.

"My regard for him would not be what it is if I thought he had helped me in any way to receive the nomination," Kennedy told the applauding national committee.

Kennedy and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, his vice presidential running mate, were presented to the new committee by Butler just before Jackson took over the chairmanship.

Johnson promised to be "loyal and dedicated to the leader of our party and to the program he advocates." He told fellow Democrats he had assured Kennedy he would "work my fingernails off" in the campaign ahead.

Butler told a news conference later Kennedy's decision to make the national committee his campaign headquarters "warmed my heart." He said the committee in 1956 was "deprived" of that function.

Jackson, a 48-year-old Lutheran and the first Protestant chairman of the National Committee since pre-New Deal days, also paid tribute to Butler. He said Butler had put the party in a "first-class fighting shape to conduct a campaign that will sweep us to victory."

"Our nominees will campaign on this platform," he promised. "They will do everything within their power to see that the pledges we have made to the American people are carried out."

The committee gave Butler more than $1,500 in checks and cash and suggested he "catch the next boat for whatever part of the world" he wanted to visit for a needed rest.

Kennedy told the committee the 1956 "mistake" of operating two campaign headquarters will not be repeated. "We plan to run this campaign through the national committee," he said.

Then, assuring them his door always will be open to them he added:

"I hope you realize your counsel and suggestions will always be welcome to me and to Senator Johnson. If we fail, you fail and if we succeed, you succeed."

Mitchell was returning from a fishing trip, and apparently had a heart attack.

Newspaper Says Downed Plane Spotting Bases

LONDON (AP) — The Sunday Dispatch said Saturday the American RB47 plane shot down by the Russians July 1 was trying to pinpoint missile bases on the Soviet Union's arctic coast.

Without giving the source of its reports the paper claimed the plane had spotted three of the bases when Soviet fighters shot it down. It said one of the bases is planned as the launching spot for a Soviet spy-in-the-sky satellite to be sent over radar bases in Alaska, Canada and Greenland later this year.

The paper said air probes were ordered by American defense chiefs to find out where and when the spy satellite would be launched. It said the RB47 was sent up because it could probe the area without violating Soviet air space.

Two Primaries Set Saturday

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana has two party primaries Saturday as Democrats select three nominees for congress and Republicans choose a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Former Gov. Earl K. Long, attempting a comeback after his disastrous race for lieutenant governor, is in the Democratic race for Congress drawing most general interest.

In the Eighth Congressional District, Long is trying to unseat Rep. Harold McSween. Former State Rep. Ben Holt, once a legislative lieutenant of Long, is the third man in the race.

The state's 8,588 Republicans will hold a statewide primary to allow George W. Reese Jr. and William Dane, both of New Orleans, to fight for the Senate nomination. The winner will meet incumbent Sen. Allen J. Ellender in the November general election.

Most parishes will be unable to provide enough Republican poll commissioners to properly conduct the primary. Orleans, Jefferson and a few other large parishes will be able to supply enough commissioners.

Republicans in five of the eight congressional districts nominated candidates to challenge Democrats in the general election. Only three congressional districts have contests in the Democratic primary.

Saturday's congressional races:

Third — Incumbent Edwin E. Willis, St. Martinville, meets J. Minos Simon, Lafayette. Republican Floyd J. Duplantis, Houma, will meet the winner in the general election.

Seventh — Incumbent T. A. Thompson, Ville Platte, is opposed by former State Sen. Arsene L. Stewart, DeRidder, and Sam Tarleton, commissioner of health and safety at Lake Charles.

Eighth — Incumbent McSween meets Long and Holt.

First — Incumbent F. Edward Hebert is the Democratic nominee and Norman W. Prendergast, New Orleans, is the Republican.

Fourth — Incumbent Overton Brooks is the Democratic nominee and Fred C. McClanahan, Shreveport, the Republican.

Fifth — Incumbent Otto E. Passman, Monroe, Democrat, has no Republican opposition.

Democratic registration in Louisiana totaled 11,116,759 at the latest count. Republican registration has dropped more than 1,000 in the last four years from 9,811 in 1956.

There also is one Democratic contest for thhe state supreme court and several other state posts to be filled. A scattering of municipal primaries will be held.

Judge Robert D. Jones, first circuit court of appeal, and Judge Joe W. Sanders of the East Baton Rouge Parish family court seeking the Supreme Court seat from the Fifth District. The winner will fill the unexpired term of the late Justice Amos Lee Ponder of Amite. The term ends Dec. 31, 1964.

John J. McKeithen, public service commissioner, of Columbia, is opposed in his bid for reelection by L. S. Hooper of Shreveport. There is no Republican opposition.

Three seats on the State Board of Education are to be filled from the Sixth and Seventh Congressional districts and the Third Public Service District.

William J. Dodd, former lieutenant governor and comptroller, opposes incumbent Merle M Welch in the Sixth Congressional District. The winner will meet Mrs. Mary Helen Stracener, Republican, in the general election

Dr. Boyd M. Woodward of Lake Charles and Fulton Bacon of Basile are competing in the seventh congressional district to succeed Alfred E. Roberts of Lake Charles who did not seek reelection.

In the third race, incumbent C. Raymond Heard, Ruston, is opposed by Joe D. Waggoner Jr., Plain Dealing, in the third public service commission district fight.

District attorney and judgeship posts in 31 judicial districts will be filled. There are 60 judgeships but only 19 are contested.

Only 12 of the 31 district attorney posts are contested.

Elections to fill parish school boards are scheduled in each parish except Orleans and the city of Lake Charles. In Jefferson Parish, 4 persons are seeking one seat. Some 497 candidates are seeking 231 posts over the state.

Baton Rouge is the only large urban area scheduled to elect municipal officials. The posts of mayor-president and councilmen will be filled. Four Negroes are will be filled. Four egroes are seeking city-parish offices.

ENROUTE HOME

La. Conventioners Uncertain Of Ticket

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS

LOS ANGELES — Delegates to the Democratic National Convention for the most part were enroute home Saturday uncertain as to how the country will accept the Kennedy-Johnson ticket and the platform on which they stand.

They departed with ringing claims of victory made by the first all Senatorial National party ticket in history ringing in their ears. Those claims were made Friday night by Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts, presidential nominee, and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the vice presidential ticket mate.

On the whole the Democratic mood was hopeful. There was little of the defeatist attitude of two or three days ago. National convention delegates are nearly always optimists, whatever their party may be. So perhaps the prevailing opinion of the delegates was that they could elect the ticket, but it won't be easy.

The delegates gave the nominees their hand but hardly enthusiastically gave them their heart and that may be the reason for the cautious attitude of the men and women who named the ticket.

PROBABLY UNNOTABLE

The convention is not likely to go down in history as one of the notable ones. The speeches were routine efforts pointing out all the virtues of the Democrats and all the sins of the Republican, just as those of the other party in Chicago two weeks hence will be in derogation of the Democrats and praise of the Republicans.

The voters expect Democratic orators to say that all Democrats are better than Republicans and for Republicans to low rate Democrats.

There was no blood-letting here. Not even the smell of battle like say the Wilson-Clark Democratic ruckus at Baltimore in 1912 or the Eisenhower-Taft Republican show at Chicago in 1952.

The best bit of oratory was in a lost cause — the speech of Sesator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota in nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson and the demonstration by the Stevenson zealots which followed will rank with some of the great convention scenes of the past, yet it was a gallery and not a delegate outburst.

Undoubtedly the convention most easily compared with this one was that held by the Democrats at Houston in 1928. Like that convention which nominated Smith, a Catholic, to run against Hoover, a Quaker, this one nominated Kennedy, a Catholic, to run against Nixon, a Quaker.

And just as in 1928 the presidential candidate picked the Senate Democratic Leader, Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, to be his vice presidential ticket mate, so did Senator Kennedy tap Senator Leader Lyndon B. Johnson here.

ONLY SURPRISE

The Johnson nomination was the one real surprise of the convention. It would require columns of newspaper type to summarize all the "absolutely inside" versions extant why Johnson agreed to give up the second most powerful political post in the national government if the ticket wins in November to accept one which as far as the constitution is concerned is restricted in presiding over the Senate and voting in case of a tie.

The situation originally seemed to call for a vice presidential nominee from the farm states as that is where Kennedy was believed to need help most.

Admittedly there was a paucity of attractive availables in the midwest farm belt and the civil rights plank inflicted gashes on the south. Vice presidential candidate Johnson is depended upon to carry Texas, which most of the convention's high command considered a gone gosling if Johnson was not somewhere in the ticket. And he is counted on to help elsewhere in Dixie.

In a close race, which the most optimistic Democrat thinks this will be, Texas with its 24 electoral votes, or even a smaller state, could be the margin of victory. Then there is the fact that in nearly all cases the man who ran first and the man who ran second make a dream ticket.

There is little dispute that the convention adopted the most radical platform in American major party history and there will be much interest in whether the Republicans will try to go the Democrats better, especially on civil rights.

The odds are that the Republicans, highly hopeful of carrying Florida, Virginia and some other southern states, will take a more moderate stance.

But if not much happened to keep the delegates jumping in a convention hall that had empty gallery seats, row on row, nobody here will ever forget the relentless, indefatigable drive of Senator John F. Kennedy to victory, conducted before caucuses in meetings with state leaders and on individual delegates.

Everything helped Kennedy — even the rumors. Most of which were that alone. Stevenson was going to nominate Kennedy, Symington was going to withdraw.

Unless there is a platform fight the Chicago Republican show is likely to be more tepid than this Democratic conclave.

Don't sell the congressional session after the conventions short. Both ends of the Democratic ticket will be in the Senate chamber at that time. So will vice president Nixon, as the Republican presidential nominee. And if Senator Thurston B. Morton or some other senator is the vice presidential nominee, both tickets could be gathered there. And that would be the greatest legislative political show ever staged.

Butler Happy With Platform Of Democrats

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Retiring Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee said Saturday the party's convention vindicated past efforts to put the party on record for a bold civil rights program.

He recalled at a news conference that since the last convention in 1956 an advisory council of the committee has been advocating a strong party position against racial discrimination.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, now the vice-presidential nominee, had refused to serve on the council. He criticized the civil rights position taken by the council — a position urged by Butler himself.

Butler said adoption of a strong civil rights plank in the 1960 platform, the nomination of Johnson for the vice presidency and Johnson's endorsement of the platform provided the vindication.

Sarmatia is the ancient name of Poland.

Intergrationist Giving Up Try To Mix In South

DALLAS, Tex (AP) — A California minister who led three lunch counter sit-in demonstrations here last spring said he's given up his anti-discrimination campaigns in the South for the time being.

The Rev. Ashton Jones of Los Angeles passed through Dallas en route home after two months in jail at Shreveport, La.

The Rev. Mr. Jones was sentenced to eight months there in May for vagrancy and disturbing the peace. He had asked service in a Negro cafe.

He and a Dallas Negro minister conducted successful sit-in demonstrations here in May at three department store food counters.

"I have no assurance I can travel with safety in the South," The Rev. Mr. Jones said. "My civil rights were trampled in Shreveport, and I see no indication I would be treated differently elsewhere."

WAYCROSS, Ga. (UPI) — A speeding car swerved out of control on a curve of U.S. 82 and slammed head-on into another car Saturday killing a Baptist minister, his wife and young daughter and two Negroes.

The drivers of both cars and a passenger were killed instantly by the terrific impact that demolished both vehicles.

State troper W. E. Peacock identified the victims as the Rev. Rance Richardson, 37, Rt. 1, Screven, his wife, Sue, 35, and daughter, Barbara Ann, 3, and Negroes Johnny Lee Green, 24, Rt. 3, Nichols, and John Benton McCloud, 23, Rt. 3, Waycross.

Another passenger with McCloud in the car driven by Green, Ira Lee Hudson, 46, Rt. 3, Waycross, was taken to Waycross Memorial Hospital with serious injuries.

"It was one of the worst wrecks I've ever seen," said Peacock. "Both cars were completely torn up."

He said witnesses reported that Richardson was driving about 35 miles per hour when Green's car, traveling at "a high rate of speed," swerved around a curve, some three miles east of here, and slammed into the minister's car around 10 a.m.

Peacock said the car containing the Negroes, on their way to work at a Waycross pulpwood mill, was in Richardson's lane at the time of the crash. "Richardson's car had turned slightly indicating he was trying to avoid the collision but just didn't have time," said Peacock.

Ask Volunteers For Congo Duty

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A former leader of equality demonstrations here asked American Negro youths Saturday to volunteer their services to the Congo.

Marvin Robinson, Gary, Ind., made the request at a political rally of students. He said he was sending a message to President Eisenhower asking that volunteer arrangements be made, apparently through the United Nations, for Negroes to aid the infant republic.

Robinson was president of the student body at the predominently Negro Southern University here until ousted from the university last spring for his part in student boycotts.

The political rally was called to encourage students to take part in a planned drive to register some 30,000 Negro voters in East Baton Rouge Parish and help in getting out the Negro vote in the July 23 party primaries.

Robinson told the students since his ouster he has been offered admission to several major universities and he is working during the summer for the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE).

Several other student leaders expelled from the university after the equality demonstrations attended the rally.

Two of them, Janette Hoston and Major John, said they liked the Africa assistance idea and wanted to go. Several students in the Southern University summer school indicated a desire to join the volunteer group.

"We are going to ask the national government," Robinson told the students, "and we ask you to help. . .to follow me or someone else."

He indicated the invitation was aimed at all American Negroes.

"We are Americans first and Negroes second." Robinson said. "We cannot send troops." But he said young educated American Negroes could offer their services to help the two-week-old republic, the Congo, get started.

Robinson said some of the students had offered before to go to Africa, but they could not because they did not have college degrees.

Even without degrees, he said they could be of service to the Congo because they have some education.

"Why couldn't we be allowed to help the illiterates?" he asked.

"We are asking all to give services," he said. "We have the requirements to go. Students of government could help them set up their governments.

"Let some of us go," he said. "Let some of us be shining examples of democract."

Samual Carter, 21-year-old Southern University senior, served as chairman of the political rally for four Negro candidates for local office here.

The speakers emphasized helping Africa with Negro talent was only phase in their non-violent integration movement throughout the country.

"By September," Johns told the students, "no one will be able to turn back whether he wants to or not."

Soviets Order Production Of Better Goods

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Communist party Central Committee Saturday told consumer goods producers to come up within three months with a plan for more production of better goods.

The urgency of the order from the committee, which has been meeting here since July 13, indicated increased insistence of the population for more things to eat and wear and to use around the house.

Another hurry-up order was given to factory managers to come up with a plan in six months for a sharp increase in modernization and automation.

The actions of the committee were reported in a special evening edition of Pravda. Nearly three full pages outlined party resolutions and findings, ranging all the way from claims of greatly increased industrial production of cloth, knitted goods, clothes, shoes, food, automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and other household goods.

Party organizations also were told to get busy to see that more houses and apartments are built, and that transport on land, sea, air and rivers is improved.

Story About Sen. Johnson Flatly Denied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy said flatly Saturday that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was his own choice for a vice-presidential running mate.

He said he put the proposal to Johnson himself.

Denying as "wholly untrue" a published story that a virtual demand for the spot came to him from Johnson, Kennedy told his first news conference as the Democratic presidential nominee that he had been thinking about Johnson assignment for a long time.

His headquarters previously had denied the story.

Kennedy said his thinking crystallized Wednesday night and Thursday morning, after he had won the top nomination. The nominee said he carried it to Johnson in a visit to the Texas senator's hotel suite Thursday morning.

He said he asked Johnson if he would be "willing" to take the nomination and Johnson agreed.

The report of a Johnson demand for the assignment was in a story written by Publisher John S. Knight for the Knight chain of newspapers.

Quoting a "dependable source," Knight wrote that the word of what Johnson wanted was first given to Robert F. Kennedy, the nominee's brother, when Robert visited Johnson's headquarters the morning after the presidential nomination was decided.

The story said Johnson advised the younger Kennedy that he was prepared to fight on the floor for the assignment.

Robert Kennedy, surprised, hurried the word to his brother, the story went on, and the presidential nominee sped to Johnson's office for confirmation. The account said Johnson repeated what he had told Robert.

Knight related that his source said that after several hours of consideration there was a "capitulation" by the Kennedy forces, at least in part on the ground they could not afford a party-splitting fight with Johnson.

In the face of earlier denials by both the Kennedy and Johnson camps, Knight stuck to the account of basic facts but conceded there might have been some error as to the order in which the events took place.

In the news conference Saturday, Sen. Kennedy gave his version of the matter of a floor fight.

He said Robert Kennedy advised him there might be a floor fight if Johnson's name were proposed in the party convention.

There were ultraliberals in the convention who were holding out to the last — in the face of Kennedy's own announcement of his choice Thursday — against Johnson's nomination. The parliamentary device by which the Johnson nomination was put through by acclamation apparently was all that headed off some form of floor protest.

There still were holdouts against Johnson in the delegations room the District of Columbia, Wisconsin, Michigan and reportedly some other states. They never got a chance when the convention roared its approval of the motion by House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts for suspension of the rules and nomination by voice.

Kennedy said he advised Johnson of Robert Kennedy's forecast of possible trouble, and told Johnson he would understand if Johnson pulled out rather than set off a convention fight.

He said Johnson replied that he was willing to go ahead. Kennedy added that on that basis he announced his pick an hour before the convention session which ratified it Thursday night.

With respect to his thinking about Johnson on the ticket with him, Kennedy said among other things that he had considered it all along to be desirable to get as much strength as possible behind the party's new program.

"I always felt Sen. Johnson had secured an important segment of strength," Kennedy said.

Gandhi, in India, said: "Monotony is the law of nature. Look at the monotonous manner in which the sun rises."

Elvis Presley's Father Marries At Huntsville

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Singer Elvis Presley's father, Vernon E. Presley, and a blue-eyed divorcee, Davada (Dee) Elliott, were married 13 days ago in Huntsville, Ala., and are honeymooning here.

"We're very happy." Presley told newsmen Saturday. "We're both old enough to know what we want."

"I think that shows," his bride concurred.

They said they were married July 3 by Judge Harry L. Pennington. It had been known that the license was issued by Pennington, but efforts to confirm that the wedding had taken place were unsuccessful until Saturday.

The bridegroom's famous son did not attend the wedding. Elvis had said he was happy his widowed father was marrying again, but that he would not go to their wedding for fear his fans would cause a distraction.

Elvis' mother died Aug. 14, 1958, in Memphis, Tenn., their home. The new Mrs. Presley, former wife of an Army Sergeant, met Vernon Presley 18 months ago in Germany while he was visiting his son, stationed there with the Army.

Mrs. Presley has three children, Billy, 7; Ricky, 6, and David, 5. She was born in Nashville. Tenn.

Morton Says Demo Ticket Incompatible

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton charged Saturday the Kennedy - Johnson Democratic ticket was the "most incompatible in the history of either party."

Morton, arriving to help set up next week's GOP national convention, called a news conference for mid-afternoon, but said before that the Democratic convention which just concluded "should go down in history as one of the worst examples of the functioning of our political system."

"It was so completely in control of a power-hungry, well-neeied organization that it completely crushed any and all opposition," he said.

Morton, a senator from Kentucky and former State Department official now being boomed for vice presidential nomination, described Sen. John F. Kennedy's attack on Vice President Richard M. Nixon as a "brutal hatchet job."

"Kennedy took the low road to what he calls the 'new frontier,'" Morton said. "If this attack is indicative of the course the Democrats are going to take in this campaign, he has already set a regrettable example."

Morton said former president Truman could not "stomach" the Democratic meeting in Los Angeles and that Adlai E. Stevenson, two-time Democratic candidate, was a "pathetic figure trying to buck the Kennedy steamroller."

Morton said Senators Hubert Humphrey and Stuart Symington, and Governors Robert Meyner of New Jersey and Orville Freeman of Minnesota were assigned roles as "spear carriers."

"It's going to take a long time to get used to seeing (Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson) playing second-fiddle to the youth upon whom he heaped scorn and ridicule," Morton said.

Morton had said earlier that a Republican ticket paring Nixon with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would be "very formidable indeed."

He said, however, that he would not force Rockefeller to accept the vice presidential nomination.

"Draft Rockefeller" headquarters., meanwhile, said it was receiving a "heavy volume" of telegrams, some from "influential Southern Democrats," supporting Rockefeller.

In Valley Forge, Pa., Harold Stassen said he had no comment on reports he might nominate Rockefeller for the presidency. He said, though, that it was "well known" he thought Rockefeller would "be a better president and therefore a better candidate than Nixon."

"I have known both men a good many years," Stassen said. "I have been on the liberal side of the Republican Party all my life and I feel that with Rockefeller we would move forward to meet world conditions."

KATANGA PREMIER SAYS

New Federation May Be Formed

ELISABETHVILLE Katanga—(UPI)—Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe said Saturday that his mineral-rich province, which has seceded from the Congo, may be joined in a federation by two other Congolese provinces and the territories of Ruanda-Urundi.

The Premier said he planned to go to Brussels to confer with the Belgian King Baudouin, whom he hoped would support his independence program. and then fly to New York to see United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Tshombe told newsmen he had received requests from leaders of Kasai Province and a section of Kivu Province boardering on Katanga suggesting that they federate with Katanga after they, too, break off from the Congo Republic.

A similar request, Tshombe claimed, has come from leaders in the Ruanda and Urundi territories, which are still administered by Belgium under a United Nations mandate.

Ruanda and Urundi, home of the frequently feuding Watutsi and Bahutu tribes, borders on the Kivu province.

Tshome named only one leader with whom he said he had been in contact. He referred to Albert Kalonji, uncrowned King of the Baluba tribesmen in Kasai, a diamond-rich province.

Kalonji is a bitter rival of central government Premier Patrice Lumumba. Nothing had been heard of him since the troubles began in the Congo July 5.

Kalonji, 31, was a founding member of the National Congolese Movement Party in July, 1959. He broke with Lumumba a year ago and formed his own wing of the party, claiming that Lumumba was "acting like a dictator." Lumumba completely excluded Kalonji from the Congo's first government.

Tshombe also said Saturday he had been in touch with U.N. authorities in Leopoldville and repeated his warning to U.N. troops to stay out of "independent" Katanga.

He said he expected the U. N. chief delegate to the Congo to come to Katanga "within a matter of hours" to discuss the province's independence.

Tshombe said several tribal chiefs of the Katanga "had come voluntarily to Elisabethville to express their solidarity with my declaration of independence." These chiefs, he added, represented some 100,000 inhabitants.

BY KENNEDY

Foreign Policy Importance Cited

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, said Saturday that foreign policy is going to be the key to the election campaign.

He expressed the hope that Adlai E. Stevenson, whom he reportedly may name as secretary of state if he is elected, will intimately associate himself with shaping the party's foreign policy position for the campaign.

Kennedy spoke at a breakfast meeting that marked the Democrats' first work session for the congressional and presidential election campaigns. He was accompanied by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the party's vice-presidential nominee.

The breakfast was sponsored by the House and Senate Democratic Campaign committees and the 750 Club, composed of party members who contributed $1,000 each to pay off the party's debts.

Kennedy called the meeting symbolic of the cooperation that he said is going to exist between the House and the Senate, and himself and Johnson.

"Control of the House and the Senate is nothing without the control of the White House," Kennedy said in stressing the top-to-bottom campaign the Democrats will wage.

"We want the total responsibility," he said.

Kennedy went on to say that. "The field of foreign policy is going to be the key to his campaign."

He added that no one has given more time and study to this than Stevenson, the 1952-56 Democratic presidential nominee.

"We hope he will work with us not just in making speeches, but also will associate himself intimately with us in making judgments on the problems we face," Kennedy said.

"This election can be a turning point," he added.

Kennedy entered the room while Stevenson himself was in the midst of a brief speech. Stevenson said "I view this election as something of a crisis for our country, for reasons that are apparent to all of you."

Later Stevenson recalled the remark of Republican President Theodore Roosevelt about talking softly but carrying a big stick. He said the slogan of the present Republican President is, "Don't talk while I am putting."

Johnson said that in the coming election the Democrats are going to put an end to the divided government that has existed with the Democrats in control of Congress and the Republicans the White House.

"We are going to the American people with our ranks closed and a united front," he said.

Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee said that in Kennedy and Johnson the party has "a perfectly balanced ticket."

After an active morning Kennedy headed for seclusion at the home of his sister, Mrs. Peter Lawford, wife of the actor.

Kennedy told reporters he would receive no visitors and transact no business, but would spend the afternoon and evening reading and resting after a swim in the Lawford pool.

Truck Driver Critically Hurt In Accident

JONESVILLE (Special) — A Shreveport truck driver was critically injured yesterday afternoon when his vehicle went off the side of the road, struck a culvert and turned over about four miles west of here on U.S. Highway 84.

John Tobias, who is employed by a Shreveport oil company, was first taken to a local clinic and late last night transferred to a Shreveport hospital. He was suffering from a fractured skull and chest injuries, attendants here said.

Investigating officers said the accident occurred when the truck driven by Tobias slipped off the highway onto the shoulder of the road. Police believed he could not cut the wheels back onto the highway, because the truck was heavily loaded with pipe.

The truck reportedly traveled 150 feet on the shoulder of the road before striking the culvert and overturning. Some of the pipe reportedly fell across the cab of the truck, completely demolishing it. Tobias was lying in front of the vehicle when officers arrived.

He had been taking the load of pipe from Shreveport to Wildsville.

McSween Says 'Ashamed Of Demo Party'

WINNFIELD (Special)—Eighth district congressman Harold B. McSween, in a campaign speech here Saturday said "I am ashamed of the democratic party for accepting a civil rights plank as they did."

"I can't accept that any more than I can the 1954 decision on school desegration."

McSween made his first Winnfield speech in his bid for reelection at 3 p.m. Saturday and held himself up as a "good, Southern Democrat."

He contended that his opponents were conducting a villification campaign against him, but did not call the names of former Gov. Earl K. Long and former Rapides Parish State Representative Ben Holt at this point.

Following his speech, McSween told a reporter that his opponents were conducting a desperation campaign."

Holt spoke earlier in Winnfield Saturday, and contended that Long "isn't able to help the district no matter how much he may want to."

The first primary is next Saturday.

The lone survivor of an early morning shotgun shooting last Wednesday which cost the lives of four Monroe Negroes was reportedly resting well at the St. Francis Hospital yesterday.

Charlie Willis, of Calypso Street, whose name was first given as Willie Charlie Gibson, was seemingly in fair condition. The name (Gibson) was given to a Morning World reporter by deputies of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department.

Robert Fuller, of the Ticheli Road, south of Monroe was free after posting a $25,000 bond, on a charge of manslaughter. He admitted shooting the Negroes after they came to his home armed with knives, and reportedly threatened him.

Three Separate Robberies Net Bandits $140

WINNSBORO (Special) — Three local cafes were burglarized sometime early yesterday morning with thieves netting a total of about $140 from two of the places and apparently nothing from the other.

The Carter Drive-In Restaurant, Stringer's A and W Sandwich Shop and the Henry Ball Cafe all reported entries.

According to the Franklin Parish Sheriff's Department and the city police, who are investigating the incidents, a screen was pulled loose from the kitchen window of the Drive-In to allow entry. A juke box inside was forced open and money was taken from it.

At the A and W, the back door had been taken off its hinges by the use of a screwdriver and change was reportedly taken from two pin ball machines and a juke box.

Apparently nothing was taken from the Henry Ball Cafe. Entry there was gained by forcing open a window.

Local authorities were still investigating the burglaries late last night.

TWO MONROE BUSINESSES

$130 Is Taken In Burglaries

Two Monroe businesses were hit by burglars late Friday night or early yesterday morning according to reports from the Monroe Police Department.

The offices of the Jim Walter Corp., 2004 Louisville Ave., were hit for approximately $100 in cash, while thieves took about $30 from the Dairy Queen at 1610 DeSiard St.

Investigating officers said entry to the construction company's offices were gained through a window on the south side of the building.

The thieves took the money from desk drawers in the main office, according to reports by company officials.

An estimated $3 or $4 in stamps were also reported missing, police said.

Company officials said the burglary was discovered at 7:30 yesterday morning.

J. T. Rupel, who operates the Dairy Queen, said someone entered his place of business by prying loose a window in which a fan was secured.

Officers said the party or parties apparently went between the blades of the fan to make their entry.

A desk drawer inside the place was found forced open yesterday morning and about $30 missing. A small crowbar which police believe was used to force open the desk drawer was found at the scene.

Police late yesterday were still searching for the person or persons committing the offenses.

SPLINTERY FENCE

Mexico's Position In Cuba Situation

By JOHN C. MERRILL

MEXICO CITY — It seems that with the worsening of the U.S.-Cuban situation, Mexico has found herself sitting astride her proverbial fence. Only this time one feels that she is finding it full of splinters.

After a leading senator here recently made a speech declaring that Mexico was with Cuba in the "struggle" against the U.S., most newspapers of this capital city editorialized favorably. From the press and from conversations with enlightened Mexicans here and there, it was easy to see that public opinion was certainly with Castro.

PRAISE MEXICANS

In Cuba voices were raised in praise of their Mexican ally in their struggle against the U. S. In Mexico the press played up the Cuban reaction and seemed to reveal in the fact that the U.S. appeared to be getting into hot water in this hemisphere.

President Lopez Mateos came out in the midst of all this with a statement to the effect that Mexico was "a third force" and that the government was "neither with the imperialism of the U.S. nor with the imperialism of the U.S.S.R." And notice that word "imperialism." It is not really difficult to see what the Mexican government officially thinks of the U.S.

All the while Mexican diplomats here keep talking of friendship between the U.S. and Mexico. And all the while they keep condoning and even praising Cuba's recent actions. Surely Mexico straddles her fence.

And to make matters more confusing, there is increasing talk here about Mexico's "extreme left" position. On July 12 General Alfonso Corona del Rosol, head of the ruling Revolutionary Institutional party, amplified recent statements that the Mexican Government idealogically stands to the far left.

General Corona del Rosal in a speech in Tlaxcala told party members that 'the Left' in Mexico is solely and simply the adoption of a radical position within our revolution to solve the country's problems." There are "minority groups," he said, "that want to find a Communist monster behind Mexico's controlled leftism." Just what "controlled leftism," means in Mexico and how it differs from Communistic "controlled leftism," the General failed to discuss.

This is strictly a strange land of strange contrasts. And the political scene is just as strange. Underneath all of the strangeness however, it is not difficult for the observant visitor to see that with some exceptions of course, the common Mexican and the Mexican government are basically and psychologically aligned with Cuba against the U.S.

One gets the feeling everywhere that when Mexico speaks out in favor of a U.S. position, it is done solely because of economic expediency.

Compacts Are Causing More Gasoline Use

DETROIT (UPI)—Motorists are using more gasoline since the auto industry introduced a host of new compact cars in the past year.

No one is statistically sure that this can be attributed solely to the new compacts but the oil industry has some pretty good hunches that the economy models are playing a big part in it at least.

The only statistics available on the matter are those showing that gasoline consumption is up.

GASOLINE

During May, 1959, before the "Big Three" auto makers introduced their new compacts, Michigan motorists used 205,624,096 gallons of gasoline. In May this year, Michigan's gasoline consumption is up to 207,855,883 gallons.

"That's not a drastic increase," a spokesman for one of the major oil companies admitted, "but compact cars still are not a big factor in the total number of cars on the road.

"We can't prove it with figures but we're pretty sure that owners compact cars are more than offsetting the savings they get in terms of miles per gallon by driving more miles. It probably will be a couple of years yet before there are enough compacts on the road to prove whether we're right or wrong."

Glenn L. Werly, general manager of Mobil marketing, offered an explanation with which all of the other oil companies seemed to agree.

TWO-CAR

"Greater sales of compact cars will probably increase sales of our gasoline and lubrication products by increasing multiple car ownership," he said.

Some of the other oil industry officials went further than that.

"We feel the compacts affect gasoline consumption through several factors," one spokesman said. "The only one of these factors that is negative, as far as the oil industry is concerned, is more miles per gallon.

"Factors which result in increased gasoline consumption are the encouragement compact cars give to multiple ownership, the encouragement they give to more miles of driving per car and the fact that their lower price tag enables more people, like college and high school students, to own cars."

Five Overcome In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five firemen fighting a $40,000 blaze here Friday were overcome by smoke and heat.

They were Calvin Lefler, 35; William H. Gardner, 32; Charles Boes, 48; W. J. Lotz, 52, and H. J. Tourres, 33.

Fire Supt. Howard L. Det, who estimated damage at $40,000 at the office-warehouse of Gabler Insulation Inc., said an automatic sprinkler system in the building was turned off when firemen arrived.

Supreme Court Clerk Fine Now

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Tom Q. Ellis, 70-year-old State Supreme Court clerk, said he was doing fine Saturday after he collapsed on the basement floor Friday night.

Ellis was released from a hospital after a checkup. He said he felt a little sore, but added that doctors could find nothing wrong with him. He said he didn't know what happened.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Our picture horizons change radically under the bright summer sky. Vacations bring new scenes, new friends and new activities before our cameras. Any change from normal routine is likely to spark our photo fingers with fresh enthusiasm.

This is just fine for the current weekly snapshot contests for amateur photographers sponsored by many newspapers. Get any sort of an unusual shot and it's bound to be in one of the six categories listed for entries: Children, activities, scenics and animals for black-and-white pictures; people and places for color.

What makes a winning photo? There is no mathematical formula or easy - to - apply rules. However, to impress itself in a judge's mind, a picture must have some eye - catching quality in subject matter, mood, lighting or viewpoint. It should tell its story simply and quickly and should express, or arouse, emotion. It must stand out from among the vast number that pass before the judge's eye and invite a second look.

The very idea of a photo contest goal for your pictures may make a surprising difference in your shooting habits. Your eye becomes keener and more searching; your mind becomes more selective. You are more apt to discard trite subject matter because you ask yourself, perhaps unconsciously, "Will this rate as a winner?" It may even stimulate you along experimental lines, trying night shots, time exposures, odd camera angles.

You'll watch the backgrounds more carefully than ever before to avoid distracting elements of secondary interest. You'll wait patiently for the precise expression or the peak of action that sums up a particular person or situation.

You must also know the rules of the contest and be able to comply with them. For instance, do you take the names and addresses of people in your vacation pictures? With a contest picture in mind, it is a good idea to go a step further. You should try to get a signed release at the time the picture is taken with the promise of a print in return. And it's a promise that you should keep.

The rules specify that a picture to be entered for national judging must have the written consent of any recognizable people in it so that the photo can be used for promotion and publication purposes.

Camera fans should also carefully put aside the negative of any print entered in a photo contest so they can put their hands on it in the event that it turns out to be a winner. Contestants must be able to supply the original negative of a prize winner so that the best possible exhibition print can be made. An original negative is also positive assurance that the contestant is the maker of the selected photo.

A final word about mailing entries. They require entry blanks properly filled in, pasted to the rear of the prints. Despite this obvious rule, many pictures are received with no identification on the print itself. Camera fans sometimes write their names on a separate slip of paper or on the envelope. What happens is that the matching pair are soon separated in the normal handling of a great number of prints.

And photographs mailed without cardboard backing are likely to present a bedraggled appearance at judging time. How can even a good picture put its best foot forward when it arrives bent, broken and possibly without a leg to stand on?

The moral is, if you think enough of a picture to enter it, back it up — with your name, address and cardboard protection.

First Ballot Victory For Nixon Is Seen

CHICAGO (AP)—The Republican chairman said Saturday the party's national convention will not be closed to a bid for the presidential nomination by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York — but he added it would be difficult to prevent Vice President Richard M. Nixon from getting it on the first ballot.

The chairman, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, sized it up that way at a news conference.

Morton also termed the Democratic ticket of Sen. John F. Kennedy for president and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for vice president "the most incompatible in the history of either party."

The chairman met newsmen shortly after his arrival in Chicago to handle final plans for the Republican National Convention that will open a week from Monday.

Questions indicated the spotlight will be focused on Nixon, expected to receive the GOP nomination July 27, and on Gov. Rockefeller of New York, who will come to Chicago next Monday for an early visit to the scene.

Morton was asked if Rockefeller's statement of last December, taking himself out of the bidding for the top spot on the party ticket, meant the convention would be closed.

Morton replied, "No indeed," and he added that the party wants a free, open convention.

The chairman said, however, he does not know whether Rockefeller's name will be placed in nomination.

A reporter brought up stories that Rockefeller's supporters have said that the New York governor will have 250 or more of the 1,331 delegates.

Morton said that he had no analysis of delegations that are not committed, and he added: "Many delegations will be here under resolutions of endorsement which are not binding."

Then the chairman was asked whether Rockefeller is a serious candidate.

"I think that on the basis of primary returns it will be difficult to prevent Nixon from getting it in the first ballot," he said.

Associated Press surveys indicate that Nixon has amassed many more than the 666 delegate votes that will be required for the nomination.

Rockefeller is holding himself available for a draft, if one develops.

The New York governor has repeatedly stated that he does not want the vice-presidential nomination. Morton, who would like to see a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket, said "anything is possible in this game," but reiterated that he is not going to "badger Mr. Rockefeller."

Morton spoke with anger when he criticized Sen. Kennedy's acceptance speech, particularly in this passage:

"Mr. Nixon may feel it is his turn now after the New Deal and Fair Deal—but before he deals someone had better cut the cards."

Said Morton sharply, "When he insinuates that Nixon is crooked, I don't like it."

He termed Kennedy's acceptance speech a "brutal hatchet job," and said the Democratic nominee "took the low road toward what he calls the new frontier."

Atomic Jewelry

Gadgets that measure the radiation exposure of atomic workes look strangely like items of personal jewelry. Beta-gamma dosimeter tubes are clipped into workers' pockets like fountain pens, film badges clip on to lapels like broaches, and jet-like black finger rings measure radiation dosage to the hands.

LONG AND SHORT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shortest golf course ever used for the U. S. Open Golf Championship was 4,423 yards at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, Southampton, N. Y., in 1896. Longest was the 7,037 - yard Oakland Hills Country Club at Birmingham, Mich., in 1937.

Woman Demo Persuasive, Tough-Minded

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Margaret Price, newly elected vice chairman of the Democratic party, is known in political circles as a woman who can be as tough-minded os she can be persuasive.

Tall, blue-eyed, brunette and regally handsome, she has been described as one whose attractiveness can cause half the male cynics in a smoke-filled room to rise and offer her a chair.

But Mrs. Price, 47, is regarded as having as good a set of political brains as any of the lifetime politicians who treat her with a respect usually reserved for men o[illegible]

The mother of two sons and wife of an auto company executive now stationed in Brazil, Mrs. Price worked her way up in politics, starting as a precinct delegate—the lowliest elective position.

Twice she ran for state auditor general to help the ticket of Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams. She went into both races knowing she was "expendable" at the ballot boxes but only narrowly missed election in 1948 when she became the first woman in Michigan politics to poll over one million votes.

Last year, at the request of Gov. Williams, she became the only woman of either party to assess the chances of a potential 1960 presidential candidate. It was partly on the basis of her frank report that Williams decided to drop his plans and plump for Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

"She's one of Gov. Williams' biggest assets. Don't underrate her," once said Samuel C. Brightman, who handles publicity for the Democratic National Committee.

The fact that her husband, Hickman Price, is 5,000 miles away from the Michigan scene doesn't present any major problems. Mrs. Price has virtually commuted between her home state and Brazil for some time. She keeps abreast of state politics by mail. And she manages frequently to visit her two sons, Marston, 15, and Hickman III, 17, who attend St. George's School in Newport, R.I.

With the acknowledged ability to keep friendship and loyalty from interfering with a political decision, Mrs. Price has toiled for the cause of Democratic liberalism since 1952 as national committeewoman.

In her busy career, Mrs. Price has been a national board member of the YWCA, an executive board member of the National Midcentury Board of the YWCA, served in 1950 and 1960 on the White House Conference on Children and Youth, and was a delegate to the White House Conference on Education in 1955.

The Dead Sea in Palestine is about 46 miles long and 10 miles wide.

SAVINGS FOR TAXPAYERS

CHICAGO (AP) — A Northwestern University professor says the taxpayer saves money by supporting Chicago's narcotics clinics, which have been costing the state government $65,000 a year.

Dr. Benjamin Boshes, chairman of Northwestern's department of neurology and phychiatry, cited figures showing that each addict costs the taxpayers $10,000 a year for crime losses, imprisonment costs, court expenses and other costs.

"In one of our clinics, we kept 12 addicts away from drugs for a year," Dr. Boshes said. "That represented a saving of $120,000 —or more than twice the cost of all the clinics to the state."

Highest mountain in Africa is Kilimanjaro in northern Tanganyika. It has an altitude of 19,710 feet.

Citizens Of West Monroe And Ward 5

Are you interested in a well organized recreational program for our youth? If so, investigate the record of JOHN F. McCORMICK, Candidate for City Judge, in this field as we have done. By so doing you will find a long history over the years of his investments in the program as it now stands. These investments include many hours in assisting in the planning for Little Boys' Baseball, many hours in making necessary arrangements for it — both legal and otherwise. You'll find that he, along with many others, assumed his share of the indebtedness which was necessary in the beginning by signing one of the notes which financed the program in its infancy. You'll also find a similar record of time spent on the Rebel League. You'll find that he has been a staunch supporter of, and an enthusiastic planner for, all recreational provisions made thus far.

There is still much to do. His interest is keen. In the office which he seeks, one of his primary duties will be to work with and plan for the youth of West Monroe and Ward 5. We feel that he is right in his belief that a well organized recreation program is a vital part of the needs of our youth.

We, the undersigned, have confidence in his ability and willingness in this field. We are proud of his accomplishments thus far, and we heartily endorse him as candidate for City Judge. A wise investment in our youth always pays big dividends. We, the undersigned feel we are investing wisely by supporting JOHN F. McCORMICK in this campaign for City Judge.

400 LAST WEEK

Ladies Only Event Slated Tomorrow

More than 400 ladies participated in the Ladies Only promotion series which began last Monday, and even more are expected to participate in tomorrow's Ladies Only events, C. W. Rousseau, Central Bank officer said yesterday.

The free event, beginning at 9:15 Monday morning at the Paramount Theater includes a free movie, bargain sheets listing "hot shot specials" for Monday only, and numerous free gifts presented by downtown merchants participating in the series, which was inaugurated by the Special Events Committee of the Retail Merchants Division and the Chamber of Commerce.

According to Rousseau, committee chairman, tomorrow's program is to be even bigger than last Monday's was. He said the doors of the theater will open at 9:15 and the program begins at 9:30.

Twentieth Century-Fox's production of "The Robe" will be shown, free, and the program will include a brief talk by Mrs. Mildred Swift, associate home demonstration agent, on suggested hints on summer cooking.

SPECIAL LUNCHES

Especially for the ladies convenience, Rousseau said, three businesses are offering shoppers' special lunches. They are the Virginia Hotel, the Frances Hotel and Hemp's Cafeteria.

Three lucky ladies will win a free meal at one of these establishments. Rousseau said that he felt that by offering these luncheon specials, ladies would be able to remain downtown and finish their shopping in comfort.

Each lady will be given a bargain sheet, listing "hot shot specials" for Monday only and will also be presented a token gift for participating in the event. Each bargain sheet will be numbered, and the numbers selected for a gift. The lady holding the numbered sheet selected will be presented one of the following gifts:

A free modeling course, two sets of sheets and pillow cases, a Brewmaster coffee warmer, one pair of ladies shoes, a ladies dress, a silver vegetable dish and an ice bucket with pyrex inner lining that can be used for hot dishes.

On hand to present these gifts, valued at approximately $200, will be John Rudisill, of Central Bank, and George Rorex, of the Ouachita Bank.

UNADVERTISED SPECIALS

Chamber of Commerce Assistant General Manager Bobby Oden said for all ladies to be sure and notice their bargain sheets, which will include specials that have not been pre-advertised, and which will be good only through Monday.

Some of these include cookies, a dozen at 30 cents, and the second dozen for one cent; pedal pushers, blouses, and shorts, any of the three for $1 only; Gay Mode seamless hose, 69 cents; sleeveless cotton blouses, regularly $2.50, but $1 only Monday; and for the men, one table of belts, values to $5, $1 only, Monday.

This is the second day in this promotion, which will continue for four more weeks, and is open to all ladies of the Twin Cities.

Businesses participating in the event include, the Style Shop, Belk-Gallant, F. W. Woolworth, Bodans Drug Store, Fields, R and A Jewelers, J. C. Penney, Finks, Keene's Shoe Store, Silversteins, Dew Music Company, Gay Clothing, Hemingway's, United Dollar Store, Holloway and Thompson, The Palace, Montgomery Wards, Howard Brothers Jewelry, Ouachita National Bank, Central Savings Bank, the Virginia Hotel, the Frances Hotel and Hemp's Cafeteria.

Child Injured When Auto Strikes House

A Monroe Negro woman yesterday stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake, causing her car to streak out of control across a street and crash into a house at 612 Layton Street. An eight-month-old child in the car was slightly injured.

Douglas Eley, the child, was rushed to the Charity Hospital immediately after the mishap occurred, but apparently was not seriously injured, according to attendants.

Cellia B. McHenry, 55, Negro, 3305 Jackson St., Monroe was the driver of the car which knocked the foundation blocks from beneath the porch of a house belonging to Isdiro Cassio.

Investigators said she apparently stopped at the intersection of South 7th and Layton, with the intention of making a left turn.

Police believed she stepped on the brake and her foot slipped to the accelerator, causing the car to streak across Layton and into the house. A small tree in the front yard was reportedly broken by the vehicle.

The car and structure were both reportedly heavily damaged. No charges had been filed late last night.

Highway Aid

Pushbutton emergency cell boxes, powered by the sun, soon may be dotting the nation's highways, reveals Product Engineering. The transmitter, designed for mounting on poles, has pushbuttons for summoning fire, police, ambulance or service help. The battery pack is powered by solar energy, trapped through five silicon cells atop the unit.

New Oil Field Discovered In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Justiss - Mears and D. C. Latimer completed the fifth oil field find for Amite County this year with the Nunnery No. 1.

The wildcat, discovery well of the McElveen field, flowed 240 barrels daily from perforations at about 10,488-09 feet.

Previous discoveries in Amite County were O'Neil, Smithdale, Southeast Smithdale and East Fork fields.

In the McComb field of Pike County, Sun Oil was testing the Lampton - Wallace No. 1-c sec. 22-3n-7e. The well logged 61 feet of oil sand.

Texaco, Inc., was testing a wildcat, the Padgett No. 1, sec. 14-2n-123, Marion County. Reports indicated the well did not have as good a sand development as found in the discovery well of the nearby Knoxo field. Total depth was 12,015 feet, with production casing set at 12,796 feet.

SUN OIL

Sun Oil was running production casing in the McDonald Unit No. A-1, sec. 35-3n-11e, the second well in the deep Kokomo gas field of Walthall County. The well was drilled to 13,375 feet.

The second well in the Smithdale Field, the Dykes et al No. 2, logged 26 feet of oil sand and was perforated at 11,038-65 feet.

Also in Amite County, between the Smithdale and Southeast Smithdale fields, Lyle Cashion Co. was below 10,200 feet in a wildcat, the Butler et al No. 1, sec. 22-4n-6e.

In Yazoo County, two wildcats were underway. Humble Oil and Refining Co. was below 10,900 feet in the Thompson No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w. Hunt - Herbert were below 7,850 feet in the McGraw No. 1 sec. 23-11n-4w.

Field drilling the past two weeks brought three new oilers.

At Magee in Simpson County, Arkansas Fuel Oil Corp. completed the Everett No. 1, sec. 34-1n-6e, which flowed 112 barrels daily from perforations at 12,992-13,006 feet.

At Little Creek on the Pike County side, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. flowed the Bacot No. 4, sec. 33-5n-8e, at 254 barrels daily from perforations at 10,820-26 feet.

Aluminum From Coal

If an Ohio coal mine's plans to build an aluminum sulfate plant materialize, the North American continent will gain an important new source of aluminum, declares Chemical Engineering. Along with coal, the mine each year produces millions of tons of 20-25 per cent alumina-bearing shale that have been previously discarded as waste.

SOURCE: AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION

THE GAS UTILITY industry has added 11½ million househeating customers since 1950. More than 20 million homes now are heated with gas, twice as many as a decade ago. The number is expected to exceed 24 million in 1963, excluding homes using "bottled" gas and multiple-family buildings with central heating systems.

SHARP DROP

Business Perplexed

NEW YORK (AP) — Politics at home and troubles abroad kept business on edge this week.

Aircraft and missile stocks countered the trend in anticipation of more defense spending as the United States and Russia exchanged harsh words over the shooting down of a second American plane.

CIRCLES

Business circles believed that no matter who is elected president in November the emphasis on expanded defenses will increase.

The Democratic convention was studied with keen interest in an effort to assess how nominee John F. Kennedy's policies would affect business if he is elected.

The copper industry eyed the violence which has closed Congo copper mines but reported there has been little or no effect as far as the United States is concerned because supplies are ample.

With imports of sugar from Cuba cut off by presidential decree, the Agriculture Department increased the marketing quotas of domestic producers by 558,000 tons this year and of foreign producers by 137,000 tons.

AUTOS

The four millionth automobile of the calendar year rolled off an assembly line this week, well ahead of the Aug. 15 date on which the mark was reached last year.

The industry's production rebound from the July 4 holiday week was restricted by widespread plant closings. Ford Motor Co. had eight plants down, five of them closed by strikes. Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard curtailed operations in preparation for changeover to 1961 models.

Output was an estimated 104,000 cars, compared with 89,769 the previous week and 127,502 a year ago. Sales in the first third of July totaled 107,600 cars, 1.3 per cent ahead of last year.

Steel output snapped back from the low holiday week level but the industry doesn't look for any further progress until August and perhaps later. Production was estimated at 53.1 per cent of capacity, up from 42.2 a week earlier.

STOCK SALES

Stock sales on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 12,996,536 shares compared with 11,816,430 last week and 15,557,890 a year ago. Bond sales were $23,543,000 par value compared with $20,348,500 last week and $25,062,200 a year ago.

The ailing homebuilding industry got two shots in the arm during the week. President Eisenhower signed a bill extending two housing assistance programs which guarantee G.I. loans and some direct loans. The Federal Housing Administration permitted individual investors to buy government-backed home mortgages. This was expected to ease credit and stimulate building.

The President also signed a bill authorizing federal highway expenditures at a rate of 925 million dollars a year in fiscal 1962 and 1963. States would match these funds equally.

Employment rose in June to a record 68,600,000, the Labor Department reported. The previous high was 67,600,000 in July 1959. unemployment increased, too, as 2,200,000 youngsters just out of school were added to the rolls. The total idle reached 4,400,000, up 964,000 from May.

Slum Clearance Proven To Be Very Expensive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Slum clearance, for all its virtues in some instances, has proved to be a very expensive and sometimes unsatisfactory way of eliminating bad housing.

Another approach which is stirring up mounting interest among housing professionals and city managers is rehabilitation and city managers is rehabilitation and blight prevention.

What's wrong with slum clearance? Nothing, in a sense, if it is the only remedy for housing ills. Where dwellings were built without adequate regard for safety, comfort and sanitation, ripping them down may be the only thing to do.

Or, houses may have to come down because they are so rotted as to defy restoration. Or because adapting them to present day uses would be too expensive. Or because they have become a residential enclave in an industrial or commercial area—an area which should be entirely non-residential.

Clearing housing involves condemnation, demolition, resettlement of families and new construction. All that takes time and a good deal of money.

OUT OF SLUMP

WITH INCREASING PROBLEMS

Supermarkets Become Fancy, Efficient

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The grocery customer—and who isn't?—finds His and Her store ever fancier these days and often more efficient.

Some of the supermarkets may lull you and accompanying small fry with piped in music or entice you with an ever wider variety of food products—and nonfood items.

But while the food chains go on spreading and copping an impressive share of total grocery sales, behind their suave fronts are increasing problems that the music —or even the cash register jingle —doesn't lull.

The grocery chains boast that in the 1950s they expanded faster than any other form of retail trade. But with that growth they face today a squeeze on profits.

EXAMPLE

The largest chain (A&P) reports earningsin its latest quarter were off 4.5 per cent from the spring weeks of 1959 and its total net income last year was 1 per cent of sales volume. Safeway and National Tea also report profits this year lower than a year ago.

Other problems common to the lengthening chains are the threat of saturation, the debates over how big a supermarket can profitably be, what else besides food it should sell, and how to increase mechanization and processing without antagonizing the women shoppers who like to pinch and look closely at what they're buying.

Another worry is that while your income tends to increase, you are spending a smaller part of it on food than you used to, in spite of the rise in food prices over the years.

Food's share of the basic standard of living was 24.3 per cent in 1950 and 23.1 per cent in 1959. It's share may shrink a bit more this year, in spite of the Grocery Manufacturers of America's prediction that 1960 will see another record spending for food.

SALES

In 1959 food chain store sales rose 5 per cent over 1958 to a record 19½ billion dollars, or 39 per cent of total grocery store sales. But profit margins of all but one of the 10 largest chains were under 2 per cent of sales.

Some food chain battles, like those over trading stamps and private labels vs. national brands, seem to be in the truce stage at the moment.

While some food chains still fight trading stamps, their wide acceptance is hailed by executives of the Trading Stamp Institute of America at its annual meeting in Atlantic City this week.

They report that last year saw a 10 per cent increase in the number of savers (estimated at 39,437,000 families) and a five per cent growth in the number of food chains and supermarkets using them.

Some of the moves the chains are making to solve or lessen their problems are outlined in an analysis of food chain growth and earnings by the brokerage firm of Francis I du Pont & Co.

They made their last big gain in productivity in the 1940s and 1950s with self service selling devices.

HOPES

Now they hope that vending machines boasting currency recognition and change making may spur further automation and prepackaging. This may help fight off the pinch on profits arising from increasing cost of new store construction, higher wages, new services and promotion hoopla.

To fight off the saturation threat the chains are keeping a closer watch on trading areas and their population growth and changes.

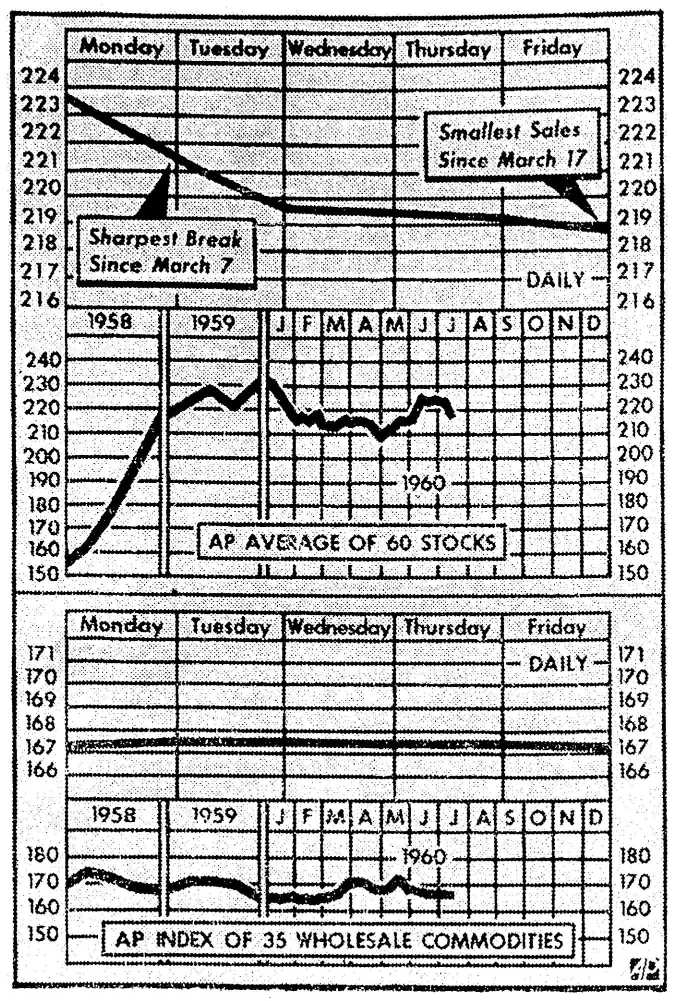
Outside Surface Of Aging Homes Causes Problem

NEW YORK (UPI) — What to do about the outside surface of an aging house gets more perplexing each year—there are so many solutions to the problem.

One of the latest is called "brickfacing." Essentially it's an insulated stucco process with a surface that can resemble almost any style of brick or stone finish. It costs a little more than aluminum siding to put on a wood surface, and considerably more than asbestos or asphalt siding, but it adds more rigidity and insulation to the house than either. And it is likely to be more waterproof.

FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS



ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks recorded its sharpest weekly break in four months when it closed at 218.8 from 223.6 a week earlier. The commodity index held unchanged last week at 167.2. Gains and losses were evenly divided. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

WALL STREET REPORT

Rally In Market Said Traditional

NEW YORK (UPI)—This is the period for the traditional summer rally in the stock market.

Wall Street has found that the market trend in the summer has been up 7 to 1 over declines in the past 63 years.

A summer rally to the stock market men is one that occurs between the May close and the July-August high.

Gains in the summer have come in the past in bull markets or bear markets, and often little attention is paid to the business cycle.

In the 63 years dating back to 1897 there have been only nine summer declines and most of them were small. The widest was 11.4 per cent in 1930. The last year to show a decline over 10 years ago—in 1950—when the industrial average dipped a mere 0.9 per cent.

GAINS

The best gains in recent years in the industrials were 10.7 per cent in 1958 and 10.3 per cent in 1955. The biggest summer gain on record was in 1932 when the market showed a 72 per cent rise, starting from an extreme low.

Another thing shown in the statistics of the market is that the summer rally has been consistent in every presidential election year of this century except 1900 when there was a tiny dip in the industrial average.

And gains came whether the election winner was a Republican or a Democrat.

With a background like the foregoing, Wall Street experts are doing only a minimum of talking about the prospects for a summer rally this year.

The market hasn't run according to the old rules. Some of the Wall Streeters have described it as two or three markets rather than one.

CIRCUS

Edmund W. Tabell, analyst for Walston & Co., nationwide brokerage firm, says, "watching the present market is something like watching a three-ring circus. In one ring are the stocks which have had sharp advances, but are still making new highs. In the second ring are the stocks that have been declining since the first of the year and are still making new lows and in the third ring are the stocks that are just doing nothing."

There's one thing in the market's favor for registering a summer rise. The closing prices in May were relatively low for all major groups.

In the first half of 1960, all major groups registered declines except the utilities. The industrial average at the end of June stood at 640.62 in the Dow-Jones calculation. That was down 38.74 points from the 1959 close. The railroad average in that period fell 10.86 points, while utilities rose 5.56 points.

Buying in the utilities whose earnings are steady in good and bad times reflects one facet of the recent trading which has been to drop some of the speculatives and invest in the less spectacular movers. The speculatives, too, have had their day with some sensational gains—gains to the point where some of the stocks were selling at 50 times their earnings.

Wheat Farmers Set To Vote On Federal Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wheat farmers in 39 states will vote Thursday in a national referendum to determine whether their 1961 crop will be grown under the rigid government marketing controls that have been in effect for several years.

Under the existing program, wheat surpluses have grown until there is a record supply on hand and in prospect. The wheat supply situation now is such that there is enough of the bread grain on hand to meet all domestic and export requirements for more than two years. The Agriculture Department has estimated that the carryover, or surplus, on July 1, 1961, will be almost 1.5 billion bushels.

Stock Market Prices Erode During Week

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market volume dwindled day by day during the past week while prices eroded in all sections of the list but a few coppers and some of the aircrafts. Prices set a new low since June 3.

The drying up in sales on the exchange gave comfort to the bullish element which otherwise had little on its side.

Bears found all the news in their favor at times, although there were several highly favorable developments which failed to have a good influence on the market.

As prices receded steadily, volume dried up until at the end of the week the market was running at a rate not seen for several months.

FOREIGN

The foreign situation came in for considerable attention, notably the Russian act of shooting down an American plane in neutral territory, the Cuban imbroglio, the Congo riots, and, of course, the Russians with their wide-open propaganda machine.

There was little in the domestic news to offset the foreign items. Steel operations snapped back but failed to get above where they were before the holdiay decline. Auto output sagged because of Ford labor troubles and model changeovers. Other items were similarly uninspiring.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment was the real bright spot when it ran up to a record high for a June at 68.6 million on the nation's payrolls. But the traders seemed to feel that a rise in unemployment caused by adding teen-agers and graduates to the unemployed ranks was more important.

There were many individual items of good news such as higher earnings for International Business Machines and Allied Chemical; higher dividends for Ford and Reynolds Tobacco; talks of higher defense spending, and firmer prices for some oil products.

Losses for industrials and rails were the largest since March 4. The industrial average closed the week at 630.24 off 16.67 points on the week; rails, 138.89 off 3.40; utility 03.99 off 0.88, and 65 stocks 208.16 off 4.66 points.

DROPS

The vending machine group fell with Vendo off nine and Automatic Canteen down 3⅛. Texas Instruments plunged 15⅝ in the electronics where Motorola was down 8¾ and IBM seven.

In the chemicals, Du Pont dropped 8½; Eastman 7¼ and Dow five. Ford lost three and Chrysler two in the motors. Steel declines ranged from a fraction in Bethlehem to 4⅞ in Lukens which cut its dividend. General Electric was down 5⅜.

Chance Vought lost 6⅛ points but other aircrafts closed the week higher. Anaconda was up 2⅜ to feature the coppers. Delaware Power & Light set a new high in the utilities at 43¼ up 2¾ points.

New Autos Will Run Twice As Long Today

DETROIT (AP) — A lot of oldtimers still believe the automakers don't build cars like they used to do.

Maybe it's a good thing they don't. Most recent statistics from the Automobile Manufacturers Assn. show the new car you buy today will run almost twice as many years and about four times as many miles as a car bought 35 years ago.

Back in 1925 the average age of a car when it was junked was between five and six years. Now it's just over 11. Average mileage on the 1925 junk heaps was slightly over 25,000. Today's junkers have traveled more than 100,000 miles as a rule.

And the industry is trying to improve on these figures.

One method is by improving quality and to this end quality control programs have picked up added emphasis at every manufacturer. Ford opened a quality control center two years ago which includes a pilot assembly line, used to test actual assembly of cars before mass production begins.

Chrysler opened a similar plant last summer. And General Motors has embarked on a major project which it calls product reliability.

Sherrod E. Skinner, executive vice president of GM, describes this as "all-inclusive of quality control and other things. It's the quantitative evaluation of the reliability of components and finished products of a system."

Boiled down, that means finding out if things work as they should, and then keeping them that way.

The companies firmly insist the additional push on quality is in no way an admission that things haven't been too good in the past.

"We're inviting people to expect more reliability," Skinner said. "The companies who will stay in the lead are the ones who will give the consumer more value."

Although nobody admits it publicly, there is no doubt the auto industry in the past has been stung by some lemons. Word-of-mouth reports that such and such a car has bugs in it can spread like wildfire and cause prolonged grief.

POLITICIAN

Jackson Career In 22nd Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson started his political career 22 years ago as a county prosecutor who cracked down on slot machines in his home town of Everett, Wash.

Now 48, he has been in public service ever since and never has been beaten for public office.

He says being a bachelor has not hurt him in politics.

"I've been too busy looking after the public interest to get married," the brown-haired, blue-eyed senator says.

He does "date" in Washington, D. C., but says there is nothing serious.

In 1940, at the age of 28, Jackson stepped from the job of Snohomish County (Washington) prosecutor to a seat in the U. S. House of Representatives. He was re-elected five times and in 1952 defeated Republican incumbent Harry P. Cain for a seat in the Senate.

Jackson beat Cain by 135,000 votes. In the same election President Eisenhower carried the state by 105,000.

Jackson was re-elected to the Senate in 1958 by a majority of almost 70 per cent, largest in the history of his home state.

He likes to swim and ski.

"No one should enter politics unless he is a good sport," Jackson said Thursday after Kennedy told him he had tapped Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to be his running mate.

Jackson wanted the job. He said he was disappointed, but would do whatever Kennedy and Johnson wanted him to do.

After the decision for the vice presidential nomination went against him, Jackson was urged by Kennedy to take the job of chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

In almost 20 years of congressional service Jackson's major interests have been national defense, natural resources and such welfare matters as education and medical research.

In 1950 he turned down an offer to be undersecretary of interior.

Currently Jackson is on the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, the Select Committee on National Water Resources, and is chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee on national policy machinery.

The policy group is probing the operations of the policy-making machinery of government.

Jackson doesn't smoke (he is allergic to tobacco), lives alone in a bachelor apartment in Georgetown, and prepares his own breakfast of coffee, fruit juice, cereal and toast.

The nickname of "Scoop" was hung on Jackson by his older sister, Gertrude, when he was four years old. He reminded her of a comic strip character by that name, about Jackson's age, who was always scheming to get other children to do his work.

He was "Scoop" from then on. His only newspaper connection, to which the name "Scoop" is often attached, was when he delivered newspapers in Everett.

Jackson, who received his bachelor of laws degree from the University of Washington in 1935, is a Protestant. His middle name, Martin, is after Martin Luther. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jackson, were Norwegian immigrants who met and married in Everett in 1889.

Kennedy Is Wearing New Authority

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Only a few days have elapsed since Sen. John F. Kennedy became the Democratic presidential nominee but the man from Massachusetts is wearing a new air of authority.

His manner shows that he intends to take charge of his campaign making the big decisions, calling the signals.

He is more crisp, more incisive, seems infinitely more sure of himself than ever before.

The speech Kennedy delivered in the Los Angeles Coliseum Friday night was largely a compilation of several others he used during his campaigns in state primary elections.

But he delivered it with more force. This time, more than ever before, he looked as though he meant it.

Again, in the news conference Saturday reporters saw a man who appeared to know his own mind, exactly where he proposed to go and pretty much how he intends to get there.

The immediate future is all laid out, precisely, in his mind.

He'll spend the next two weeks at his home in Hyannis Port, Mass. The first week will be devoted to his family, the second to meetings on economic growth, defense, foreign policy.

President Eisenhower has offered to keep Kennedy abreast of developments in foreign policy.

"I have asked Gov. (Adlai E.) Stevenson and Congressman (Chester) Bowles to act as liaison. But I hope to benefit personally from the briefings."

His brother, Robert, will be his campaign manager. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is the new Democratic national chairman.

Bang-bang-bang!

He has disposed of these matters in jig time.

Before he rose to speak Friday night in the Coliseum, Kennedy displayed a touch of nervousness. He sat, twiddling his fingers, beating a tattoo on his knee. Once or twice a frown crossed his face and he glanced at the manuscript of his speech.

This, for a few brief instants, was an unfamiliar Kennedy.

During his campaigning, he was icy, self-assured, anything but uneasy before delivering a speech. The weight of the moment—the fact that he is fighting now for the presidency itself, and not just the nomination—seemed to get to Kennedy.

A new note came into his voice, too, when he boldly spoke out on the question of his religion. He is a Roman Catholic. Kennedy devoted a whole speech to this question in Washington last April.

But there was more feeling in his voice and manner when he touch on it Friday night.

Small Car Swing May Cause State Revenue Decline

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The swing to smaller cars may cause Louisiana's gasoline tax revenue to fall far short of estimates in the next few years, the Chairman of the Louisiana Petroleum Council said today.

H. J. Geiger noted that U. S. auto makers built their one millionth compact car of the year during June, and that compact cars now constitute 29 per cent of auto sales.

It has been estimated that total national gasoline tax receipts will fall well below anticipated levels if the present trend continues, he observed. State gasoline tax revenues will also show a substantial drop, he noted.

Taxes on gasoline have increased about 50 per cent over the last 10 years, while the price of the product itself has remained almost unchanged, Geiger said. Louisiana taxes gasoline at seven cents a gallon, and the federal government taxes an additional four cents a gallon. Louisiana motorists paid $90,337,000 in state and federal gasoline taxes last year.

The high level of gasoline taxes may jeopardize highway financing in Louisiana and throughout the nation, Geiger warned. He pointed out that the fourth cent of the current four-cent federal levy is a temporary tax slated to expire in June of next year. The L.P.C. chairman called on motorists to exercise vigilance to make certain it does. He also warned car owners to be on guard against diversion of gasoline taxes to non-road purposes.

Carter Hits Statements Of Barnett

GREENVILLE Miss (UPI) — The Delta Democrat-Times says the televised oratory of Mississippi leaders at the Democratic National Convention led Americans everywhere to the conclusion "that the ultra-liberals' caricature of Mississippi is true."

In an editorial Friday by Hodding Carter III, the Greenville newspaper said that former Gov. J .P. Coleman had met with some success in trying to persuade the rest of the nation "that we are reasonable, fair-minded people, that we are not a state dominated by demagogues and that we are living politically and economically in the 20th Century."

Carter said any such impressions anyone might have had were dispelled by Gov. Ross Barnett and Brady "two of our leading exponents of the phog-bound philosphy."

"Barnett, by virtue of some Mississippi-stump oratory, managed to cover with the mantle of Southern reaction the South's logical and legal opposition to the radical civil rights plank as advanced by an astute young Georgia attorney," the editorial said. "Although to our recollection it was the first public speech the governor has ever given without slurring the word Negro, he was still able to leave the obvious message that Mississippi's opposition to civil rights legislation was on racist grounds.

"Even as Judge Brady thumbed reluctantly through those pages of his speech he didn't have a chance to read, Americans everywhere were concluding that the ultra-liberals' caricature of Mississippi is true."

Council Files Suit To Oust 14th Amendment

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Assn. of Citizens Councils claims the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution is unconstitutional.

In a motion filed in federal court here, the pro - segregation group argued that the 14th amendment was not ratified by the requisite number of states until southern states were under military occupation.

The citizens councils filed the motion as defendants in the federal government's suit against Bienville Parish authorities. The Justice Department claims 560 Negroes were removed from the parish voting rolls in 1956. The department asked their re-instatement.

PEIPING RALLY

Red Chinese Go All Out For Cuba

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China went all out for Fidel Castro Saturday with a Peiping rally in honor of a visiting Cuban delegation that gave full support to his "just struggle" against the United States.

Red Chinese speakers emphasized Castro's contention that the United States planned to attack Cuba and one Chinese speaker warned any invasion would find the United States "burned to death in the raging flames of the Cuban people's resistance."

Odon Alvarez De La Campa, described as the leader of the visiting Cuban Confederation of Labor delegation, harangued the rally with the popular Cuban slogan, "Cuba yes, Yankees no." He cried, "Down with U. S. imperialism."

The Communist New China News Agency, reporting the rally in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said 3,000 people turned out to cheer the speakers who denounced U.S. imperialism and President Eisenhower as "The chief of U.S. imperialism."

The rally appeared to be part of a major Red Chinese campaign to woo Castro, a Red Chinese trade delegation already was in Havana for talks.

Li Chieh-Po, vice president of the Chinese Labor Federation assured Cubans that "in your just struggle against the intervention and aggression of U.S. imperialism you can always count on the full support of the 65,000,000 Chinese people."

Liu Chang-Sheng, a vice president of the "Chinese People's Association for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries," accused the United States of "stepping up its plot to launch a military adventure against Cuba."

In a joint statement signed by the visiting Cuban labor delegation an dthe Chinese Labor Confederation, the United States was ridiculed as a "paper tiger"—a favorite Chinese expression of contempt meaning America is not as tough as it looks.

Voroshilov Retires From Soviet Post

MOSCOW (AP) — The Central Committee of the Communist party announced Saturday that former Soviet President Klementi Y. Voroshilov has retired from the all-powerful party Presidium at his own request.

Voroshilov gave up the Soviet presidency two months ago because of ill health. He is 79. He had been president since 1953.

It was assumed in Moscow that the condition of his health also led to his resignation from the gruelling presidium post.

His successor in the presidency, Leonid Brezhnev, was relieved as one of the secretaries of the Central Committee. The announcement said Brezhnev had given up this post at his own request because of the burden of the presidency made it impossible to carry on both jobs.

Diplomats here saw no secret motivation behind the shifts. The announcement was carried in an unprecedented evening edition of Pravda, a morning paper, which hit the streets here about 7 p.m.

In the political system of the Soviet Union the party Presidium is the permanent administrative committee that acts with supreme power for the party itself and thus is the effective ruling body of the U.S.S.R. It was the chairmanship of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet or Parliament that Voroshilov resigned from last May to step down as president, a largely ceremonial post.

Voroshilov is an old Bolshevik and intimate of Stalin whose glories are mostly in the past. He has long complained of ill health. Added to this is the grief caused last autum by the death of his wife, Ekaterina Davidovna, herself a veteran Bolshevik.

Of all the men in the Soviet Communist hierarchy he probably had been the closest to Stalin, who covered him with a mantle of glory as marshal of the Soviet Union and a deputy premier and decorated him with a chestful of medals.

Voroshilov was born to a humble Ukranian family Feb. 4, 1881. He went to work in the coal mines at the age of 6, became a revolutionary at 14 and was jailed at 18 as a strike organizer. He spent some time in exile in Siberia. He later was one of the organizers of the Cheka (secret police) and a troops and police commander in the civil war.

Between wars Voroshilov held military posts an drose to command of the Red Army in 1934. He bore some of the blame for the collapse of Soviet arms in the invasion of Finland in 1940.

Pravda said Saturday evening's edition was an exception and it was not planned to publish one regularly. The reason for it, the newspaper said, was to publish the concluding resolution of the party Central Committee, which has been meeting here since July 13.

Kasper Reports Workhouse Like Spain-Century 14

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John Kasper got out of the workhouse Friday and said it was worse than anything since "14th century Spain."

It's a lot worse than the Federal Correctional Institute in Tallahassee, Fla., he added.

The New Jersey-born race agitator spent six months in the workhouse for inciting to riot during school desegregation here in September 1957. He served two terms in the federal institute for contempt of court during Clinton, Tenn., desegregation in 1956.

"I regret more than anything I have done in my life the statement that the workhouse was a better place than the Federal Correctional Institute," Kasper said.

"I believe in the near future the people will do away with the workhouse and join the 20th century."

SEES END

Kasper appeared thin. He said he missed a few meals after he was hit in the face by a guard. Warden L. D. Morrow said Kasper went on a hunger strike recently so he would look undernourished.

He was met at the workhouse entrance by Lee Foster of Knoxville and Edward R. Fields of Birmingham, who said they were planning a barbecue for Kasper Friday night. They didn't say where.

Foster's car had a sign saying "Kasper for President."

"We don't really plan to run him for President," Fields said, "that just expresses our sentiment."

U.S. Official Explodes At Cuba Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department official spokesman exploded with anger when questioned about a report said to have been published in the newspaper Revolucion, mouthpiece of the Castro government of Cuba.

The outburst was triggered by a question about a report said to have been published in Revolucion that three U.S. warships "presumably" from the Guantanamo naval base had fired guns within two miles of the Cuban shore and thereby violated Cuban territorial waters.

In the course of his flareup, press officer Lincoln White appeared to take a verbal sideswipe at one of the newsmen seated almost at his right hand—Edgar Arnaldo Triveri of the Cuban news agency Prensa Latina.

White said Revolucion "disgorges the most violent propaganda."

The newspaper's "preposterous gunk should be taken with the salt it deserves—and by salt I mean the kind you give your child when he needs a purgative," White went on.

In the course of his denunciation of Revolucion, which has consistently attacked the United States, White said, "Everyone in this room except possibly one gentleman knows precisely what Revolucion's function is."

Reporter Triveri, sitting near White, asked: "Would you care to say who he—the exception—is?"

"Yes sir," White snapped back, "You."

Area Man's Hobby

Guns Old, New

By EZRA ADAMS

"He can make anything he wants to,," said Charles Lankford of Rocky Branch Community about his friend, Arthur Dean. "And I'll back up anything he says he can make."

Dean is a machinist by trade, a gunsmith by hobby.

"But you wouldn't think 'hobby' if you could see all the traffic of hunters that goes by my place to see Arthur about getting their guns fixed just before the season opens!" commmented Milam Howard, a neighbor of Dean's.

HOME SHOP

Dean pursues his hobby in a shop at his home, 'way out on Bayou Duluth. He is employed by a firm in West Monroe.

His shop is well equipped with a milling machine he made, using a one-third horsepower motor; buffing wheel, one horsepower; and a grinder, one-quarter horsepower.

He specializes, too, in bluing steel that he uses in gun parts.

Two guns he has made, each a .22 pistol patterned on Colts, defy the eye to find flaws. He made everything in the two guns, from screws to walnut handles with designs. And he even made the tools to make the guns and special notches they required.

"I can repair, remake or reblue any make of gun, any age," Dean says. "Just give me an idea, if nothing else, and the purpose it is too serve, and I can make one for you. However, it's best if I can see an old part, even if it is broken."

Antique guns are a delight to Dean, who cleans them up, part by part, repairs and re-blues the parts, then re-assembles them with knowing care.

The 46-year-old gun-making hobbyist is now re-making one of Eli Whitney's models, a .36 caliber six shot pistol made about 1862. It was popular during the Civil War, and each cylinder had to be packed with powder and firing cap.

ANOTHER TALENT

"Not many people know it, but Eli Whitney, aside from inventing the cotton gin, also became the maker of popular muzzle - loading guns. He later sold out to Remington," Dean explained.

Another pistol he was rebuilding when we visited him recently was of the type made famous by Wild Bill Hickok — The .36 Colt caliber, five - shot patented by Samuel Colt in 1851. Dean said he found the gun's frame when a crew was excavating for a new building in West Monroe.

This gun had the same type powder - packer as did the Whitney.

"It wasn't until about 1865, after the Civil War anyway, that metallic cartridges became popular and began replacing the firing cap and powder," Dean explained.

Mellow San Francisco

Years Roll Back

Editor's Note—Almost everything that can be said about San Francisco has been said before, but rarely as well as it is here by an admirer of long experience. Herb Caen is a columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle and author of "Only in San Francisco," to be published by Doubleday in October. The story is the first in a series of eight on great cities of the world.

By HERB CAEN
columnist
San Francisco Chronicle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pennants fluttering atop the minaret peaks of the downtown skyscrapers, the flickering red eyes of the bay bridge lighting the night sky over black waters, the never-ending tinkle of the Belt Line's toy railroad as it bustles about the Embarcadero, a ship's horn moaning at 4 a.m. and the disembodied lights of an Orient-bound freighter moving out into the stream, pigeons perching on your shoulder in Union Square, a sunset dying a glorious death in the far Pacific, its lavish splashes of gold turning ever grim Alcatraz into an enchanted isle that glows for a moment and then dies.

PACIFIC PEARL

San Francisco: Pearl of the Pacific, queen city of the West, Mecca of mariners, treasure of the trade winds, sanctuary of the screaming sea-gull, port of call for half the world and beloved landmark for all the world.

A young city as cities go—and yet it has lived a thousand turbulent lives in slightly more than a hundred years, and wears its patina of age as grandly and authentically as any European capital. A small city as cities go —slightly under 45 square miles—and yet its 800,000 citizens are firmly convinced they are living in the greatest (and most viewtiful) city on earth. An uncommonly static city as cities go (discounting an occasional earthquake!):—it has never spilled over its original boundaries, and yet its fame and acclaim have grown steadily through the decades.

WARM CITY

For all its occasional fogs and winds, a warm city. For all its proud traditions and backgrounds, a friendly city. For all its hills and twisting byways, a city that's a perpetual joy to stroll through, to behold, to be held by—a city you can almost cup in your hands and admire as your own personal jewel. For though you may leave San Francisco, it never leaves you, and those who are caught in its spell are trapped forever.

San Francisco: history and memories dog your footsteps wherever you go, wherever you turn.

When the fog rolls in, silent and timeless, the past becomes present and all the yesterdays return, restless as the tides. Once again the bay is bridgeless and alive with ferries, darting about like waterbugs. A square-rigger pounds majestically through the gate, all canvas a-crackle, and the old semaphore on Telegraph Hill signals her arrival. The waterfront is a forest of masts, the busiest, the beeriest, the brawliest waterfront this side of Port Said.

COMES TO LIFE

The long-gone years—how easy it is to summon them back. You walk through old Portsmouth Square, once the heart of the city, and it comes to life again: Robert Louis Stevenson drowsing on a bench in the thin sun, roistering seamen heading for the nearby saloons and gambling houses, the mandarins from Canton and the fur-clad Russians from the north staring across the centuries at each other.

Along Montgomery Street, the ghosts of Ralston and Sharon wrestle for an empire, and the Crockers and the Floods and the Gianninis leave their indelible mark everywhere. On Nob Hill, the mansions of the bonanza kings rear up in all their hideous glory, and Huntington, Stanford, Hopkins and Fair are awesome names to conjure with.

In a dimly lit chinatown alley, the stage is still set for dramas that were played ages ago: knives flash in shadowy doorways and Little Pete, king of the tongmen, hitches up his steel vest and walks to sudden death in a barber chair. And, in the near distance (when the wind is just right and your imagination flies free and far), you can hear the soft sobbing of a slave girl, homesick in her tiny cubicle.

SUTRO HEIGHTS

The old town, with its cobbled streets and its flickering gas lamps (and the kids whooping "Limpy limpy lamplighter, when the lights come on at night, then the fleas begin to bite") and the garbage horses struggling up the hills. The old town, with its fabled free-lunch saloons and its French restaurants with naughty "rooms upstairs," and its vaudeville and grand opera. The old town, with its Sunday parades of carriages and bicycles through the park and Mayor Sutro surveying his domain from his showplace on Sutro Heights.

The old town: the yesterdays wander like lost souls up and down the cable slots and in and out of the Victorian mansions and refuse to die—for here they are at home forever.

San Francisco: a city of the world, a world in a city, a city of endless oddities.

A city of tiny wooden shacks with million-dollar views, and million-dollar mansions with tiny windows that sleep behind drawn shades. A city where you can get a sunburn in the fog, and shiver in the sunshine—and where the sports drive around in convertibles with the top down and the heater and windshield wipers on. A city where the wealthy eat in a grand hotel under glittering chandeliers, around the corner from a skid row they ignore. A city where the proud natives have a special reason for hating death: although they might have been born here, they cannot be buried here, for all the cemeteries are in the next county.

Art Supermarket Set Up By Girls

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three pretty California girls have adopted super market - selling methods to build a successful art dealership.

Jamie Peterman, of Pasadena, Wanda Hansen, of Fortuna, and Toni Marchitelli, of Manteca, manage an art agency and gallery known as Art Unlimited.

The project started by chance in 1958 when Jamie and Wanda, each 24, took time off from their school teaching jobs to do driftwood collecting in Eureka, in Northern California.

They returned to find they couldn't sell driftwood that wasn't carved.

"So we signed up for a sculpturing course in Carmel," said Jamie, a pert blonde with a flashing smile.

While they were sculpting, they learned that the Carmel art market was glutted, so they decided to try selling some of the surplus.

"The artists didn't want to entrust their things to us at first," said Wanda. A museum curator vouched for them and they were on their way.

But instead of peddling art to the wealthy few, Wanda and Jamie took art to the masses, in supermarkets, casinos and street exhibits.

It sold, first in a San Francisco bar, then at a showing at a car raffle.

"When I heard what Jamie and Wanda were doing," said Toni Marchitelli, 23, "I just had to join them." Toni had known Jamie and Wanda at the University of California at Berkeley. She was a logical partner because she majored in art in college.

They opened a gallery when the paintings and other objects outgrew apartment storage space and the girls' patience.

Hoisting the art work around is no small problem.

"We always find friends to help us carry things around," Toni explained, but added with a laugh, that "after a while our helping friends stop being our friends."

Odd Requests Common Fare For Travelers

Uncommon requests are common fare for those in the business of planning other people's travel.

Two doctors, husband and wife, tossed a special curve at the travel agent arranging their round-the-world trip. They wouldn't fly together.

They had children, they said, and — airline safety statistics notwithstanding — they weren't taking any chances that an air crash would orphan their youngsters. The agent arranged their trip so they arrived in every city on their route within one hour of each other.

BEARSKIN

A young bridegroom - to - be said his only requirements for a honeymoon were these: a log cabin, a stone fireplace, and a bearskin rug. "If necesssary," he said, "I'll bring my own bearskin rug."

A man flying to Canada with his wife said he didn't want anyone sitting near them on the plane. "My wife can't stand people on top of her," he said.

He paid a high price for isolation. He bought the 12 rear seats in the plane and he and his wife sat in the last two.

Boom, Bankruptcy Neighbors

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Booming business and bankruptcy are neighbors in this glittering resort city where more than two million persons come to enjoy the sun, sand and surf each year.

Here lies the greatest concentration of plush tourist accommodations in the world and some of the finest entertainment to be had at any price. Here also is layer upon layer of mortgages, retain title contracts and unpaid bills.

Hotels in one block are bankrupt, shuttered and dark; in the next they are crowded, with people lined up waiting to get in.

DISTRESS

At least a dozen of the city's 378 hotels, including some of the newest, are in distress and authoritative sources say 35 to 40 of them will go under this year.

Approximately 85 resort hotels received tax cuts in 1958 in what Tax Assessor John Gautier called "economic relief." But it wasn't enough.

There is the Lucerne, a 178-room hotel which cost four million dollars when built in 1956. In May the hotel closed and asked for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act. It was losing $300 to $400 a day with only 60 rooms occupied.

The Nautilus, a 252-room structure, carried many mortgages, at interest rates of 6 to 13 per cent, and was thrown into bankruptcy by fifth and sixth mortgage holders in 1958. It was sold at public auction on its ninth anniversary. Since then rents and other income have amounted to $1,321,713, but expenses, including mortgage payments, taxes and insurance ran $1,665,274.

OTHERS

Others undergoing reorganization include the Cadillac, Delmonico, Saxony and Sorrento — all luxury oceanfront hotels with class. Foreclosure suits have been filed against the Lombardy and Plymouth.

Down the street from the Lucerne, the Fontainebleau is having the best year in its history. The Deauville is crowded and others are making money. Why?

Admittedly, the area is overbuilt with many plush hotels erected since the end of World War II. Many motels also went up, and bid strongly for the middle class tourist trade.

"You can't buy your son-in-law a hotel and tell him to run it," said Ben Novack, owner of the the 1,000-room Fontainebleau. "You've got to have know-how. And you can't switch management every few months in a resort operation. A tourist likes to see the same faces. When he doesn't, he thinks you're in trouble."

Novack criticized hotel operators who cut rates and those who pay high fees to travel agents to secure business.

"That's inviting disaster," he said. "A hotel has the same fixed charges. Fill it at reduced rates and you're still going to lose money."

Novack, who started in the hotel business here 20 years ago, has a four-point program for survival that includes tax reductions for resort hotels, utility rate decreases, cooperation by all Dade County and municipal officials to help hotels solve their problems, and a tremendous promotional campaign to bring more tourists to southern Florida.

TOO MANY

He said the area needs spectaculars every month to lure vacationers — a music festival, an international golf tournament, a film festival and other events. He conceded the area has too many hotels.

"The people who hear about the beach and its tropical wonders are sadly disappointed when they come. All they see is stone and concrete.

"Tear down the hotels that aren't making it. Build a giant park so the tourist has something to see. There are so many hotels the congestion is terrible when they're full."

Sidney Wasserman, court-appointed trustee for the Cadillac, doubts if his hotel can operate profitably under its burden of mortgages, stockholder loans and retain title contracts.

"The amortization of mortgages and retain title contracts is predicated upon the lush conditions which prevailed some five years ago but vanished into the great beyond without any indication of return," he said.

No new hotels have been built in the last year, although some have added rooms and auditoriums to take care of conventions and thus attract more business.

Half a dozen new apartment buildings have gone up, some of them gigantic cooperatives. Reports indicate they are doing well, another cloud on the horizon of the luxury hotels.

PERMISSION GRANTED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paramount studios has received permission from the Spanish government to use the famous 14th Century Towers of Serrano for scenes in "The Boy Who Stole a Million."

The film is being made on location at Valencia, Spain. It stars Virgilio Texera, Marianne Benet, Maurice Reyna and Harold Kasket.

The Kennedy-Johnson Ticket

The Kennedy-Johnson ticket is practical politics at its brazen best —or worst—with each candidate compelled to eat crow in order to run with the other, and with fragments of shattered political principle hastily pushed under the rug in the name of expediency.

Selection and seceptance of Senator Johnson for the vice presidential spot smacks much of being another "Lyndon Johnson compromise"—for the benefit of Lyndon Johnson. It is intended however, to save Texas and the South for the Democrats next November, which it may not, and to appear to the nation as a combination "liberal-conservative ticket," which it is not.

While an image of Johnson as a conservative has been created in some quarters, his Senate voting record in the past two sessions has been virtually as far left of center as Kennedy's in legislative fields usually described as "socialistic," "welfare statism," and "New Deal." Tidelands and natural gas legislation have been exceptions.

Original New Dealer

Hour after hour at Los Angeles Johnson boasted of his "voting liberal record," of being first elected as a Roosevelt New Dealer, of being a personal friend and political ally of F.D.R., of his anti-McCarthy record "from the start," of his work for Negro civil rights, and of the big - spending legislation he intends to push through Congress when it resumes after the GOP convention.

But, if Johnson was 100 per cent conservative, that could not change Kennedy.

Voters who oppose Kennedy are not likely to change because of Johnson, especially in view of his announced plan to campaign in the South and elsewhere for a civil rights plank that calls for complete integration in the next three years of all schools—not just public schools—and simultaneously intergration of all phases of community life as well as all types of employment—all of this under federal force if necessary.

Under this plank proportionate membership of Negroes, whites, Protestants, Catholics and Jews would become compulsory in private clubs and schools.

Selection of Johnson may placate many Southern political leaders—office holders—but not necessarily the electorate. Vice presidential nominations in 1956, 1952 and 1948 "placated" most of the South's Democratic Party office-holding leaders, but in each case the Party lost four states in the presidential election.

Convention objections to Johnson from outside the South were so strong that they almost got out of hand, some delegation leaders terming his selection as an "insult" to the so-called "liberal" backers of Kennedy.

Among Southern Governors and delegations, revolt smouldered on the ground that Johnson's alignment with Kennedy was desertion by their standard bearer to the cause of the "enemy."

Governors Williams of Michigan, Freeman of Minnesota and Dockings of Kansas were especially resentful — publicly in interviews. Some Northern delegations tried to launch a nomination campaign for Freeman, but he finally squelched it, "for the good of the Party." Southerners started a move to place Governor Vandiver of Georgia in nomination. He first, consented, then declied "for the good of the Party."

Turn To Patriotism

The groups, opposing Johnson for opposite reasons, wanted a roll call vote so that delegations could register their protests. Permanent Chairman Collins ruled that the voice vote was against the motion although actually the noise for the motion was louder. This also was "for the good of the Party." Then, as tempers cooled, everyone began saying it was all "for the good of the country." No one polishes the shield of national patriotism more avidly around campaign time than a politician who has had to swallow something that gags.

But, a Far Western delegate summed up much feeling among Kennedy's northern "liberal" forces when he wailed into a microphone:

> "All day Wednesday the Kennedy people kept laying Johnson on the floor in our meetings, kicking him in the belly, and telling us to hate him. Then all day Thursday they kept telling us we gotta love him. What the heck's going on around here?"

Clearly the Johnson selection had these objectives — which it may or may not attain:

1. To placate and quiet Southern Party leadership in the hope that this would quiet the electorate; this was to save Texas, which some top Texas Democrats, including Speaker Sam Rayburn and were conceding to Nixon after Governor Price Daniel, already the Kennedy nomination, and also some other Southern states, perhaps including Louisiana.

2. To offset the "immaturity of judgment" feelings about Kennedy by adding experience and "gray in the hair" to the ticket; especially to offset the Kennedy blunder in giving himself an "apologize to Khrushchev" front in the Paris Summit Conference blowup.

3. To offset any national feeling that — as one commentator put it—Kennedy is "the candidate of the Catholic Community and the big city political bosses." President Truman's question as to whether Kennedy was ready for the country, and the country ready for him as President, was interpreted at Los Angeles as meaning whether Kennedy was qualified in maturity of judgment and experience for the presidency and whether the nation was sufficiently free of religious feelings to accept him as President. Kennedy himself said at Los Angeles that the religious issue cannot be kept out of the campaign. Few who watched his primary campaigns know he will not let it be kept out.

Johnson Can't Lose

A point not spoken very loudly anywhere, was the expectation that Johnson on the ticket might not only save Texas and other Southern electoral votes, but shut off possible sizable campaign contributions to Nixon in that and other states.

In all of it, Johnson has nothing to lose politically. He is up for and certain of reelection. In November he goes back to the Senate no matter what happens to Kennedy—either as Vice President for four years or Senator for six years. Texas law permits running for two federal offices at the same time.

Whether any or all or none of these hoped-for benefits will come to the Democrats through putting Johnson on the ticket rests with the voters in November. But each candidate meantime must eat some crow.

Kennedy and some of his backers were, indeed, rough on Johnson in public and private in the final days at Los Angeles. Johnson not only "rode" Kennedy on "apologizing to Khrushchev," but tied Kennedy's father, Joseph Kennedy, into "liking Hitler." The senior Kennedy was Roosevelt's Ambassador to England in 1938 when Prime Minister Chamberlain and Hitler staged the Munich appeasement conference which aided Hitler in planning World War II.

Kennedy had to have a hard political hide to swallow that —an inference of an appeasement attitude by the father concerning Hitler, handed down to the son concerning Khrushchev.

John S. Knight, publisher of metropolitan newspapers in several cities, said in a copyrighted editorial Friday that Johnson demanded the vice presidential nomination and threatened a floor fight for it if refused. Kennedy and Johnson both deny this.

But the same big city political bosses who did so much near the end to get Kennedy the nomination obviously insisted on Johnson —Governor Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Jake Arvey of Illinois, Tammany's Carmine deSapio. They might have "threatened" Kennedy, for his headquarters said flatly only an hour or two before the Johnson selection that the second spot was between Senator Jackson of Washington, Kennedy's "personal choice" and Senator Symington of Missouri, Kennedy's "political choice," and that all others had been eliminated.

Speaker Rayburn and Governor Daniel both said they urged Johnson Wednesday night, after he lost the presidential prize, not to consider the second spot. Both said the next day they had been "persuaded" to influence Johnson to accept "for the good of the Party" (and the country). Rep. Hale Boggs of New Orleans, said he talked with Rayburn for two hours presenting reasons why Johnson should accept and that "Mr. Sam" then reversed his own stand as had Daniel.

There is little to indicate that Kennedy wanted Johnson. There is much to indicate that Johnson at least "persuaded easy" when approached. Apparently he thinks that the South always will go along with him no matter what he does. But Mississippi, Florida, Alabama and North Carolina held out all or some delegate votes on him on the presidential ballot. His inability to present a solid Southern front in the presidential nomination contest surely weakened his prestige elsewhere.

The Kennedy-Johnson ticket is a power politics ticket — power politics ran rough-shod over delegates to nominate Kennedy and then over delegates — and perhaps Kennedy, too — to give him Johnson. But one good thing came out of it: There should be no more question as to whether Johnson politically is Southern and conservative. After taking both Kennedy and a platform alarmingly radical far beyond civil rights, he can be called neither.

President To Face Russia

Whoever Is Elected Chief Executive Of The United States Must Meet Khrushchev In Bold Way

Whoever is elected President of the United States in 1960 will face the crucial problem of Russian opposition to the United States and will have to handle it in the same way. It will not matter at all whether a Republican or a Democrat is elected; he will be forced by historical necessity to respond to the Russian challenge. The difference between one man and another can only be how fast he is in replying to Russian initiative. Much will depend upon who is Secretary of State. The Cuban fiasco proves beyond question that some of the deskmen in the State Department cannot be trusted. A knowledgeable Secretary of State cannot be deceived by deskmen. A well-informed President cannot be confused by deskmen. Fortunately the candidates of both parties are well-informed men.

The Russians now have a new purpose: they will contain the United States. They will seek to establish Soviet satellites in Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela and possibly Panama. They will break up NATO.

This is a war of attrition. The objective of Soviet Russia is to defeat the United States without fighting a war. It can be done. It can be done by three devices:

1. By destroying the value of the dollar in world markets;

2. By stimulating riots in NATO and Allied countries. Student riots have already taken place in Korea, Japan, Turkey, Cuba, Italy, and will occur wherever Communist parties succeed in organizing them. One took place in San Francisco.

3. By mass disturbances in African, Asiatic and Latin American countries, so that there is constant disturbance without actual war.

This program is now in being. It is the successor program to "The Spirit of Camp David" which was the result of Khrushchev's visit to the United States. "The Spirit of Camp David" was a curious policy: it implied a deal between President Eisenhower and Nikita Khrushchev for the domination of the Earth. Apparently President Eisenhower did not understand that there was such a deal. Khrushchev became bitterly anti-Eisenhower because he did not understand why Eisenhower did not understand what was talked about at Camp David.

In a word, "The Spirit of Camp David" was confusion throughout —meaningless, purposeless confusion. It has been followed by the new policy of American containment.

Jay Lovestone, who was once high in the councils of the Communist Party and who is one of the most aggressively active anti-Communists in the world, writing for the "AFL-CIO Free Trade Union News," says:

"Khrushchev has always met the slightest dissatisfaction in the armed force with intensified ideideological activites and increased Party control especially of the officer corps. Towards this end, an increased number of periodicals have been published since the beginning of the year to propagate the Communist Party viewpoint in the Army. Several days before the Paris blow-up, there was held a conference of secretaries of the party organizations in the Army. It was devoted, among other objectives, to the strengthening of party surveillance of the armed forces . . ."

Concerning China, Lovestone writes:

"Of course, there are differences between Moscow and Peiping in regard to international and other matters. But these differences are in approach, in respect to propaganda forms, and not over principles. Between Moscow and Peiping, there is absolute unity over the ultimate goal of Communist world domination. For a number of reasons, Chinese Communist tactics are more rigid and inflexible, more intransigent and aggressive, than Moscow's. Mao Tse-tung's China is in an earlier stage of revolutionary development than Khrushchev's Russia. During the comparable stage — thirty years ago — Moscow's international propaganda line also was harsher and harder against the democracies than it is today. In those days it was Moscow which pursued an ultra-left course."

In all this, Lovestone is correct. The Free World has been deluding itself about a split between the Kremlin and Peking. There has never been an indication of such a split. There has never been even a slight indication of such a split. It is very much like President Eisenhower not being able to understand what is happening in Cuba. What he calls "inexplicable" has never been inexplicable. It has been clear from the very start: Castro has produced a Soviet satellite state in the Caribbean.

Views Of Our Readers

To the Editor:

"HURRICANE OF TRUTH"

Charles H. Percy urges suggestions in helping draft the platform of the Republican party. The platform can be easily drawn up. Just model it after Sen. Barry Goldwater's book, "The Conscience of a Conservative."

This great man sets out the finest declaration of Constitutional government in many decades. It does away with all double talk that the American people have had in the Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower administrations. It comes as a hurricane of truth out of the socialism that is sweeping the country.

It seems obvious that the committee does not intend to give any consideration to suggestions by the public as it is holding its hearings only a few days before the G.O.P. convention.

RAPS AT CAT'S PAWS

Mer Rouge, La.

To the Editor:

Your "Aggression Inside U. S." wasn't specific enough.

The real aggressors are those who use men like George E. McMillan as a cat's paw. Mainly those monkeys who always use a cat's paw to harvest the hot. chestnuts in the fiery ashes are making an effort to frighten industry from moving south. It is a fact that capital is timid about investing in some industry that will, or might, prove to be a sour investment. Capital likes to see every dollar return with a family of "nickels," dimes and quarters.

No industry will ever put one penny out in, say, Monroe, if it has good reason to think the whites and Negroes will have a race war. McMillan does his best to convey the idea that such war is quite imminent. Foosh! Mac. You just wrote for bread, didn't you?

Mac, like John Howard Griffin of Dallas, Tex., knows nothing about what they were writing — they really drew the long bow and missed the target.

John Howard Griffin said less in more words than can be read in almost any printed article. For instance he is supposed, or at least he makes such a claim, to have moved up in Alabama — sometimes on foot — and nearly froze and at the same time was menaced by fearful alligators that inhabited the terrain. It would be a treat to learn of the variety of those Alabama alligators that are a threat to wayfarers in winter or even in hot summer.

Me thinketh, as Shakespear would put it, Johnny was a liar. The writer will give Johnny $10 for every alligator that he finds lurking around to have an integrationist for a meal. Johnny declares he took some medicine that turned his skin black enough to pass him for a Negro and took a trip through the south. Everywhere, he says, he saw nothing but hate in the eyes of the white people he saw. Now, isn't that something wonderful? Johnny is the only living man that can look another in the eye with a hasty glance and be able to know what emotions are cooking behind those eyes.

Johnny lost his head in not engaging them in a poker game. If he had done so he could have returned to Dallas richer than his neighbor, H. L. Hunt.

We have spent the entire 78, and more, years of our life among the Negroes and have never known a single one that caused hate in our heart. We have known some that we held in monumental contempt and a few in disgust, but hated not one.

It is these writers who write for bread and butter that play right into the hands of the Communists. There will be a day when they, the writers, will regret the foolishment they fostered for a mess of pottage.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Self-Thinkers

Most Of Those At Convention Concerned With Own Fortunes

LOS ANGELES — Every one realizes, of course, that the business of this Democratic National convention is to choose a candidate for President of the United State, who it thinks can win the election.

That Presidential candidate naturally has to be supplied with a Vice Presidential ticket mate. The party also has to write a platform, or a charter of its beliefs and the policies, the President and the Congress would be expected to pursue if victory kisses the Democratic banner in November.

But if you think all the delegates are thinking solely in terms of which Presidential hopeful here can best stand up to Khrushchev or put through Congress a major portion of the platform promises, you have another think coming.

Under a process of putting last things first, lets take a delegate-eye view of the platform. The platform runs last by several lengths to the composition of the ticket for most delegates. To some of them it is for the birds, a sort of omnium-gatherum of pious promises designed to collect votes from various groups which are needed to build up an electoral college majority.

So you would think that with delegates giving so little weight to the platform, the Presidential nomination would be paramount. Here is some news for you: To a goodly number of these delegates from 50 States there is a more dominant matter. The 50 States have an equal number of State Capitols with Governors and other State offices. Together the States have more than 3,000 counties, with court house elective office-holders.

A partisan politician quite naturally wants to win every race from President down to the lowliest county officer. Mingle with some of the delegates and one gets the idea they are thinking solely in terms of the effect the ticket nominated here will have on the ticket in his home State. Even the most lofty-minded ones are not entirely overlooking that factor.

Have a visit with Carmen DeSapio, the leader of Tammany, who (much as the fact grieves Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt) is the most powerful figure in New York Democratic circles. De Sapio has pressing local reasons for wanting the presidential candidate who will run best in New York State, regardless of how that candidate fares in the other 49 States. DeSapio does not think he is selfish, merely practical.

The most important thing in the life of Carmen DeSapio right now is to win at least one branch of the New York legislature in November. Here is the reason: New York, because of the recent census, loses three members of Congress. When a State gains members of Congress it can leave the lines of the old Congressional districts as they are and elect the new members from the state as a whole.

But when a State loses Congressmen its old districts go by the board and new lines must be drawn or all Congressmen have to be elected from the State at large. The Governor of New York is a Republican and both branches of the legislature are Republican. If it stays that way its just too bad for the Democrats. Republicans will draw the lines of Congressional districts to suit themselves and while they are at it probably reshape the seats in the State legislature itself so the Democrats cannot win it again for at least ten years. Give DeSapio one branch of the legislature and he is in a position to make a more or less advantageous trade with the Republicans.

California, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and at least ten other Northern and western States have Congressional redistricting coming up. California, which already has a Democratic Governor and legislature hopes to continue that pleasant situation. Democrats want to do a real job on the GOP in this big Western State when Congressional regrouping time arrives.

Labor, which is as interested in Congress as in the Presidency, keeps whispering the importance of Congressional redistricting.

Except for the South, which elects Democrats almost exclusively anyway, local politicians want to know what effect the national ticket will have on the State tickets and the county tickets. Ideally a ticket should be its strongest in its highest office. A strong Presidential candidate might sweep in State and local candidates in many States.

But the Democrats remember the last time they won a national election it wasn't that way. Harry S. Truman in 1948 ran behind the ticket nearly everywhere. He pulled nobody through, the strength of the party below pulled Truman through. He was a minority President, the votes of Dewey, Thurmond and Wallace exceeding Truman's. And no one thinks there is going to be a landslide either way in 1960.

The Democrats have been unfortunate not to hold legislatures and State Houses at Congressional and legislative redistricting time, therefore their majority in Congress and the State legislatures, large as it now is, actually is less than their numerical superiority in the electorate would seem to entitle them.

When the average delegate here talks of "electing the ticket" this fall he is thinking beyond the President and Vice President, and down to the State Houses, the Court Houses and the legislative districts.

THE HOME SHIFT

Pink Blooms Are Beauties

By MILDRED SWIFT

The Near East gorgeous pink crape myrtles are in bloom. Was there ever grown a more luscious shade of pink? Many of the plants in the parish are now very large. Dorothy Sholars is responsible for introducing this variety here, and I believe had the first blooming plants in her garden on Riverfront. She gave many cuttings to nurserymen to root so that others could enjoy their beauty.

JULY JOBS

An important garden job is watering, unless we have rain before this column goes to press. Remember, many plants are setting bud now and getting too dry means few blooms next year.

The gorgeous lycoreses that bloom in late summer can be planted now. In fact the bulbs must be planted right away if you're to get blooms this year. Remember, there are other varieties beside the red. There's pink, yellow and white, but the latter two are not very common.

Cut back tips of both your chrysanthemum and poinsettia plants to make the plants bushier, to have less need for support and to get more flowers.

Cut off old rose seed pods. This will help develop new bloom stems. Roses are resting now.

Just as soon as the Easter lilies lose their green coloring, that is the signal to dig them up and replant. Easter lilies grow for about eleven months. The above ground part of the plant may not be showing but the growth is going on just the same. So — once the bulbs are dug up they should be replanted at once, preferably the same day.

Some gardeners don't like to dig and replant Easter lilies every year. That's all right, but if you do replant yearly, you have healthier plants and much finer flowers. That is if you'll work bone meal in the soil at planting time, include humus in the soil, fertilize with 8-8-8 when the plants begin to come out of the ground and just after blooming.

When glad foliage begins to turn brown, you may want to dig and store the corms. You never harvest the same bulb you planted. Instead, there will be one or more corms on top of the old one. That old one is useless except for the compost heap.

SHOWY!

Now blooming in many Ouachita Parish gardens are perennial phlox (paniculata). This is a tall growing free - flowering perennial of easy culture. It bears large flower heads in terminal clusters, usually in a lavender color, but there is a pink, a pure white and another white with a red eye.

This plant grows in ordinary garden soil, responding well to commercial fertilizer. It needs lots of sun, is winter hardy and should be set out from January through spring. They'll bloom the first summer. Clumps can be divided in the fall. Plants can be purchased from nurseries during the winter and spring. Most gardeners cut the plants to the ground when the blooming season is over.

Perennial phlox are subject to mildew, so never water with a sprinkler. Keep the foliage dry. Also, red spiders appear at times. Use malathion spray.

IT WORKS!

If you've run out of ways to keep the children occupied during their vacation days, I have a suggestion for you. Get together with one of the other mothers in your neighborhood and plan day outings once a week. With a kind of car pool arrangement, you mothers can help each other. One day you take your own children as well as your neighbors on a delightful driving trip. The next time will be her turn and you'll have the day free to attend to something you can't get done with the children underfoot.

There are loads of interesting places to go and things to see. Explore new roads. One day go to a plant. A trip through a dairy would be fun and oh so educational. A visit to a nursery is another fascinating thing. Every child loves a zoo.

Youngsters love to eat, of course so take a lunch and eat at some shaded, relaxing spot. I wouldn't be surprised if these motor trips will be something the youngsters will look forward to all week long and you'll find you enjoy them every bit as much as the children do. You may get your toes stepped on, cooky crumbs down your back and have many bruises from "elbows," but that goes along with being a mother.

FALL STYLES

It may be the season for Bermuda shorts and bathing suits, but as far as the fashion industry is concerned, it's fall already! Last week a fashion group in New York had a preview showing what's new in fall ready-to-wear.

Well it's suits, suits and more suits. Dresses with jackets, dresses with coats! Suit jackets are every imaginable length and style —above the hip, to the hip, below the hip. Many dresses have ⅞th coat length jackets.

Dresses have the new variations of the easy look. Many have blouson tops. They're loosely cut — not too fitted, but the waistline is still in existence. Skirts have an easy swing to them. The big thing in the skirt department is lots of pleats.

Color wise it's everything in the mauve to purple family — both muted and striking tones. Coats seem to be going toward the wide swing look again.

The news in evening wear is the beaded look formals and street length late afternoon dresses, highlighted by beads, sequins and mock jewels worked right into the fabric.

Many less expensive furs were shown right along with the rare, exotic ones and there were ever so many new variations and styles.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Many interested people have been wondering about the plant in the tub at 400 Glenmar, Ludvic Herlevic residence. Mr. Herllevic tells me it's a bougainvillea vine. With the roots being "tub bound," the plant doesn't "run" as the true bougainvillea does. The grower says he moves the plant in the garage in winter for protection. Drive by and see the plant. It's really lovely.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Jackie Mitchell will make blouses; Tuesday, Betty Jane Hodgkins will give us a program on iris; Wednesday, flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Few Pursuits As Rewarding As Gardening

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

There are few pursuits more rewarding than gardening. Perhaps you don't think so after a few hours of uprooting persistent, multiplying weeds or pushing a lawnmower up a sloping lawn.

Gardening is increasingly popular these days, what with the trek to the suburbs and the lure of outdoor living. The American Assn. of Nurserymen says approximately 35 per cent of this country's married couples list gardening as their No. 1 leisure-time activity. The association, honest but prejudiced, says more married folk spend more of their leisure time gardening than going to parties, playing cards and other games, or going to the movies.

QUESTION

But who wants to prove it? Being prejudiced myself, the idea is to extol the virtues of amateur horticulture this week. So we looked around for some semi-professional, authoritative views — and there was Mrs. Helen Hoagland, a former nurse, getting good clean garden soil under her fingernails after helping to plant the first of several trees in Center Park in Cobleskill, N. Y.

"Except for housework," says Mrs. Hoagland, "I know of no other occupation that makes use of all the muscles and the senses as wholly as gardening. Who has not suffered the aches and pains of long - unused muscles after putting in a half, or full day, in the garden?

"Of particular importance in this sedentary age," she says, "is a proper exercise, one which, while using all muscles, does not strain them too far in a one-day-a-week session in the outdoors. Gardening will stretch and condition the muscles without rendering the owner useless for the next four days."

But this expert on herbs and flower - growing contends the physical benefits are minor. She says.

"Much can be learned in a garden about the type of persons who is tending it. The straight clean lines of a mathematician, or of the meticulous housekeeper, or the curves, lines and rhythm of those lovers of things not too exact are there to be read."

Gardening gives a peace of mind, a tranquility not often found in other pursuits, career or hobby, she adds. The ever awakening miracle of plants and flowers puts the mind at ease, while the body toils to make these things grow to perfection.

And, she declares, children who are taught to grown and love flowers and plants seldom join the ranks of juvenile delinquents.

Mrs. Hoagland has some strong ideas about superstitions attached to plant life. Remember the camphor or asafetida tucked into tiny bags worn around the neck to ward off disease? Well the ex-nurse says the only thing they prevented was making new friends — because of the odor.

Skunk cabbage was another garden "charm" supposed to build a blockage against whooping cough. Mrs. Hoagland's view on this one is that no self-respecting germ would even approach the stuff.

Most chemicals used to destroy weeds in strawberry bed will reduce the yield. But the loss is little compared with the effort of hand - weeding. For proof, just try is concerned, it's fall al- for a while.

Plastics Play Broad Role In New Building

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plastics and fibreglass in foam-filled sandwiches and strong lightweight sheets loom as important home building materials of the future.

Polystyrene plastics already have carved out a big beachhead in industrial building and experimental houses. Polystyrene walls and roofs built in Michigan early in the 1950s appear to be a big success.

Dow Chemical Co. boosted its sales of styrofoam board for building purposes from 1.5 million feet in 1957 to 7 million in 1959 and hopes to sell 12 million feet this year.

Koppers Co., which until this year, only made polystyrene beads to sell to expanders, now has opened a plant in Detroit to make foamed polystyrene boards and modular sandwich panels faced with concrete, asbestos cement, metal or plywood. Several other chemical companies also are selling polystyrene beads to expanders for use as a building material and polyurethane foam also is finding use.

By combining polystyrene with fibreglass, revolutionary roofing panels are being made and widely used in industrial building and some experimental home building.

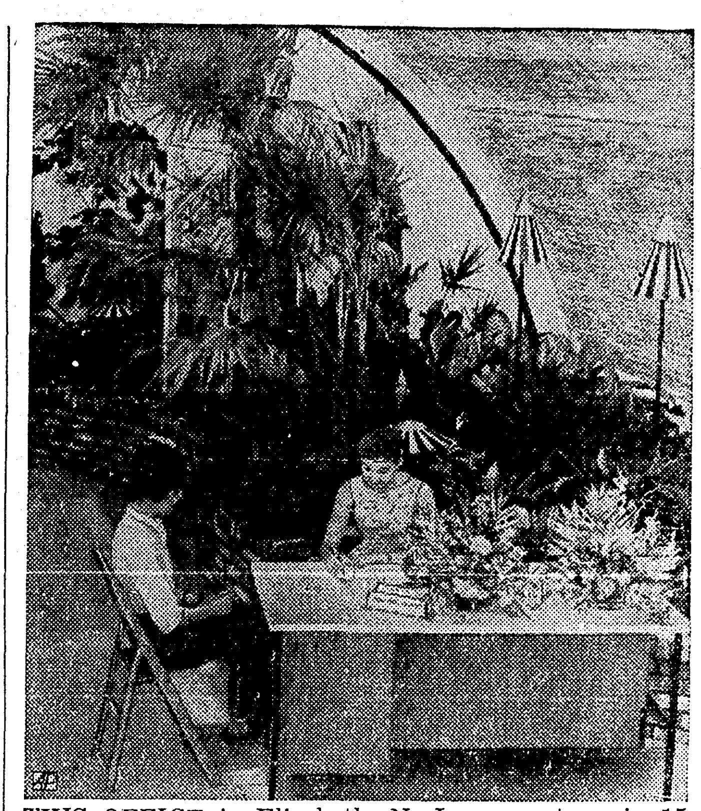
Even more revolutionary is the combination of polystyrene and concrete to make thin shell concrete structures of tremendous strength. Prof. Frederick McGarry of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said recently this could be the most important advance in architecture since the development of the skeleton frame and curtain wall structure.

It enables the architect to build walls and roofs in huge graceful curves and angles, almost like folding paper. That, says Dow Chemical Co., is the bright new world for polystyrene as a building material.

Foaming plastic walls and thin fibreglass roofing panels—many of them translucent, allowing the light to come through into the building—could revolutionize home building in many ways. They could make a whole house demountable and portable because they are so light in weight.

Foamed polystyrene is light, rather strong and absolutely waterproof. Its first big use was as a flotation material for boats and docks. The panels can be joined together simply without worrying about moisture problems.

It also has good insulation value and, although by no means cheap, it can be used as a plaster base for the inside of masonry walls more cheaply than the conventional combination of wood furring strips and rock lath or metal lath. It's also used as an insulation filler for cavity walls because it can be poured into the walls in liquid form and then will foam up, fill the wall and harden.



THIS OFFICE in Elizabeth, N. J. was put up in 15 minutes, simply by inflating an air dome. It is made of transparent vinyl and supported by air pressure from a motor powered blower, and steel hoops. As an added touch there are 228 plants of 31 varieties and a six-foot birdcage with 22 birds.

Insecticides Require Safe Use, Storage

Insecticides kill insects because they are poisonous. For that reason, they demand safe handling, use and storage.

As part of its accident prevention program, the state board of health offers this timely reminder for the safe use of insect-destroying product.

Read the label. Follow instructions for use.

Keep insecticides out of the reach of children and pets. Don't store insecticides with food or medicines.

DON'T SWITCH

Don't switch containers without proper labelling. If possible, keep toxic chemicals in their original, labelled containers, and always keep them tightly closed.

Avoid inhaling mists, sprays or dusts. When you spray a closed room don't let any person or pet remain inside, and get out yourself as soon as posible. Ventilate the room before it is again occupied.

Do not spill sprays or dusts on your skin or clothing. If this should happen, remove contaminated clothing; wash affected skin areas thoroughly with soap and warm water. Always wash your hands and face thoroughly after using insecticides. After using garden insecticides change to clean clothing. Wash contaminated garments.

Cover or remove foods, dishes, tables, cribs and toys from rooms that are being sprayed.

Do not use ant cups or buttons if children or pets are about, unless you know for certain that such objects cannot be reached by children and animals.

CALL DOCTOR

If, in spite of your precautions, a child or other member of your family is poisoned by a household or garden chemical, call a physician at once.

Be ready to give your doctor a description from the label of the ingredients contained in the poisonous product. If the product is not identified, your physician can get immediate information from one of two poison information centers in Louisiana — Green Clinic in Ruston and T. E. Schumpert Sanitarium in Shreveport — or from one of the more than 50 hospitals and clinics in the state which have poison control cabinets that provide information on the more common kinds of poison.

As a further safety precaution, you may obtain from your health unit, or the Louisiana State Board of Health, P. O. Box 630, New Orleans 7, a free pamphlet titled "Protect Your Family From Poisoning." It is recommended that you keep this pamphlet in your kitchen, bathroom, or on the medicine cabinet, where it can be seen easily. Provision is made in the pamphlet for the name and telephone number of your doctor and nearest hospital.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Dual Design Show Feature

By MARY JARDINE

By GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

CHOSEN

A soft pink pitcher was chosen by Mrs. Joe S. Carter Jr. for her triangle line design of artificial materials. Ivy vines formed the vertical line and the curved line pouring out the spout of the pitcher. This line was followed by beautiful pink shaded rose buds. Mrs. Maxey made this arrangement for her guest room.

Mrs. Charles Rugg made a beautiful composition for the living room. Large, artificial yellow peonies and buds with their own foliage formed a vertical design in a soft dark, green, flat, pottery bowl. Mrs. Harry Maxey used a length of large, dried bamboo for her mass - vertical design of dried materials. Green hydrangia blossoms were massed at the base of the composition. Dock in tones of brown, tan and green formed the strong vertical line. Small leaves of dried aspidistria were placed low and on both sides of the dock. A very pleasing design and color combination for the den.

Quotes from July Horticulture notes by Mrs. W. E. Conger: Fertilize your crape myrtles and watch the tender growth for aphids. Nicotine - sulphur of malathion will control the aphids.

The winter played havoc with all forms of cape jasmine, prune them severely now, and spray them with malathion to control the white flies.

As new growth on plants harden, it is an ideal time to take cuttings to root. A good rooting medium is equal parts of peat moss and builders sand. Lacking this facility you might try covering the ends of which have been dipped in a root harmone, dampen the ends of the cuttings, place them in sphagnum moss, then cover them air - tight with a plastic bag.

Two books have been placed in the Garden Center Library in memory of Mrs. C. E. McKenzie. "Flowers: Free From Interpretive Design," by M. Benz, donated by The Garden Clubs of the Fifth District, and "Symbolism in Flower Arrangement," by Drivin S. Ferry, donated by Mrs. Katherine and Edward Foster.

Another new addition to our library is "The New Setting Your Table," its art, etiquette and service, by Helen Sprackling.

SOUTHERN GARDNER

Parasol Tree Unusual One

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

That striking tree with a green trunk, very large leaves and showers of bronzy flowers, is a Chinese parasol tree. Sometimes it is called a Japanese Varnish tree, but the tree from which the Japanese were making varnish when Dr. Kaempfer went there at the end of the 17th century, was a different species. The older southern nurseries disseminated the Chinese Parasol tree throughout the south over a century ago. You may find it in cemeteries and on old estates here and there.

CLIMBING

Because of the arrangement of the branches, children consider the Chinese Parasol a good climbing tree. Before the green pods open, they are filled with a black fluid which supplies a child with "ink" — much to the mother's chagrin. When the pods open, they divide into little "boats." On the sides of the boats from one to three pea - shaped green seeds grow. These, as anyone can see, are little men who are riding in the boats.

The huge foliage of the Chinese Parasol tree makes it a handsome specimen. Its leaves are not as large as those of the Royal Paulonia or Princess tree. One way to tell these two species apart when they are not in flower is that the Parasol tree has slick leaves while those of the Paulonia are fuzzy, especially the new ones.

The Chinese Parasol tree is in the Chocolate family. Like so many Chinese plants, it came to England from Japan. When it was introduced in 1757, it was thought to be a tender plant, but it was soon found that it would grow in London if given the protection of a wall.

HARDY

Here in the south, it is perfectly hardy, and sure to catch the eye of even the most unobservant. Those who have taken pictures of the long mall in front of the gambling palace at Monte Carlo have brought home photographs of the finest planting of Chinese Parasols in Europe.

A smaller summer flower tree about which we have written in the column is the Goldenrain tree. Right now, it is covered with little jack-o-lanterns. These will turn brown in the fall, and their seeds can be planted. Goldenrain is a tough small tree for places where other species suffer from drought. It was covered with its golden rain earlier in the summer. Its leaves are pinnate like those of the Chinaberry tree.

In books and catalogues, the Chinese Parasol tree is listed under either Firmiana or Sterculia. The Goldenrain tree is a Koelreuteria.

Sahara Hit By Changes Of New Era

By ANDREW BORROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP) — Across the sun-scorched expanse of the Sahara, the 20th century is sweeping as relentlessly as a desert sandstorm.

The world's biggest desert is being assailed by men and machines bringing in a new era.

Ancient tribal laws are crumbling and once sleepy oases are becoming bases for expeditions in search of oil, iron and even diamonds.

The voice of the "Muezzin" calling faithful Moslems to prayer in a northern oasis is drowned by the roar of trucks carrying supplies along new blacktop roads.

Three hundred planes land weekly at airfields scattered throughout French Sahara, and estimates of available oil reserves rise by the month.

"Let us transform the desert into a promised land," says Robert Lecourt, French minister for the Sahara.

The desert Lecourt and others dream of transforming is a brooding rugged land of lunar landscapes, penetrating silence and awesome beauty to those who like it.

Modern desert hands scoff at the World War II stories told by veterans of Rommel's Africa Corps or Montgomery's "Desert Rats." The World War II fighting was along the coast and while there was plenty of sand it wasn't the area really known as desert, where few troops ever penetrated.

WATER

Planes parachute water containers to seismographic teams. Artesian wells are quickly drilled at the sites of permanent camps.

There are still vast areas of the desert untouched by the progress. But their days appear to be numbered.

"This is a tidal wave," says Dr. L. Cabot Briggs, Harvard University research scientist considered the foremost American authority on the Sahara. For the past 12 years he has been studying the desert and its mysteries from his Algiers base.

"The speed of the progress is simply fantastic. Six months ago I would have said the whole nomad system of organization was being menaced. Now I can affirm that it is being shattered."

Yet the days of the proud Sahara warriors, merciless to foe and generous to friend, are not too distant in history.

The area officially described as the Sahara has roughly three million square miles—slightly more than the continental United States.

Its population is about 2½ million, one fourth of them nomads.

France claims roughly half of the giant desert. The modern changes have been most spectacular in the French section.

Spain and Morocco occupy the western portion of the desert. The eastern part of the Sahara is shared by Tunisia, Libya, Egypt and the Sudan.

The northern limits of the Sahara are the Atlas Mountains. Below lie the big French oases of Touggourt, Laghouat and Figuig. Fifteen hundred miles south start the Savannah Plains of the Niger.

Sahara tribesmen always have lived apart from the coastal Arabs and Berbers. France uses this argument to refute claims of Algerian nationalist rebels who want the Sahara to become a part of Algeria.

Couple Travel In 84 Nations, Advise Tourists

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) — Jacques Rieur and his wife returned from a 40,000-mile trip through 84 nations with some helpful hints for tourists.

Rieur, 65, advised that, "You don't try to live like an American in America. You don't travel to India to eat ham and eggs."

Then too, he said, you don't have to travel first class to be comfortable. And you can also cut down on expenses by planning trips and tours yourself after arriving in a country.

The Rieurs spent 14 months on their tour and feel they proved that it doesn't take a big bankroll to see the world.

The cost of the trip, they said, was $7,000 — about 17 cents a mile.

Shrubs Need Plant Food

By AUDREY DAWSON

Remember to give your shrubs and trees that last feeding this month. Our specialist recommends using 8-8-8. Be sure to water the fertilizer in real good. It is not safe to fertilize after July — so don't forget — if you want that tree or shrub to keep growing and help develop your landscape, fertilize them this month.

It's time to transplant Easter Lily bulbs. Work bone meal in the soil before planting.

If you, Mrs. New Home Owner, are trying to establish a lawn keep sprigging St. Augustine grass during the month but keep it watered.

SPOTS ON CARPETS

One of the commonest fallacies among housewives is the belief that milk will remove ink spots from rugs. This has been discredited by laboratory researches. The idea was sound enough long ago when iron was a standard ingredient of all writing ink. The milk formed lactic acid which attacked the iron stain but in these days very few inks contain iron. There are many kinds of inks and hundreds of formulas have been used for their removal with varying degrees of success. Often the use of a wrong formula can set the ink spot so that even the most highly skilled chemist can't remove it. Nearly all writing inks are soluble in detergent and water, but for the ink from a ball point pen, a non - inflammable household dry cleaning fluid applied with a clean dry cloth will remove stain.

When the ink stain is small, use clean white tissues to blot it up as much as possible. Then use a formula of 1 teaspoon of neutral synthetic soapless detergent mixed with one-half pint of luke warm water and apply it with clean cloth or sponge working from the outside edges.

Use of nail polish remover to remove nail polish from rugs or carpets may ruin some of our modern floor coverings. Amyl acitate which you may buy at any drug store is best to remove nail polish from carpets. Apply a few drops at a time and blot up with clean tissues or a piece of toweling.

TESTED MEAT

One day you may be able to purchase meat that not only has been graded, priced and weighed but rated for tenderness as well. The present meat grading systems don't accurately indicate tenderness. There is no really meaningful way to predict with any certainty whether the meat from an animal will be tough or tender. However, a new instrument, a tenderness press, has been developed by specialists with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This new device quickly and accurately measures the tenderness of a small sample of either raw or cooked meat.

COUNCIL MEMBERS

Your Home Demonstration Council president asked that I remind you of the important meeting Friday, July 22 at 10:00 a.m. at the Agricultural Extension Auditorium. Plans will be made for the trip to LSU to attend Farm and Home Week August 15th. It's an important meeting so please-please make your plans to attend. Dr. John T. Goorley, president of the Northeast Louisiana Chapter of the Louisiana Mental Association, will speak on "Mental Health." I am sure you will enjoy his talk.

A THOUGHT

Panel Boards Installation Is Simple Task

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The installation of hard board panels for walls is a comparatively simple job when the tongue-and-grooved type is used. These special panels, eight feet in length and 16 inches in width, are secured with metal clips and thus can be handled by one person.

Naturally, these panels cost more than the ordinary non-grooved hardboard, but are becoming increasingly popular with those who consider ease of installation worth the extra price. In one kind of woodgrained hardboard, a coat of lacquer, varnish or wax is required after the walls have been put up. In another, a permanent plastic surface does not need any finishing.

The panels can be installed over an old wall that is reasonably straight. But if the wall is uneven, horizontal furring strips —one by two inches — should be applied. The panels then are attached to the furring strips by means of the metal clips.

When the paneling is to be applied over open studding, no furring strips are necessary if the studs are straight and 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches from the center of one stud to the center of the next.

The hardboard is installed by starting from a corner and working around the room. The first panel is applied with a grooved edge toward the area to be covered, so that it is ready to engage the tongue edge of the next panel.

Where an extra strong installation is desired, adhesive can also be used. The dealer who sells the hardboard paneling usually carries the proper adhesive for this type of job.

The typical purchaser of a backyard swimming pool pays 10 per cent down and finances the balance over a period of five years. This information comes from Joseph C. Ekkers, head of the pool financing department of an installment financing company. Ekkers predicts that the number of American families owning their own swimming pools will climb to more than 225,000 this year, up more than 55,000 from 1959.

With The Boosters

The Northeast State College Boosters Club launched a membership campaign at Bancroft's Camp the other night with an informal barbecue supper that attracted some of the sturdiest supporters of Northeast athletic programs.

"If there's anything we can do for Northeast State, as citizens of Monroe and West Monroe, we want to do it," declared Fred Petty, president of the Boosters who numbered among other guests George T. Walker, Northeast president; Athletic Director Jack Rowan and members of his coaching staff, and members of the Northeast Athletic Council headed by chairman Ed Whatley.

Tony Renfro, Boosters secretary - treasurer and Mose Loftin, who was drafted as something like an assistant secretary to help keep track of member applications at the Thursday meeting, pointed out that the drive will continue until September 10 when a pre-football wrapup will be held at another barbecue that will offer an attractive door prize.

Petty and Renfro will be accepting membership pledges until that time.

Little Boys Tournament

T. O. "Toby" Bancroft drew plaudits of the club for extending use of his Cheniere Lake camp for the meeting.

Among early arrivals were Lenny Fant, the Northeast basketball coach, and Roy Johns, the architect. They got their heads together in a discussion of the gymnasium renovations at Northeast, even down to pencil diagrams. They're remodeling and enlarging the orignal little gym and plan back-to-the-campus games for the Tribe which has been using more spacious high school gyms in recent years. Northeast has $150,000 to spend on the gym improvements.

Long range plans call for a later gymnasium of greater capacity and the use of the present gym for the women's health and physical education program.

Jim Coats, the baseball coach, and Eddie Whetstone started talking deer hunting in the Mississippi river country, but somehow got sidetracked to the subject of raising whitefaced beef cattle.

Some talk, naturally, concerned track coach Lew Hartzog's plans to go to Southern Illinois and his "package deal" that is supposed to take Don and Dave Styron, the classy twins, along with him. Some say the Styron boys, who will be seniors next session, may yet decide to remain with the Indians.

Package deals aren't new at Northeast. It just happens the Hartzog and track team shift is going the other way. Northeast, a few months ago, obtained at least one faculty addition that brought along some proteges that included talented Kirby Jane Mooney, first runner-up in the recent Miss Louisiana beauty and talent contest at Lake Providence.

And there was James Otto Lancaster (at the meeting, that is, and not part of some package arrangement). Now part of the Northeast family, Lancaster came to the college from a principalship at LaSalle High of Olla, but we best remember him for his days as an assistant coach at Ferriday High when the Bulldogs were the finest of their class in the state. Naturally he recalled the likes of such athletes as Leo Young, "Red" McNew, Manson Nelson, Max Fugler, Tony Brocato and others who played on those Bulldog teams.

When it comes to recalling some of the past, none stirs the memory more than W. R. Hammond, the Indians' history prof. While partaking of the Boosters' hospitality, he reminded us that for "cold courage and grit" he takes Tom Pete Godwin, an Indian football player 28 years ago.

He tells of Godwin breaking a shoulder in a game, and, because he didn't want his jersey cut to ribbons in removing it, lifted the arm of his injured shoulder over his head and peeled out of the jersey despite the pain. He also cited for courage a former Neville High School boxer, Julian "Hoots" Reagan, who "won a lot and lost some, always was courageous losing and gracious winning."

Among the Boosters were J. H. "Slim" Scogin, Dave Silverstein, Curtis Nichols, Eddie Hemphill, Johnny (Rendezvous) Johnson, Brewer Godfrey, Ivy Jordan, Victor Davis, Herbert Fink, Shelby Hill, Grayson Guthrie, Sam Rubin Jr., Leon Sugar, Tom Scott, Haynes Harkey, and B. W. Biedenharn.

A. T. Van Veckhoven, Durwood Griffin, A. Lee Booth, Owen McCleary, Alvin L. Bodan, Dan Weil, H. W. McSherry, H. K. Touchstone Jr., Lee Vanderpool, Fred Huenefeld, Grover Holloway, Joe Cascio, Joe Murray, Monte Carbone, E. J. Miller, Jack Inabnet, E. D. Carter, Garland Shell, Henry Biedenharn, Johnny Sherrouse, Armand Breard, A. D. Bernhardt Jr., A. E. Montgomery, Roy Ledbetter, A. L. Andrews, Stan Bagwell, and Ben Marshall.

LITLTE BOYS TOURNAMENTS.

Little Boys Baseball League tournaments are scheduled this week for the northeast section of the state at Delhi and Winnsboro.

The district has been divided into two sections for bi-district tourneys, winners of which meet a week from Monday in the district playoff.

The week - long double elimination tournaments beginning tomorrow have opening schedules of:

Delhi — Lake Providence vs. Oak Grove, 5 p.m.; Northside of West Monroe vs. Delhi, 6:30; Southide of West Monroe vs. Epps, 8 p.m.

Winnsboro — Tallulah vs. Tensas Parish, 5 p.m.; Winnsboro vs. Mangham, 6:45; Ferriday vs. Rayville, 8:30; Vidalia, bye.

If a team marches through all opposition unbeaten the tourneys will end Friday night, otherwise the bi - district clinchers will have to be played Saturday night.

The West Monroe teams are being donated travel accommodations to and from all their games at Delhi by "Slim" Scogin.

Meanwhile, the drive for funds to build a new park for Little Boys in West Monroe is still in progress. Up until last night's exhibitions, the fund was around $300, all from pass - the - hat contributions. So far no special donations have been made, and the lights alone for the proposed park are going to cost an estimated $6,000.

Mail donations should be sent to Hollie Pankey, league president, 2610 North Tenth street, or Dick Smith, 211 Hilton street, West Monroe.

While with the kids, we want to make amends to young Henry Florsheim, an 11-year-old who pitched his first game for Ouachita Gravel in the Little League minors Saturday a week ago. The righthander, with Bright as his batterymate, tossed a three-hitter at Montgomery Insurance and won it, 14-2. Reason for this rehash today? Florsheim was reported the loser, which he wasn't. Is everything okay now, Henry?

Vern Callison Wins Public Links Crown

By LYLE NELSON

HONOLULU (AP) —Vern Callison, a veteran California tournament player with a deft putting touch, easily defeated young Ty Caplin, Michigan State student, 7 and 6 won the 35th National Amateur Public Links Golf Championship Saturday.

Callison, relaxed and jovial at times, had too much finessee around the greens for the 23-year-old Plymouth, Mich., golfer at the sun-drenched Ala Wai course near Waikiki Beach.

Callison was 5-up after the morning round of the 36-hole final and closed it out after a brief rally by Caplin on the 12th hole of the afternoon session. Caplin's second shot from the rough hit a tree stump and bounced right back at him.

Caplin, who is playing hookey from summer school, was unable to get his chip shots close enough to the pin to put any pressure on the 41-year-old Sacramento, Calif. tavern owner.

Caplain narrowed the gap to 3-down after six holes on the afternoon round. But Callison won the next two holes when Caplin failed to drop par putts and the match was as good as over.

Caplin, playing out of East Lansing, the home of Michigan State, had a medal of 80 during the morning round and this made the difference.

In his semifinal match Friday he went out in 73. Callison, taking his time but reading the greens beautifully, showed a hot putter much of the way.

The bald-headed bartender who swept California amateur honors last year, started Caplin on his downfall with 6 and 15-foot birdie putts on the sixth and 10th greens in the morning.

Then he lost the 13th hole peculiarly by hitting his fairway shot with a driver into the canal that separates the course from the Waikiki hotel strip.

Braves Subdue Phils On Homers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Del Crandall's two home runs provided the margin Saturday night for Milwaukee's 6-4 victory over Philadelphia as the Braves continued to press first-place Pittsburgh for the National League lead.

The second-place Braves, who have won three straight since the All-Star break, remained three games behind the Pirates, who defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-5. The Pirates' lead has dwindled from five games since Thursday.

The game had six homers—four by Milwaukee, two by the Phillies.

Crandall's second homer in the seventh was followed immediately by an Eddie Mathews homer. That was all for the Phils' starter, Robin Roberts, who lost his ninth game against five victories.

Joey Jay, who relieved Juan Pizarro in the fourth, got the victory. He came on after the Phillies had loaded the bases and Pizarro walked in a run.

Chuck Cottier started the Milwaukee scoring in the three-run third with a home run. Pizarro and Billy Bruton singled and Crandall bunted and was safe on a sacrifice fielder's choice, loading the bases. Hank Aaron then singled home two runs.

Crandall, who has 14 home runs for the season, stroked two singles in addition to his homers. He hit the first homer in the fifth.

The Phillies scored first in the second inning when Bobby DelGreco homered. Cal Neeman brought in the last two Philadelphia runs with a homer in the seventh.

The Phillies loaded the bases in the eighth on two singles and a walk, but Don Nottebart, coming in for Jay, retired the side.

Teen-Agers Lift U.S. Into 2nd Round

QUEBEC (AP) — Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley, a pair of 19-year-old tennis players from St. Louis, sent the United States into the second round of the American Zone Davis Cup competition Saturday by defeating Canada in doubles.

The Missouri youngsters outlasted the veteran Canadian pair of Bob Bedard and Don Fontana in a marathon first set and then quickly sped to victory for a 3-0 lead in the best of 5 series. The doubles scores were 14-12, 6-3, 6-2.

The Americans next play at Mexico City on Aug. 6-8 where the Mexicans are expected to furnish much stiffer competition than the Canadians offered. Two more singles are scheduled to be played Sunday. Lorne Main, captain of the Canadians, said he might substitute Francis Godbout for Fontana in the match with Tut Bartzen of Dallas. Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, will play Bedard in the other match.

The marathon first set seesawed back and forth for 24 games before Buchholz sent over a drop shot that landed just beyond Fontana's reach. It was an error by Fontana that gave the United States the advantage.

At the start of the second set the Canadians tied the score three times before the young Americans took complete charge.

Showers dampened the clay courts at noon and again just before the start of play but there was only one threat of rain after that—near the end of the third set. Less than 1,500 persons saw the match.

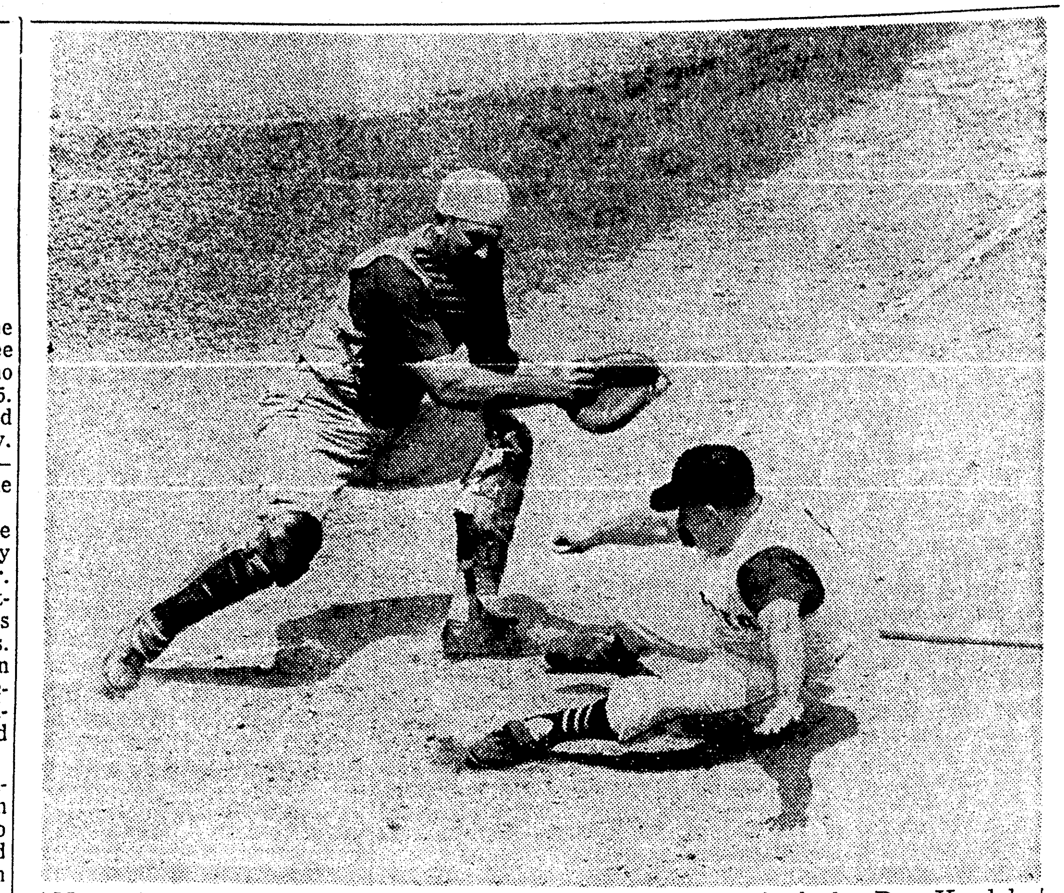
Tharp Captures Handicap Prize

NEW YORK (AP)—Tharp, 1 5-year-old Irish-bred horse who has done most of his racing on grass, found Aqueduct's turf course to his liking Saturday and posted a 2½-length victory in the $29,500 Sheepshead Bay Handicap.

Racing in the silks of C. H. Palmer, the son of Limekin ran far back during the early part of the 1⅛ miles, moved up to fourth with three-quarters of a mile remaining and took command in the home stretch.

The North Hill Farm's Misty Flight went to the front rounding the final turn after Julmar had set the pace but was no match for Tharp. He finished second, 3½ lengths in front of Mrs. S.C. Clark's Shield Bearer.



AN EASY OUT at the plate, Pirate catcher Smokey Burgess slides home to be greeted by Redleg catcher Ed Bailey's tag. Burgess, who had doubled, tried to score on a single by Don Hoad but was cut down on Gus Bell's throw from the outfield. (AP Wirephoto)

TO MEET MONROE MONDAY

Ruston Edges Farmerville On Shuffield's Triple, 7-6

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Outfielder Charles Shuffield tripled home Jerry Hood with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth to give Ruston a 7-6 victory over Farmerville and a spot in the Fifth District American Legion Junior Baseball finals against Monroe.

Hood, who bounced between first and the pitcher's mound, had reached first on shortstop Don Acree's error before coming home on Shuffield's three- bagger, a shot down the right field line that bounded to the fence 315 feet away.

Monroe, winner of two straight over Bastrop in its semifinal series, and Ruston, which won two of three games from Farmerville, will meet Monday night at Monroe's Legion Stadium in the first game of their best - of - three final series. The second game will be played Wednesday in Ruston.

Rocked back on their heels by Farmerville's five - run explosion in the third, Ruston pulled even with the visitors in the eighth inning. Ronnie Graham walked to open the eighth with Paul Richardson going in to run for him. Larry Green advanced Richardson to second with a sacrifice and an error on Pearman's Smith's blow sent the runner to third. Melvin Shows walked to fill the bases before Don Wilder brought in the tying run with a grounder to the pitcher.

Freddy Dawson highlighted Farmervill's five - run third with a three - run homer. Farmerville led, 6-3, after their rally but Ruston narrowed the count to 6-5 with two runs in the fourth, one of them coming when Smith hit a solo homer.

Shuffield, Hood, John Porter, Storms and Shows each got two hits each for Ruston.

Hood started for Ruston and began his change- about game with first baseman Porter in the third when Porter came in to pitch and Hood went to first. The two swapped positions again in the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth. Hood ended up with the win while Danny Albritton, victim of Shuffield's triple, was the loser.

Volunteers Clash With Barons Here

Last-place Bastrop comes to town this afternoon for a meeting with the second - place West Monroe Vols while Monroe travels to Sterlington and pace - setting Ruston journeys to Dubach in La-Ark League baseball action this afternoon.

With almost two - thirds of the season already down on the books, none of the loop's four playoff slots have yet been determined. The top four clubs will participate in the usual Shaughnessey playoff series after the regular season ends to decide the league champion.

Ruston, beaten only by West Monroe and Monroe, currently sets the pace with 12 victories and five setbacks. West Monroe, which went on a hitting spree against Dubach Friday night, rests in second place two games behind and Monroe is in third a game behind the Vols.

Only three games separate Sterlington, Dubach and Bastrop, the league's other three teams.

The Twin City clubs have dealt Ruston its five losses, with West Monroe turning the trick three times.

Following today's slate, nine more playing dates remain on the regular season schedule. The final games are slated for August 19.

Intentionally Nips Dunce

CHICAGO (AP) — Brookfield Farm's Intentionally, ridden by Bill Hartack, Saturday won the $55,000-added Equipoise Mile by a nose in a photo-finish with fast-closing Dunce.

Claiborne Farm's Dunce, with John Sellers aboard, made a strong drive to overtake Intentionally, who had captured the lead at the far turn and was cruising in the stretch by four or five lengths.

The onrushing Dunce came as a surprise and closed in tight at the wire before an Arlington Park crowd of 26,480 yelled its head off.

Intentionally, making only his second start of the year after winning the 6-furlong Tobboggan Handicap at Belmont June 29, covered the mile on a fast track in 1:34 2-5. This was two-fifths of a second off the track record.

The black 4-year-old colt, top weighted at 126 pounds, returned $4.80, $3.40 and $2.60. The winner earned $32,000 from the total purse of $55,250.

Dunce, winner of the 1959 American Derby and Arlington Classic and the 1960 Stars and Stripes, paid his backers $4.60 and $3.00.

Priscilla D. Willis' Little Tytus finished third in the field of eight, 3½ lengths back, and returned $3.00 to show.

Chick Evans, 70, Still Able To Shoot Age

The man who came up from the caddy ranks to win the USGA Amateur twice and the Western Amateur Open each once, the USGA Amateur twice and the Western Amateur eight times will be feted at $70-a-plate testimonial dinner on his birthday.

More than 1,000 friends and associates will pay him tribute and the $70,000 raised will be used to create a special reserve fund for the Evans Scholars Foundation.

The special endowment fund will go for tuition purposes, used only in event that yearly income fails to cover educational expenses of Evans scholars.

Berra, Maris Pace Verdict Over Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Yogi Berra and Roger Maris provided home run punch in two five-run rallies and Bob Turley stifled the Detroit Tigers Saturday as the New York Yankees ended a four-game losing streak with an 11-2 triumph.

Berra, playing with a siege of virus, snapped a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning with a grand slam blow that struck the facing of Briggs Stadium's upper deck in right field. The homer knocked out Jim Bunning, who had a 2-1 lead entering the five-run Yankee sixth.

Maris, returning to the lineup after a day on the bench because of a bad wrist, crashed his 28th homer to climax another five-run outburst off reliever Tom Morgan in the ninth. It was a two-run clout. It was the first homer since July 5 for the majors' home run leader.

Turley, won his sixth straight after an opening loss, and mastered the Tigers on four hits. He allowed only one after the third inning.

Charlie Maxwell struck the lone damaging blow off the Yankee fastballer. It was a line drive homer in the first inning that produced the Tiger runs.

The Yankees cut the Tiger margin to 2-1 in the fourth and Berra drove in that run, too. His single scored Gil McDougald who had doubled for the first Yankee hit.

Berra's grand slam was the eighth in his Yankee career that started late in 1946.

Bob Cerv joined the growing list of Yankee injuries when struck on the right hand by a fast ball in the first inning. X-rays showed no fracture, but Cerv will be sidelined three to five days.

The loss was Bunning's sixth against six victories.

National Sets Summer Talks On Expansion

CHICAGO (AP)—The National League will hold its summer meeting in Chicago Monday, presumably to discuss the subject of expansion.

Although the American League is on record as having voted unanimously in favor of expansion, the senior circuit has failed to gain the unanimous vote necessary for expansion.

The Associated Press learned the league is more in favor of expansion than ever before but the two clubs reportedly against such a move are Cincinnati and San Francisco.

The Redlegs supposedly have commitments which force them to remain in Cincinnati for the time being and are opposed to expansion or relocation because they would like to move into New York when they are ready.

San Francisco is not in favor of any move because the Giants are afraid that another National League team would move into their old territory and become an immediate success.

The American League, meanwhile is eagerly awaiting the National League's decision on expansion.

"The best we can hope for now is that the National League appoints a committee for expansion and we can both get together and discuss the many details concerning expansion," said one American League official.

The same source said one objection is that some owners feel they now own 1-16th of a partnership and if each league were to expand to 10 teams then each voice would be cut to 1-20th.

"Personally, I would like to see each league expand to nine teams instead of ten," the source said, "because there aren't enough ball players to create four new teams. Developing two new teams means around 80 players and even that figure could be difficult to reach."

Also to be brought up at the meeting will be an attempt by Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, to increase the visiting team's 27.5 cents per head. Paul would like to see this raised to 35 cents per person.

Alfred Vanderbilt's Good Move was named after Native Dancer and Next Move, the sire and dam, respectively, of the 2-year-old filly.

Indians Score Five Runs In First, Beat Solons, 9-4

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians rapped out a dozen hits, scored five runs in the first inning and waltzed to their 10th straight victory over the Washington Senators 9-4 Saturday.

Cleveland now has beaten the Senators 11 of 13 times this season.

Gary Bell (8-7), who hurled the first 5 1-3 innings, was the winner. Hal Woodeshick (3-2) was tagged with the defeat. He gave up all five runs in the opening frame, when the Indians sent 10 men to the plate. Bell knocked in two runs with a single as the Indians collected four other hits that inning, plus two walks and a Washington error.

Washington scored first, tallying a run without a hit. The first batter was hit by a pitch, the next two men were safe on infield errors and Jim Lemon delivered the marker with a sacrifice fly.

The Senators made it 5-2 in the second inning on singles by Jose Valdivielso and Reno Bertoia, spaced around a sacrifice. They added another run in the fourth on a walk to Elmer Valo, a double by Dan Dobbek and Bob Allison's sacrifice fly.

Cleveland broke open a 5-3 contest with two runs in the sixth and two more in the eighth. Johnny Temple and Harvey Kuenn singled in the sixth and Tito Francona knocked them in with a double to right center.

In the eighth, a single by Temple and a double by Ken Aspromonte, his second of the game, preceded Vic Power's two-run single.

Power stretched his hitting streak to 15 games with a pair of hits. Jim Piersall was ejected by Umpire Cal Drummond for vigorously protesting a called strike in the first inning. It was the fifth time he has been thumbed out this season.

Washington left 13 men on the bases.

Cupit Gains Final With Long Putt

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Jackie Cupit, a nerveless competitor from Longview, Tex., sank a 66-foot birdie putt on the 35th hole Saturday and beat Labron Harris Jr. of Stillwater, Okla., 1-up in the semifinals of the Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament.

Cupit joins former British Amateur champion Deane Beman, of Bethesda, Md., in Sunday's 36-hole final. Beman eliminated Dean Smith of Wichita 9 and 7 in the other semi-final.

Harris had constructed a two-hole advantage after turning the morning round with a 3-under-par 67.

Cupit, the 22-year-old Missouri Valley Conference champion from Houston University, squared the match with a par on the 19th and a birdie on the 21st. Then the 18-year-old Harris rallied brilliantly birding the 23rd, 25th and 26th holes.

Again Cupit fought back and finally drew ahead with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 31st. It was the first time the game Texan had led since the opening hole.

Harris pulled even on the 32nd when Cupit overshot the green, and on the climactic 35th—a 185-yard par 3 dog leg—he hit his ball 28 feet from the cup.

Cupit started to take an 8-iron, then changed to a 7-iron. His shot was dead to the flag, but too strong and the ball rolled all the way to the upper side of the green. He stroked the ball boldly, and it rolled straight toward the cup 66 feet away and just dribbled in on the right edge.

The dramatics were not over yet. On the 400-yard uphill final hole, Harris shoved his drive into the right rough. It hit a spectator's cart on the first bounce and dropped. The Oklahoma State University golfer punched a 7-iron within 18 feet of the cup. Cupit was short, and chipped his third several feet past.

Harris then dared a bold putt for a birdie, but the ball hit the back of the cup and bounced out. Cupit trickled his side-hill putt into the hole for the clincher.

Cupit's unofficial medal scores were 69-66, Harris' 67-69. Par on the 6,640-yard Wichita Country Club layout is 70.

Beman played ragged golf, but well enough to win handily. He was 6-over-par when he closed out Smith on the 29th.

3 UNEARNED RUNS

So-So White Sox Donate 4-3 Decision To Baltimore

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles took advantage of sloppy Chicago fielding and scored three unearned runs Saturday for a 4-3 triumph over the White Sox.

The victory lifted the Orioles into third place, one-half game ahead of the defending American League champion.

Third baseman Gene Freese committed three White Sox errors and was hooted and jeered by the Ladies' Day crowd of 34,474.

Freese's error in the sixth inning led to two unearned Oriole runs and for a 3-2 Baltimore lead. After the Sox had tied the score in the seventh with an unearned run, Freese committed another error in the eighth which led to the winning run when Ron Hansen singled home Gus Triandos with two out.

Hoyt Wilhelm (6-6) was the winner in relief Chicago reliever Gerry Staley took the loss, his fourth against nine victories.

Dave Nicholson put Baltimore ahead in the second inning with a 425-foot homer off starter Frank Baumman. Roy Sievers, extending his consecutive game hitting streak to 18, singled home the tying run in the fourth and then put the Sox ahead with a run-scoring single in the fifth.

Brooks Robinson, whose streak of eight straight hits was halted in the first inning, was safe on an error by Freese in the sixth and came home on Walt Dropoe's double. The next two men went out, but Nicholson followed with a runs scoring single.

Chicago tied it in the seventh without a hit. Minnie Minoso and Sievers both walked and pulled a double steal after Sherm Lollar struck out. Al Smith also fanned, but Minoso scored the tying run when Hansen bobbled Freese's grounder.

Hansen quickly made amends for his boot. With two out in the eighth, Freese threw wild on Triandos' grounder and the Baltimore catcher reached second. Hansen blooped a single to center, sending Triandos home with the winning run.

Chicago threatened in the ninth and had runners on first and third with none out following singles by Sievers and Lollar but Wilhelm retired the next three men without allowing a ball out of the infield.

RED SOX WIN

Delock Halts A's On Six Hits, 1 To 0

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ike Delock's six-hit pitching performance, giving him a slight edge over mound rival Ray Herbert, enabled the Boston Red Sox to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 1-0 Saturday night.

The Red Sox scored the game's only run in the eighth inning when Willie Tasby drove in Don Buddin with a double.

Ted Williams failed to get the base hit that would have been the 2,600th of his major league career as Herbert tossed a seven-hitter.

Delock was in a few scrapes but survived, doubleplays twice getting him out of trouble. Herbert was just as effective with the exception of the eighth.

In the third Buddin doubled with one out, took third on a wild pitch and then mistook a signal and started home on a pitch to Delock only to be trapped.

Singles by Pete Runnels and Vice Wertz netted the Red Sox nothing in the fourth but the A's had already blown their first scoring opportunity. In the third a walk to Pete Daley and Kan Hamlin's single put two men on for Kansas City but the A's couldn't get them across.

A walk to Norm Siebern and Whitey Herzog's double with one out in the fourth left the A's in scoring position but Bill Tuttle walked and Daley hit into a doubleplay. In the fifth Jerry Lumpe hit into a doubleplay after singles by Herbert and Russ Snyder.

ROOKIE UMPIRE

BOSTON (AP) — Cal Drummond, rookie American League umpire, served five years as an Army infantryman, including service in the Philippines and Japan. He began umpiring in 1952 in the Georgia Stage League. Cal, 39, is from Ninety Six, S. C.

Indians Seek To Curb Jim With Fines

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Jimmy Piersall was thrown out of the game with Washington in the first inning Saturday and Indians' General Manager Frank Lane said the excitable outfielder would pay double for any fines levied by the league.

Lane said he had told Joe Gordon, field manager, that from now on, "whatever the league fines him (Piersall) the club will fine him an equal amount."

Piersall was thrown out for the fifth time this season when he protested a called strike by Umpire Cal Drummond. The freshman umpire said later that Piersall had used abusive language. However, no league fine is expected in this case.

Lane, angry over Piersall's ejection, said:

"No player is any good to us in the clubhouse. We have a right to fine a player for loss of his services. Maybe this is the only way to curb Jimmy.

"I always defend our players in arguments with umpires, but can't in this instance. The umpires have been very tolerant of Jimmy and actually they shouldn't be any more tolerant of him than of any other player. He should realize that he is now a marked man and act accordingly."

RASH STATEMENT

40-1 Shot Takes Delaware Oaks

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Hal Price Headley's Rash Statement, a 40-1 shot, Saturday upset the odds-on favorite Berlo in winning the $64,512 Delaware Oaks, first of Delaware Park's Distaff Big Three races.

Ridden by jockey Charley Burr, the Ambiorix-Hipparete filly took the lead in mid-stretch and outran Ogden Phipps' Sarcastic in whipping a standout field of 12 three-year-old fillies. Rash Statement's margin was two lengths over Sarcastic who held on by a nose over the fast finishing Berlo. Cain Hoy Stable's Make Sail was fourth.

The winner, a dark brown filly, gained her second triumph in 10 starts this year and fifth in 22 outings since coming to the races in 1959. She paid a juicy $90.40, $35.20 and $3.40. The crowd was 19,795.

Rash Statement was timed in 1:50.3 for the 1⅛ mile run over a fast track. The Oaks was the first of the track's three big races for horses of the fair sex. It is followed on successive Saturdays by the $40,000 added New Castle and the $150,000 Delaware Handicap, world's richest race for fillies and mares.

The big disappointment in the Oaks was Foxcatcher Farms' Berlo, who has won five of her six races, including all four this year. The Heliopolis-Faberose filly, with regular rider Eric Guerin, had trouble getting clear early and when she finally made her move had too little too late. She moved from eleventh to sixth in the early going and was third in the stretch.

Rash Statement, carrying top weight of 121 pounds, stayed with the pace most of the way, running fifth after a quarter mile. All the early pace was set by Mrs. George Brown's Lady's Maid and Stanley Sagner's Sew Wash Wear. But as the field moved to the top of the stretch the pacesetters faded and Sarcastic and Rash Statement came on to make a two-horse race in the drive to the wire.

Sarcastic, part of an entry with Wheatley Stable's Irish Jay, returned $5.40 and $2.20, while Berlo paid $2.20 for show. A $6,626 minus pool was created on Berlo in the show pool with over $72,966 bet on the Foxcatcher horse owned by William de Pont Jr.

Strung out behind the top four were C. V. Whitney's Refute, Lady's Maid, Sew Wash Wear, Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Postward, Alan T. Clarke's Leemowlee, Howard Keck's Paris Pike, Irish Jay and Irvin David's Chalvedele.

COME-FROM-BEHIND VICTORY

Stuart's Homer In Ninth Boosts Bucs Over Cincy

PITTSBURGH, (AP) — Dick Stuart's pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning gave the first-place Pittsburgh Pirates a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over Cincinnati Saturday.

Stuart's blast, his 13th, came off reliever Jim Brosnan with one out.

By winning, the Pirates retained a three-game lead over the second-place Milwaukee Braves, who knocked off the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 in a night game.

The Pirates scored two runs in the eighth for a 5-5 tie. The runs scored on a two-out single by Don Hoak, the payoff blow coming after Dick Groat had walked and Bob Skinner had doubled.

Red starter Jay Hook had been sailing along smoothly after the first inning when the Pirates scored two runs. Hook was relieved in the eighth by Joe Nuxhall, with loser Broshan coming on later in the frame.

Tight relief pitching by rookies Joe Gibbon and Earl Francis held the Reds after a four-run outburst in the fourth. Francis didn't allow a hit in the final two frames and picked up his first major league victory.

Hook walked three in the first inning. Roberto Clemente then hit a two-run double. Bill Mazeroski gave the Pirates their third run in the seventh with his ninth home run.

Cincinnati blasted Pirate starter Vinegar Bend Mizell in the fourth with four runs, three of them unearned. Mizell had retired the first nine batters to face him. The big blows in the fourth were doubles by Eddie Kasko, Vada Pinson and Roy McMillan. An error by Pirate third baseman Hoak opened the door for the Reds.

The Reds added their fifth run in the seventh on McMillan's triple and Hook's sacrifice squeeze bunt.

THURSDAY

Palmer Tackles PGA Tournament

By DON WEISS

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer next week tucks away his disappointment over missing a professional grand slam and tries to settle for the considerable consolation of America's triple crown of golf.

Rebuffed by a single stroke from adding the British Open to his U.S. Open and Masters titles, Palmer heads a whopping field of 197 set to tackle the toughened Firestone Country Club course Thursday through Sunday in the 42nd Professional Golfers' Assn. championship.

So Bulky is the lineup, the largest for any major pro tournament in U.S. history, that first-round play on Thursday will begin at a dewy 6:30 a.m. The early starters could be getting set for the next round by the time the last first-round threesome trudges off the 18th green.

Included are defending champion Bob Rosburg, one of 18 former champions; all the members of last year's Ryder Cup team; the champions and qualifiers of the 34 PGA sections; the 32 low scorers in last year's PGA and the leading money-winners of the last year and a half.

Bridies on the last two holes at Augusta wrested the Masters championship for Arnold away from Ken Venturi. A par shattering 65, triggered by birdies on six of the first seven holes, enabled him to leap-frog over 13 others and make up seven last-round strokes to win the Open at Denver last month.

Only in the British Open at St. Andrews last week did the Palmer push fall short. And then a sizzling 68 on the final 18 just missed overhauling Ken Nagle of Australia when Palmer's usually sure putter "never really got going."

That one was to have been the third leg in Palmer's four-way professional slam. If he was disappointed at the near-miss, his interest should be revived by the chance for a shot at the Masters-U.S. Open-PGA triple, something never accomplished by one man in the same year.

Baellangeon Risks Crown Against Nero

The big Canadian will risk his title belt over the hour limit with two falls to win. The bout heads a three-match card also featuring a tag team scrap.

Ken Cooper and Bob Morrow match groans and growls with bad guys Tony Jiminez and Firpo Zybysko in the relay battle. This one is also scheduled for an hour or less with two falls to win.

Despite their lower billing, the opener and semifinal will probably offer more excitement than the main event. There are plenty of "grudge" angles in both bouts.

Cooper is angry at Zybysko for the decision Firpo, acting as referee, gave last week when he declared Jiminez and partner Nell Stewart winners over Cooper and China Mira. Jiminez slammed Miss Mira to the canvas, a rules violation, while Firpo's back was turned and the ref awarded the verdict to Jiminez and Stewart when he turned around and saw Miss Stewart atop Miss Mira. The district athletic commissioner however, reversed the decision.

Ken has it in for Jiminez because the Mexican cut him up pretty badly last week, throwing him out of the ring several times and opening a cut on his forehead.

California Okays 'Simplified Five'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The "simplified five" system of scoring boxing matches was approved Saturday by the California Athletic Commission.

The method: The winner of a round gets one or more points up to five. The loser gets no points.

The system, which cannot go into effect for 30 to 60 days, replaces the 10-point must system.

Liston Choice Over Folley In 12-Rounder

DENVER (AP)—Two sluggers with their eyes on the heavyweight boxing crown, Sonny Liston and Zora Folley, slam into each other Monday night in a scheduled 12-round fight at the Denver Coliseum.

Liston, 212-pound Philadelphian, rules a slight favorite because of the knockout wallop in his tremendous 14-inch fists. Folley, 195, from Chandler, Ariz., is rated the better boxer. The Arizonan's knockout record is impressive too. Indications are the bout won't go the distance.

Liston, ranked No. 1 challenger to champion Floyd Patterson by Ring Magazine, has knocked out 20 opponents in 30 fights. He's lost only one. Folley's 51 victories include 29 knockout victims. He's been beaten three times.

Folley, rated No. 2, and Liston have expressed readiness to tackle Ingemar Johansson "any place in the world" for a chance at Patterson.

Both fighters have been training hard here for nearly a month. Folley worked out in secret sessions several times, apparently developing strategy to duck Liston's firepower.

Liston, confident of his knockout punch, has shrugged off details of who will referee, what size gloves the fighters will wear, judging and other rules. "All I need is a referee who can count to 10," the Philadelphian said.

On Preakness Day in 1931, Cuban jockey Joe Guerra won five out of six races at Pimlico. He had no mount in the feature.

WILLIAMS WINS 9TH

Skidding Giants Drop 4th Straight To Dodgers, 6-1

By ALAN CLINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, as hot as the Giants are cold, whipped San Francisco 6-1 Saturday as Stan Williams scattered nine hits for its ninth victory.

The third-place Dodgers defeated the fifth-place Giants for their fourth straight time, and won their eighth decision in their last nine games. A crowd of 31,475 watched the Giants lose their eighth of their last nine.

Giant errors and a balk by starter and loser Jack Sanford contributed to the scoring.

Sanford and Williams engaged in a bit of personal combat during the five innings Jack worked. The 6-foot-4 Williams went down twice on hard close pitches. Sanford fanned Williams three times. Sanford went down once on an inside pitch by Williams and struck out in his only appearance at bat.

The Dodgers picked up two runs in the second, Duke Snider got his first of three walks. Duke was safe at second on Willie McCovey's error and came home on John Roseboro's double. Maury Wills was purposely passed and then Sanford balked in another run.

Wally Moon hit a third-inning triple and scored on Norm Larker's sacrifice fly.

The Dodgers scored twice in the fourth. Jim Gilliam singled, stole second and came all the way home on catcher Hobie Landrith's throw into center field. Moon walked and came all the way on Larker's single.

Cepeda hit a one-out double in the fourth and tried for home on Willie Kirkland's bloop double to short left. Shortstop Wills fired a strike to catcher Roseboro who tagged out Orlando and dumped him hard in the process.

Cepeda, who had trouble getting to the dugout under his own power, was taken to the clubhouse and given treatment for the shin bruise.

The Giants scored in the fifth when Ed Bressoud doubled and came around as Johnny Antonelli and Jim Davenport grounded out.

Antonelli, who relieved Sanford to start the sixth, gave up a ninth inning run on singles by Gilliam and Moon and Larker's sacrifice fly.

NEW PINCH HIT RECORD

Crowe's Homer Trims Cubs, 2-1

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — George Crowe's record-breaking pinch homer, the 12th of his major league career, spoiled a three-hit shutout for Glen Hobbie in the eighth inning Saturday and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Crowe's blow, following a double play, snatched victory away from the Chicago right-hander who had scored three straight triumphs over the Cardinals this season. The homer was the 37-year-old Crowe's second of this year. The first came in the home ninth and beat Milwaukee.

Crowe, a major leaguer since 1952, but a regular only infrequently now, went into this season with 10 pinch homers, a total matched by Pittsburgh's Smoky Burgess. Burgess, like Crowe, hit one previously this season.

The victory, which went to bullpen ace Lindy McDaniel in relief of starter Curt Simmons, was the Red Birds' 11th in 15 games. McDaniel came on in the eighth and struck out the Cubs' Ernie Banks with two on. It was Lindy's sixth victory in nine decisions.

The Cubs scored their run off Simmons in the seventh on Banks' single and Ron Santo's hit-and-run double.

Hobbie, whose record is 8-11 no allowed only two singles until ex-Cub Walt Moryn led off the eighth with a single.

Curt Flood walked, but Hal Smith, while trying to sacrifice, bunted into a double play via a pop fly. Crowe, batting for McDaniel, then delivered.

First Landing Wins H'Cap At Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Eddie Arcaro sent First Landing past Manassa Mauler in the final sixteenth of a mile Saturday and then pulled away for a 1¼ length victory in the $112,000 Monmouth Park Handicap.

Arcaro patiently bided his time with the heavily backed favorite from C. T. Chenery's Meadow Stable after one mile. Then he struck in the homestretch to captured his fourth Monmouth Handicap since 1956.

The time for the 1¼ miles on a fast track was 2:02 4-5. It compared with Round View's track record of 2:01 1-5 set in winning this race in 1947. But Round View carried only 112 pounds, while First Landing was the top weight Saturday with 123 pounds.

First Landing, champion 2-year-old of 1958 and a bay son of Turn-to-Hildene by Bubbling Over, paid $4.20, $3.60 and $2.80.

Manassa Mauler, ridden by Bill Boland, paid $9.40 and $6, and Talent show, with Ray Broussard up, returned $4.40. Manassa Mauler and Talent Show carried 117 pounds each.

Essig Turns Pro

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Don Essig III of Indianapolis, 1957 winner of the National Public Links Golf Tournament, said Saturday night he is turning professional.

Essig said he would apply for a Professional Golf Assn. permit immediately and expected to play professionally for the first time next week in the Monticello, Ind., Open.

Texas Lass Triumphs In Trans-Miss

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sandra Haynie, a tiny Texas teen-ager with a precision putter, won the Trans-Mississippi Women's Golf Championship Saturday, 4 and 3 over Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn.

Miss Haynie, 17 and not yet out of high school, held a 3-up lead over her tall Tennessee opponent after the first 18 holes of the final.

The Austin, Tex., winner finished the first 18 5-over-par, and wavered at start of the afternoon round, losing the second and fourth holes.

But wiry, 105-pound Miss Haynie bore down and won three holes in a row, finishing 27 holes with a 4 up lead.

On the last six holes, Miss Haynie won one, lost one and nailed down her victory by halving the last three.

For the last 15 holes, Miss Haynie was 2-over while Miss Eller was 4-over.

TAKES 4-STROKE LEAD

Wall Fires Third Subpar Round In Western Open

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP)—Deadpan Art Wall Jr. rode golf's hottest streak into a four-stroke lead after 54 holes of the $25,000 Western Open Saturday firing a 67 for a 204 total.

The quiet man from Pocono Manor, Pa., efficiently clipped another five shots off par after hanging up a course record 66 in the second round Friday.

Now 8-under-par in the chase for $5,000 top money, Wall can make it two victories in a row by keeping the lead in Sunday's stretch drive. He won the Canadian Open last week with a blistering 19-under-par performance.

He has gone 36 holes at Western Golf and Country Club without going over par on one hole. He rolled in four birdie putts on the front side and came home collecting a birdie on No. 15 and making par on every other hole.

The 36-year-old former Masters champion, out nine weeks this spring with a knee ailment, has made a brilliant comeback. He is 64 strokes under par in 40 rounds since his return to action.

Moving into a challenging position was defending champion Mike Souchak with a 4-under-par 68. Mike chipped 30 feet for an eagle 3 at the fifth hole.

Souchak's 209 total tied him with Doug Ford, who has had 69 and a 68 in his last two rounds, and Jim Ferree, who had a 70.

Former National Open champion Jack Fleck took a whopping 13 strokes on the 15th hole, a 505-yard, par-5, and finished with 82 for 223.

Fleck's drive was in deep rough. He took four practice swings at a cost of two penalty strokes per swing. Ken Venturi, playing in the same threesome, said he tried to warn Fleck of the infraction.

Fleck said "I just went to sleep."

The penalties caused Fleck to miss Sunday's final round, as it took a 219 score to qualify.

The final cut of the tournament dropped the field to the low 50 and ties. Among other casualties were Al Besselink, Chick Harbert, Joe Campbell, Ernie Vossler and Jay Hebert.

IN SWAC

Grambling Now Dominant Force

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — It's difficult to be delicate about the situation any longer — Southwestern Conference rivals admit openly that they are devising strategy to prevent Grambling College from becoming the loop's reigning ruler in football, baseball, and track.

Every school in the area fears the Tigers, and with reason.

Grambling has been in the SWAC only two years but in this short time it has romped with such verve and splendor that it seems only a matter of time before the traditional seat of power in the three sports shifts to the sprawling north Louisiana campus.

They already dominate the basketball picture (28-5), having won two straight league titles.

Applying its strength with shrewd intent, Grambling made such a big splash on the national sports scene during the 1959-60 session that its "small college" label failed to prove much of a positional disadvantage.

No further evidence is needed than the combination football — basketball — baseball record of 51 victories in 65 events.

Significantly, at least from Athletic Director Eddie Robinson's point of view, the school was singled out for special accolades by the Pittsburgh Courier; United Press International basketball poll; the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics; U. S. Olympic Committee; National Collegiate Athletic Association; Greater New Orleans 100 Per Cent Wrong Sports Club; Track and Field News; and the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

This fact was almost obscured when Stone Johnson broke the world 200-meter record and made the U. S. Olympic team. He covered the distance in 20.5.

Johnson, and Charles Lewis, a high jumper with a striking record of versatility, participated in the Olympic trials as the only SWAC representatives.

The harrowing gridiron campaign (4-6) was salvaged somewhat by the pulsating running and passing of Preston Powell, widely proclaimed a future professional star. He was named to a first-team spot on several all-American teams.

Fred Hobdy encouraged full effort from his remodeled basketball squad to earn "Coach-of-the-Year" laurels for the second straight time. Similar honors went to Tom Williams in track.

The basketball team ranked 10th nationally in the final UPI poll and chopped its way into the quarter-final round of the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City.

All-American Charles Hardnett and Rex Tippitt received special post-season recognition by being elected to participate in the Olympic basketball trials.

SAYS SATCHEL PAIGE

Baseball May Be Young Man's Game

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Leroy (Satchel) Paige, somewhere between 40 and 60 years old, is on the verge of admitting baseball is a young man's game.

He told the Birmingham News via long-distance telephone from his home in Kansas that he thinks its mostly the young men who are keeping him out of the big leagues.

The ageless ambassador of baseball said, "I know in my soul that there's not a club up there I couldn't help right now. But how do you think it's look if one of these 21-year-old boys got in trouble and they had to send for me in the bullpen?

Paige, who spent five years in the major leagues with Cleveland and the St. Louis Browns is now with the Salina (Kan.) Blue Jays of the Midwestern League, a tough semi-pro circuit.

Paige says he "feels an itching" to accept an offer from Vancouver of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League. His last job in organized baseball was with Miami two years ago.

"I'm using the same old balls I used to—the fast ball, the curve ball and the screwball. I don't try to throw the slider like all these fellows are doing nowadays. That's bad for your arm," said the Satchel.

"I've been thinking about five days of goin' to Vancouver. They told me they want me to pitch for them and it's up to me, but I don't know whether I'll go or not.

"One thing's the money. I don't know if I can stand the cut in pay.

"And they told me I wouldn't have to do nothin' but pitching three or four innings of relief every once in a while. That's what I'm wonderin' about.

"I'm afraid I'll get up there and they'll start makin' me pitch every day. There's no need in me doin' all the work when they got a bunch of boys that get 75 and 80 thousand dollar bonuses sittin' on the bench not doin' nothin'.

"That don't sound so good to me."

If Satch were to take the Vancouver job, he would extend what may be the longest and most winding path ever trod by a present-day athlete.

He says he's played for some 18 to 20 teams.

"You asked me how old I am and I'm gonna tell you just what I tell everybody else that says, sometimes, that I'm about 70 or 89," says Satch.

"I'm somewhere between 40 and 60 years old. You can decide for yourself where. If I told you the truth, you wouldn't believe me, anyhow."

'Iffy' License Issued For Title Match

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Athletic Commission approved a license Saturday for Feature Sports Inc., to stage the third world heavyweight championship match of Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson at the Coliseum either Oct. 31 or Nov. 1.

At the same time, the Commission granted another license for promoters Cal and Aileen Eaton to hold a middleweight title bout between champion Gene Fullmer and aging Ray Robinson on Oct. 8—if New York and Maryland lift their suspensions against Sugar Ray.

The license for the Patterson-Johnansson rematch also is "iffy" in character. Feature Sports Inc., of which Bill Fugazy is president, gave Lamar Hunt and associates of Dallas until Tuesday to make good on a million-dollar guarantee proposal to hold the bout in Texas.

Attorney Roy Cohn, representing Feature Sports, assured the California commission Saturday it would be informed "within a week or 10 days" whether it would stage the heavyweight spectacle here. The odds were the rematch would be in the Coliseum, if the Dallas proposal falls through.

There was no talk of any other opponent for champion Patterson, despite speculation the winner of Monday's Sonny Liston-Zora Folley might be offered a shot at the crown.

Cohn said it was up to the public to decide whether they wanted a series of matches between the same two men. And he said interest in the third bout between Patterson and Johansson appeared greater than for the second event in New York—won by Patterson with a fifth round knockout on June 20.

Toomey Takes Penthalon Title

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bill Toomey of Palo Alto, Calif., won the National AAU pentathlon Saturday by winning the 1,500-meter run, the final event.

The 21-year-old University of Colorado senior edged Kent Floerke of Kansas City, Kan., 3,010 points to 2,742. Floerke had led the five-event meet from the start.

Jack Kuhns of Matawan, N.J., a University of Southern California student, was third with 2,600 points.

Toomey's point total was shy of the American record of 3,400 points set in 1954 by Brayton Norton of Occidental College. The world record is 4,006 points held by Vasily Kuznetsov of Russia.

Finishing fourth was Bob Warren of the University of Iowa with 2,420 points. John Bingessen of Topeka, Kan., was fifth with 2,367 and Bill Bright of Grandview, Mo., wound up last with 2,366.

21 Candidates To Compete In Penthalon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Five events comprising some of the most grueling competition in sports will be held at Ft. Sam Houston here next week to select this country's modern pentathlon team for the 1960 Olympics.

Ten military members of the U.S. petahlon team, nine civilians and two Army reserve officers who have returned to active duty for the competition seek places on the four-man team.

The trials in epee fencing, pistol shooting, freestyle swimming, running and horseback riding will be held Wednesday through Sunday.

The three team members and one alternate will represent the United States in the Summer Games at Rome starting next month.

Entrants include three veterans of the 1956 Games at Melbourne and a fourth man who qualified for the Games but couldn't compete.

Army Lt. Arnie Sowell, former University of Pittsburgh ace, competed in the 800-meter event and reserve Lts. Jack Daniels of Missoula, Mont., and George Lambert of Sioux City, Iowa, carried U.S. colors in the pentathlon.

Lambert finished fifth and Daniels 13th at Melbourne.

Seattle junior high school teacher Robert Miller, who led the qualifying in 1956 only to be forced out of competition by a broken leg, also seeks a berth on this year's team.

HOAK, GROAT LEAD DRIVE

Batting Averages Tell Pirate Story

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Every time somebody mentions pennant, Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates cocks an ear and bites hard on a wad of tobacco.

That's to keep him from spouting off about his front-running Pirates. He says it's still too early to predict a pennant—although the Pirates had a five-game lead at the All-Star game break.

He also recalls what happened in 1938.

At the halfway mark in 1938, the Pirates led the National League by 6½ games. But Sept. 26 the lead over Chicago dwindled to two games.

Two days later Gabby Harnett hit a home run with two out in the ninth to give the Cubs a 6-5 victory over the Pirates. This knocked the Bucs out of first place for the first time since July 12. They finished second—two games behind Chicago.

That year the Pirates had built an extra press section to handle the hundreds of writers for the World Series. They even went so far as to have the official press buttons made. The buttons now are curio pieces. The press box is still there—just in case it is needed in October.

The pitching record at the halfway mark tells the rest: Bob Friend 10-5, Vernon Law 11-4, Roy Face 5-4 (with 14 saves), Harvey Haddix 6-4, Joe Gibbon 4-2 and Wilmer Mizell 5-5. Mizell picked up four victories since he was obtained from St. Louis recently.

In addition to waxing enthusiastic over the sparkling pitching from Friend and Law and some fine relief hurling, Murtaugh has this to say of the Bucs' drive for the first pennant since 1927:

"This team doesn't give up. Everybody is on their toes. The thing that makes me feel confident is that it seems a different hitter comes through each day.

"When all our ball players are playing up to thier potential, we do not have a single outstanding weakness in our lineup. We're only at the halfway mark, but we've got a good shot at the pennant.

"This is a fiery team, but the most volatile of them all are third sacker Don Hoak and shortstop Dick Groat. They've been the big guns in our drive.

"They've played excellent defensive ball and are great leaders. When we need somebody to start a late rally, or keep one going it's uncanny how these guys deliver."

Law has come into his own as one of the best pitchers in the league. Overshadowed by Friend in previous years, the big Mormon right-hander compiled an 18-9 mark last year to play only second fiddle to Elroy Face's 18-1 in relief.

CHEVROLET
Not a single cracked egg since Chevy took over the route

That '60 Fleetside pickup you see takes whatever kind of road comes along, and makes about 250 stops a day delivering eggs house to house for Mr. Harry Hansen of Missoula, Montana. "With my previous truck," Mr. Hansen writes, "I always had some cracked eggs. Cargo damage always cut into my profits. But the new Chevy eliminated that problem completely. I haven't had one cracked egg with my new truck and I've had up to a ton of eggs in it without any difficulty. . . . I didn't know a truck could ride so nice."

Chevy rides nice, all right: takes good care of fragile cargoes. But that's not even the half of it. Torsion-spring suspension also means longer life for the truck, extra thousands of working miles, because the sheet metal and body components take less of a beating. You can run off-the-road or over back trails at faster safe speeds, too; get in more trips a day, make more money. Those facts are as true of the big Chevrolet heavyweights as they are of the pickups. Any model you name. Get one on your job and you've got the world's most efficient, most economical way to haul any load over any road. Your dealer will be happy to prove that statement any day you say.

◀ "I'm getting close to 20 miles to the gallon," Mr. Hansen states, "and that's on stop-and-go delivery."

Woman Will Quit Post With Demos

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Katie Louchheim said she will tender her resignation as vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee Saturday.

It's a usual formality, leaving the presidential nominee free to pick a new vice chairman to head the women's division, if he wishes.

There have been reports that Mrs. Louchheim might be replaced. She has been in the post since 1953.

Margaret Price of Ann Arbor, Mich., chairman of the convention committee on permanent organization has been rumored as a possibility. But Sen. John F. Kennedy's brother, Robert, said Friday there had been no decision and he could not comment on whether someone else was under consideration.

Aides said there had not been any discussion yet on this post, although a decision has to be made by Saturday.

Mrs. Louchheim said the years she had served had been "a most valuable experience," and that she was ready to serve the party again in any capacity.

"I think we've got a strong, winning ticket," she said.

Asked if she would take the vice chairmanship again if it was offered, she said, "That's right."

Mrs. Louchheim, 56, wife of a Washington, D. C., investment counselor, has worked in national campaigns since 1952.

Because she comes from the voteless District of Columbia, she has never been able to fulfill an ambition to run for the Senate or House. But she has helped many another woman get elected.

Not Candidate For Veep Says N.Y. Governor

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said that, despite the outcome of the Democratic convention, he still is resolved not to accept the vice-presidential nomination on the Republican ticket.

Asked if he might accept second place behind Vice President Richard M. Nixon in view of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's nomination for the vice presidency by the Democrats, Rockefeller replied through an aide: "Under no conditions."

Talk of a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket was stirred up after the Democrats in Los Angeles teamed Johnson as a running mate to Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Rockefeller has left himself open to a draft for the GOP presidential nomination, although he has said he doesn't believe there will be one. He declined comment on a report that as many as 200 GOP convention delegates want him for their nominee for president.

Belgian Troops Will Stay, Says Katanga Premier

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Moise Tshombe, premier of Katanga, said it is out of the question that Belgian troops should leave before a Katanga army has been full organized. He asserted the Belgians saved many Congolese and Europeans from massacre and prevented general looting.

Tshombe met with the Belgian commandant of the Katanga police and army forces and other Katanga and Belgian officials and said: "Independence of the Katanga has been solemnly declared. A message has been sent throughout the world, asking for all nations to recognize the secession. I am confident of recognition soon."

CLEAN BLINDS

Immerse the blinds, let them soak for a few moments, then go over each slat with a sponge or cloth. Next, hang the blinds over the clothesline, rinse with the hose and allow to dry.

MRS. FRED MCRAE ROBERSON

Farmerville Scene Of Roberson-Talley Rites

On Saturday July 2, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Jo Ellen Talley became the bride of Fred McRae Roberson in the First Baptist Church of Farmerville, with the Rev. L. B. Hall, performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Talley of Farmerville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberson of Litchfield, Illinois.

A prelude of organ music was furnished by Larry Armstrong, Farmerville, as the guests were seated by the ushers, Harry Farrar, Jr., cousin of the bride, Farmerville; George Brown, Delhi; Dan Evans, Bastrop, and Bill Poe of Shreveport. He also accompanied the Misses Bobbie, Babs, and Frances Prestridge of Vidalia, who sang "Because" and as a benediction for the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The altar was decorated with a wedding arch entwined with ivy and interspersed with white carnations. On either side of the arch stood tall baskets of white gladioli and green fern with massive white satin bows, flanked on either side by candelabra.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Alice Mallard, West Monroe, cousin of the bride, wore a cocoa ballerina length gown of peau de soie with basque waist and full skirt, with dyed to match short lace jacket banded with peau de soie, and hat of nylon tulle flowers of identical color with chin length veil of nylon tulle. She carried a nosegay bouquet of feathered brown mums surrounding a cymbidium orchid.

Bridesmaids, Misses Gay Gillum, Phoebe Allen, Jo Mary Tettleton all of Farmerville; and Frankye Taylor of El Dorado, Ark., wore ensembles identical to the matron of honor, but in a honey beige color. They each carried nosegay bouquets of feathered brown mums and cymbidium orchids.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, John Roberson of Litchfield, Illinois.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, was gowned in an original silk taffeta, with scalloped neckline outlined in Alencon lace and long pointed sleeves tapering over the hand. A lace trimmed fold in the skirt matched the same fold of the bodice, trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. The dress ended in a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Queens Crown of tear drops and seed pearls. Her bouquet of stephanotis, centered with a yellow throated white orchid was placed atop a white Bible. She carried out the theme of something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue and an English sixpence in her shoe. She was wearing as her only jewelry a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Talley chose for her daughter's wedding an overall design of blue and gray in a satin taffeta sheath with small hat of same material trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Her accessories were blue and she wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Roberson, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink embroidered satin cotton sheath with a small pink hat designed of nylon flowers, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the guests re-assembled in the Blue Room of the church for the reception. Forming the receiving line was the bride's parents, the groom's parents, the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Talley, Bastrop, the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Gann of Okaloosa, Ark., and the bride and groom.

The bride's book, located on a low table with a lighted candle tied at the base with a satin bow and wedding bells, was presided over by Miss Ann Ballard of Farmerville.

The bride's table was overlaid with a cutwork linen cloth over yellow. The central appointment was an arrangement of yellow roses in a silver and crystal epergne, flanked on either side by burning white tapers in crystal candlesticks. At one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl containing green punch served alternately by Miss Linda Kay Allen and Miss Jo Anne Odom, Farmerville.

On the other end of the table was the all white, tiered wedding cake, topped with wedding bells, frothy with nylon tulle and decorated with lilies of the valley. Serving the cake to the guests was Miss Patti Wilson of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Mrs. Virginia Yelton, Farmerville, furnished soft music for the reception.

Hostess for the reception was Mrs. Dorothy Bass of Farmerville. Passing out rice bags to the guests from a white satin covered basket was Miss Danette Hammett of Farmerville. All the tea girls and the hostess were wearing corsages of yellow carnations.

When the bride and groom departed from the church, she was wearing a brown silk shantung suit with printed brown and white blouse, brown straw derby hat, bone shoes, bag and gloves. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Litchfield, Illinois until September, when they will go to New Orleans for the groom to enter LSU School of Medicine and the bride will intern as a lab technician.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Roberson and son, John, were hosts for the rehearsal supper for Miss Jo Ellen Talley and Fred McRae Roberson, Friday night, at the Louisiana Hotel, Bastrop.

A pyramid arrangement of shasta daises and white pom pons with green fern centered the dining table. White tapers in crystal holders shed a soft glow over the table. Completing the decor were dainty place cards bearing the double wedding ring theme.

The bride chose for this occasion, a brown and beige taffeta sheath with draped neckline. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses. The couple took this occasion to present their attendants with tokens of remembrances of the occasion.

Guest list included Miss Jo Ellen Talley, Fred McRae Roberson, Patti Wilson, Jo Mary Tettleton, Phoebe Allen, Frankye Taylor, Gay Gillum, Bobbie, Babs and Frances Prestidge, Bill Poe, George Brown, Harry Farrar Jr., Larry Armstong, Rev. L. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mallard, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Talley and hosts for the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberson and John.

BERRY DYES

One of the joys of summer is to get out and pick fresh raspberries and blackberries, but be careful of the stains your clothes may pick up at the same time.

Colors in the berries act as dyes and should be removed as soon as possible. Attack the berry stain as soon as you discover it. Use soap and water — and dab, don't rub, the stained area to prevent spreading. In some cases a mild bleach might be used, but for the best results — and the safest — bring the stain to the attention of your laundry routeman.

Lotion Cleaner Aids To Beauty

The woman who has not yet learned the value of a skin cleansing lotion is overlooking one of the best aids to complexion beauty. A moisturizing, cleansing lotion is particularly beneficial because it will remove all of the soil, grit and make-up from your face while it soothes and refreshes the skin.

To apply, use a generous amount of the creamy lotion and massage over your face and neck with your fingertips. After working it over the skin to loosen grit and make-up, it can be easily removed with tissue. If you prefer the fresh feel of water, you can effect a soft-wash by splashing water on your face and neck until all traces of cleansing lotion, dirt, and make-up are removed.

A moisturizing, cleansing lotion cleans the skin more thoroughly than soap and water because it removes oily particles as well as ordinary soil without drying the skin or leaving any trace of residue.

Summer, the relaxed season. With the temperatures we've been having Louisianans are too limp from the heat to be anything but relaxed. . . But we never get so unwound that we can't work up a party or two for visitors or newcomers . . .

Last week when MRS. C. E. FAULK, SR., entertained a group of friends and relatives from out of town, special guests were a newly - married granddaughter and her bridegroom. The former AMELIA JOSEPHINE FAULK, daughter of the C. E. FAULKS JR., of Ruston, and WALTER HENRY RAUSER, son of the HENRY RAUSERS of Lake Charles, were married in June in Boulder, Colorado. They are now at home in Baton Rouge, where they will attend Louisiana State this fall.

Other guests of Mrs. Faulk were GENE FAULK of Brookline, Mass.; ROGER TALLIAN of Westwood, Mass.; the PAGE FAULKS and their son ROBIN of New Orleans; the C. E. Faulks Jr., of Ruston; and JOE DIGHAM of New Orleans.

Guests of the IVY JORDANS were MARTHA and JAMES BROWN of Nashville, Tennessee, who were here for a short Sunday - to - Wednesday visit . . . On Monday night, the Jordans and the G. L. MORGANS were hosts at a boatride and supper party aboard the Morgan's boat, the Playhouse . . . Tuesday at noon, VIRGINIA GUERRIERO entertained at luncheon . . . and Tuesday night, the visitors and their hosts called on the HAROLD WOODS in their new home before going to the LOUIS PETERS for dinner.

Houston, Texas, visitors are PAT WILLIAMS and her children, DAVID, MARIA, SUE, and TIMOTHY. They will be guests of REBA CHAPMAN and her son FRANK for the month of July.

Yesterday was a day filled with famous Monroe hospitality for two couples from Franklin, La.: the CHARLES LOBDELLS and the FRANK KRAMERS. They were here as guests of the JOE DIXONS and the EDMUND BROWNS . . . Festivities started at noon for the ladies, who were invited to JUNE M'HENRY's for sherry before lunch. Co-hostesses were BARBARA EASTERLING and JERRY OAKLEY. June's newly redecorated home was filled with magnolia blossoms for the party. Eighteen attended.

The same eighteen proceeded to Bayou DeSiard Country Club for lunch with ANNE A. TERZIA, JOAN SAGER, LEILA EWING, and CISSY RYAN. The table in the private dining room was covered with a green cloth, making a cool background for lemon yellow daylilies, white phlox, limes and green grapes . . . Last night the Browns and the Dixons invited a few friends to the Brown home for a party honoring the visitors.

This week the GEORGE WALKERS have had as their guest MADELYN MAUREY, who is en route to her home in Chicago after attending summer school at Newcomb . . . Yesterday MALISE MAPP entertained with a luncheon at the Paragon club, homoring Madelyn. White phlox and Shasta daises centered the table, where places were marked for ten members of the college set.

Members of the REVELERS dance club are looking forward with anticipation to their Summer Formal this Saturday night in the Paragan ballroom. Jerry Lane and his orchestra will play for dancing from nine until one, with breakfast to be served afterwards.

Thursday newcomer JANE SAYRES SARTOR, formerly of Rayville, was honored by BETTY B. JACKSON and TOMMY SUE SARTOR in the Jackson home. A few friends were invited for lunch, with bridge following. The menu included cooling summer dishes: congealed chicken salad, marinated string beans, stuffed eggs, chess pie.

Off for a week in Florida: the JACK NEELS and the HAYNES HARKEYS. LAURELLE and JOHNNY NEEL and VIRGINIA, LOUIS, and MATT HARKEY are going down with their parents for a stay at the Silver Beach in Destin.

High point of the week for the college crowd was the party given by GERALD DEAN in the main lounge of Bayou DeSiard country club Friday night. An arrangement of magnolias decorated the piano . . . On the refreshment table was a large champagne glass filled with red carnations. Hot and cold canapes and dips were served. About sixty-five guests called between the hours of seven and nine.

And a big welcome home to the HARRELL LARYS, back in Monroe after too long a stay in New Orleans. The Larys have purchased the new home at 1728 Spencer, and are now settled down like home folks.

Good timing was shown by young WALTER JAMES ERNST, III, who arrived on his grandfather's birthday, July 8. The new arrival, fourth child of the WALTER ERNSTS of Monroe, is the grandson of MR. and MRS. W. J. ERNST of Cincinnati, Ohio, and of CARL STOCKLAND of Glendale, Arizona.

Another baby with a good sense of timing is young Miss MARY LENORE CAPLIS. Word has just been received here of her birth in Shreveport on June 28, her parents' nineteenth wedding anniversary. She is the second daughter, sixth child of BETTE and JACK CAPLIS of Magenta plantation. The maternal grandmother is LEONORA KELLER of Monroe.

DAR LYNN GILBERT, who was graduated from West Monroe High school this year, is in Europe attending the European Youth assembly in Lausanne, Switzerland. She joined the Methodist Youth Fellowship travel seminar in New York in late June, and, on completion of the conference, will tour seven countries before returning home August 8.

Weekending on the Gulf Coast are VIRGINIA and TIM ALLEN and JEAN and SONNY DIXON. They went down on Friday, to Gulf Hills Dude Ranch, and are due back tomorrow.

For our poem today, "Advice," by Pegasus Buchanan:

If he sought your heart when the race began,
He will spend your heart when the race is done.

For if ever you happen to scold him,
His heart will turn to the hills beyond,

Though his charm is like no other.
He'll clamor for virtues he wishes you had,
And you won't compare with his mother.

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway producer Arthur Cantor plans to bring to Broadway soon a drama called "The Birthday Party," by Harold Pinter. It is now a hit in London.

Cantor describes the play as "a sometimes bawdy, sometimes surrealistic drama about two visitors who demoralize and finally abduct a young man from an English boarding house."

Pinter is a former actor, not yet 30, who attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts. He has also written sketches for a current London musical, "Pieces at Eight."

CLOTHING CARE

Summer is the most likely time for mildew to damage clothing made of natural fibers, but the housewife can combat this fungus effectively by using just a little extra care. To help thwart this marauder, the housewife should be certain that her soiled clothing and other fabrics are dry before putting them in her laundry basket or bag. This is particularly true of towels, washcloths, and underclothing.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER HOBART WARREN

Warren-Noble Vows Spoken In Winnsboro

The First Methodist Church of Winnsboro, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Irma Jean Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Noble of Winnsboro, and Roger Hobart Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan L. Warren of Vicksburg, Mississippi. The Rev. W. H. Bengtson performed the double ring ceremony before an arch of white gladioli and fern, flanked by baskets of white gladioli and candlelabras.

"Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by S. E. Lee Jr., who was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Dave Anders.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, wore a gown of white chantilly lace over satin with long sleeves and a scoop neckline. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a scalloped half-hat of lace embossed with seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Dean Doyle of Newellton, the matron of honor, was attired in a ballerina length gown of green chiffon and silk organza. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

The groom's father served as best man, with Bill Noble of Baton Rouge, and Morgan L. Warren, Jr., of Shreveport, serving as ushers and candlelighters.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth, featuring a centerpiece of pink candles and pink and white carnations. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Jesse Mercer, Miss Tine Mercer, Carol Bowden, and Mrs. Charles Matthews. Mrs. A. C. Bowden presided at the guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Winnsboro High School and Northwestern State College, where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority. The groom was graduated from Hinds High School and attended Hinds Junior College and Decatur College in Mississippi.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

MISS BOBBIE NELL SHEPPARD

Miss Via, J. W. Norman Wed In St. Joseph Church

The St. Joseph Catholic Church was the scene yesterday morning of the nuptial mass which united Miss Yvonne Marie Via, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert L. Via, of Monroe, and John William Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Norman, of West Monroe. Father Michael G. Hannon performed the doubl ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli in fan shaped arrangements, flanked by white cathedral tapers in brass candelabra and floor baskets of white gladioli. The altar servers were Pat and David Norman.

A prenuptial concert was given by Mrs. Harold Price, who accompanied Sam Danna as he sang "Ave Maria," and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of Skinner's bouquet taffeta with a scalloped neckline and elbow length sleeves. The Chantilly lace of the bodice extended down the skirt which flowed into a chapel train. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of tiny seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums and French maline, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Carolyn Herr, the maid of honor, was attired in a gown of taffeta, featuring a full skirt and set-in cummerbund. The bridesmaids, Miss Charlotte Tucker, Miss Charlotte Shower, Miss Joan Fontana, and Rita Via, junior bridesmaid, wore identical dresses in a deeper shade of aqua. Little Pamela Lewis, the flower girl, wore a dress of matching aqua silk organza over taffeta. They carried white fans covered with tinted chrysanthemums to match the dresses.

For the wedding, the bride's mother chose a pink lace sheath over taffeta with a matching hat. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of pink and white feathered carnations. The mother of the groom wore a dress of mauve Chantilly lace over peau de soie with pink accessories and a corsage of pink and white feathered carnations.

A reception was held at the Highland Park Country Club, where the reception rooms were decorated with white gladioli. The bride's table was covered with a cloth of nylon net with satin trim. The wedding cake, placed in the center of the table, was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Assisting with the serving were Miss Pat Halloway, Miss Janice Halloway, Miss Martha Husse, Mrs. Ed Lohan, and Mrs. Ralph Norman, Jr. The guest book was placed on a table adorned with a bridal candle surrounded with dainty white flowers. Mrs. Jack Lewis registered the guests.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

HOLLYWOOD REPORT

Marilyn Monroe Still Devastating

All are talking about Marilyn Monroe.

NO SECRET

It's no secret that Marilyn's delays on "Some Like It Hot" added a million dollars to the cost.

It's also no secret that the picture thus far has grossed 14 million dollars, a record for a movie comedy. Curtis, Wilder and Miss Monroe all had healthy chunks of the picture. The actress' take alone is reported at a million.

Her current "Let's Make Love" went three weeks and uncounted thousands over budget. Columnists accused Marilyn of unprofessionalism, a devastating thing to say about a performer.

Is Marilyn unprofessional?

The day I visited the set everybody, including Marilyn, seemed to be having a gay time. She was the Marilyn of old, laughing, giggling friendly with everyone.

Jerry Wald, the producer and money man admitted that Marilyn's re-takes and illnesses had cost thousands.

NOT PUNCTUAL

"She is not punctual," says Wald, in a burst of understatement. "But I'm not sad about it. I can get a dozen beautiful blondes who will show up in makeup at 4 a. m. promptly each morning. But they are not Marilyn Monroe.

"Marilyn doesn't come cheap but she's nice to have around when the grosses are counted."

And director George Cukor: "Marilyn's delays are neither irresponsible nor careless. She does not want to do a scene until she is ready for it and can give it her best. We have an agreement that she works only when she is satisfied she is ready to begin."

What does Marilyn think of all the publicity about her professional attitude?

"I don't know where they dream up such stuff. I was sick enough to go to a hospital and I read that I am holding up production."

Marilyn says early in her career she used to believe that any publicity was good publicity. Now she's not so sure.

"I have always been honest in my answers. No one has to make up anything about me."

She admits her lack of punctuality.

"It's a bad habit, I know but I believe that you shouldn't do anything in life until you're ready. Half of life's heartaches come from decisions that were made in a hurry. One should make haste slowly."

She was movie struck even as she grew up in Los Angeles. As a child she lived with her mother, a studio film cutter. Her father abandoned them. As a young girl she was a ward of the county shuttling from foster home to foster home. Her mother was in and out of hospitals.

She operated on the fringes of Hollywood — bit parts modeling anything — for years. When she finally clicked and married baseball hero Joe DiMaggio even that failed. They were divorced in less than a year.

But with marriage to playwright Arthur Miller and a permanent home in New York she seems to have found peace.

"I try to improve myself. I like to read and learn new thins. I want to be a good actress."

BUSY PRODUCTION

NEW YORK (AP) — Edward Albee's successful drama, "The Zoo Story," which is now at the off - Broadway Players Theater, has a second company touring the summer circuit in the Catskills.

The play is set in and around a bench in Central Park where Jerry, the hero, causes his own death with the reluctant help of a man he meets named Peter.

Albee's future playwriting plans is to try a short full - length play that would be performed in about a half hour. The admission price would be scaled down to 75 cents. But, it would be performed four times in the same evening.

Albee says the idea might prove impractical, but that it "would be most interesting."

"The Zoo Story" is also now running in Berlin and a dozen other German cities.

AT JIM THEATRE

Curtis, Reynolds In 'The Rat Race'

Two of Hollywood's most romantic young stars, Tony Curtis and Debbie Reynolds, are teamed in one of the important motion pictures of the season, Perlberg-Seaton's production of "The Rat Race," which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre. Filmed in Technicolor, the Paramount production is an adaption of Garson Kanin's hit Broadway play of the same name, and co-stars Jack Oakie, Ray Medfored and Don Rickles. Three top jazz musicians, Joe Buskin, Sam Butera and Gerry Mulligan, are featured in the music-spiked drama.

MUSICIAN

Curtis will be seen as a young, hopeful saxophonist from Milwaukee who hasn't the faintest idea of what he's getting into when he braves the rat race of New York City to make a career for himself. But Debbie Reynolds, a small town dance contest winner, does. She's had it by the time she meets Tony, who rents the room from which she is about to be dispossessed for non payment of rent. Completely disenchanted, she's about struck bottom, earning her living as a dime - a - dance hall girl, trying desperately not to give in to the easy money bait held out by her boss.

The role offers Debbie her first opportunity to give a dramatic performance, and the gifted comediene and song - and - dance girl is said to prove once again that there are no limits to her acting talent. As the cynical Peggy Brown in "The Rat Race" who falls in love with the irritatingly optimistic Tony, whom she considers a square, Debbie conquers the world of drama, adding another feather to her career cap. How she risks everything she holds dear to help Tony when the chips are down, bucking the ruthless dance hall owner with whom she has become involved, sparks the exciting action in the picture.

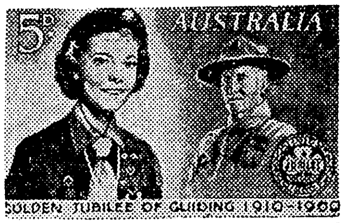
Tony will suprise fans by the expert way he handles the sax, as well as by his disarming portrayal.

STAMP NEWS

To Commemorate the Golden Jubilee of the Girl Guides Movement, Australia will issue a 5-shilling blue commemorative stamp on Aug. 18.

The main design of the new stamp will be a typical Girl Guide with a portrait of the late Lord Baden Powell, founder of the Scout and Guide movements.

The Girl Guides was started in the United Kingdom in 1910 and is now strongly represented in all parts of the British Commonwealth as well as other countries throughout the world.



Japan has issued three new stamps in its National Park postage series. All are of the 10-yen denomination.

One is for Ashizuri Quasi National Park and the design features Cape Ashizuri which occupies the southwestern end of the island of Shikoku. Another is for AbashiriQuaski National Park and the design features Gensei Kaen (Indigenous Flower Garden) located on the northeastern shores of Hokkaido. The third is for Amano-Hashidate (The Bridge of Heaven). It is in Kyoto Prefecture and stretches far out into Miyazu Bay.

Two new stamps have been issued by Austria, reports Edwin Meuller. One stamp, a 1.50-shilling, honors the 100th birthday of Dr. Anton Eiselberg. The other, a 4.50-S, is an addition to the Austrian architectural monuments series. It depicts the control tower of the new airport at Wien-Schwechat.

British Honduras has issued a special set of stamps to commemorate the centenary of the establishment of its post office. The stamps are: 2 cents — 1842 view of Belize, the capital; 10 cents—the public seals of the Settlement of British Honduras in 1860 and the Colony of British Honduras in 1960; 15 cents — the old tamarind tree at Newton Barracks, believed to be almost 200 years old.

San Marino has issued a 14-value set honoring the Olympic games. The sports depicted are shot putting, gymnastics, track, boxing, fencing, bicycle racings, hockey, basketball, rowing, diving, horse racing, target shooting. Two additional ones are airmails.

An interesting phenomenon has occurred in the issuance of the World Refugee Year stamps of Haiti. This little country has just issued the set again with an overprint "alphabetisation."

According to Haitian officials, one of their problems is the high rate of illiteracy. Last August the government began a series of steps to help the work of its "National Commission of Alphabetisation." The overprint is one method of publicizing the long range program.

West Germany has issued a new 20-pfennig red stamp honoring Dr. Walther Carl Rudolf Schreiber, Mayor of Berlin from 1951 until 1953. The new stamp bears Dr. Schreiber's portrait.

Also issued by West Germany, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency, is a set of four new stamps commemorating the 1960 Summer Olympic Games. Ancient Greek sports appear as the feature illustrations. The 7-pfennig brown shows Grecian wrestlers, 10-pfgreen sprinters, 20-pf red javelin and discus throwers, 40-pf blue a chariot race.

Susan Hayward Shifts Allegiance

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Susan Hayward, a onetime rabid Brooklyn Dodgers rooter, is switching her sports allegiance to football.

"I never was a football fan but I'm learning plenty now," says the Brooklyn-born redhead. The reason? Her husband Eaton Chalkley of Carrollton, Ga., has the franchise for the Atlanta Club in the New American Football League.

"It will be the first pro football in the southeast and my husband is bringing it there. It probably will be 1962 before we get the stadium built, but I'm already up to my ears in football."

It kind of startled the Hollywood crowd. She vows she's never been happier than she is in Georgia. She does a lot of charitable work in her new home—and also most of the cooking at home.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charles Chaplin Jr., in his biography of his father, ("My father, Charlie Chaplin"), tells how Martha Raye overcame her nervousness working for the senior Chaplin.

"She had heard from others what a tyrant and perfectionist he was. For several days she went timidly around the set ("Monsier Verdoux") addressing dad in a very dignified manner. It was Mr. Chaplin this and Mr. Chaplin that, until she became so tense and nervous she was almost ready to jump out of her skin.

"Then she decided to do something drastic, no matter what the results. Dad was in the middle of one of his directorial stews and everyone was sweating it out with him. 'Chuck! Chuck!' Martha suddenly intoned. 'How do you want me to do this bit?'

"Dad looked around startled. I guess it was the first time he had ever been called by that nickname. His eyes met Martha's and saw the challenging glint in them. Suddenly an amused look brightened his face. The tension eased. From then on it was 'Chuck' all the time with Martha."

BEHAN COMEDY SET

NEW YORK (AP) — Brendan Behan's comedy, "The Hostage," is scheduled for Broadway opening Sept. 20. It will have practically the same cast and players who have been performing it for the past year in London's West End.

The play, says Broadway producer Leonard S. Field, is "against the Irish, against the English, and against the Americans . . . all in the spirit of fun."

READY FOR FILM ROLE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George Chakiris, who has been appearing in the London stage company of "West Side Story," will play the lead in the film version of the musical - drama.

A singer - dancer - actor, Chakiris was born in Norwood, Ohio.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: My Sunday School teacher laughs at the idea of the disciples being unlearned and ignorant men. She said they had been with the Master for three years, and that they had their master's degree. What do you think? B.F.

ANSWER: The Bible says: "Now when they say the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and took knowledge of them, and they had been with Jesus."

These observers recognized (perceived) that Peter and John had no formal, theological training. But they perceived something more important: that they had been with Jesus. It has pleased God through the centuries to "choose the weak things of the world to confound the . . . mighty." These disciples may not have qualified to sit in the Sanhedrin, but they had sat at the feet of Jesus, and because of that the multitude marvelled at them. They had shared His wisdom, they had been partakers of His power, and though, "unlearned and ignorant" by the world's standards, they made a greater impact than the intellectuals of their day upon the world they lived in. With all of our getting of knowledge in these days of high educational standards, wouldn't it be wonderful if the world could look upon modern Christians and, "Take knowledge of us because we have been with Jesus."

Dedication Held At Sicily Island Church Building

The building accomodates the nursey with four rooms, bath and kitchenette. The primaries and beginners departments as well as the junior department are included in the new building also.

The building was open for inspection. First classes will be held in the building today, the pastor said.

CHARLES E. LEWIS

New Minister Of Education For Parkview

Charles Everett Lewis will assume duties today as new minister of education for the Parkview Baptist Church, 10th St. and Forsythe Ave. in Monroe.

In connection with this, friends and members of the church will stage a reception to welcome him and his family at 8:30 p.m. today following night worship services.

He came here from the University Baptist Church of Fort Worth, Texas, where he served in the same capacity from February 1955 to the present time. He is a native of Oklahoma, having been born at Okmulgee. He received his bachelor of science in business in 1943 from Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, and served in the United States Navy from 1943 to 1946 with the rank of lieutenant (jg).

In 1949 he received his master of religious education and diploma of sacred music from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

He served as minister of education and music at the Beech Street Baptist Church in Texarkana, Arkansas, from 1949 to 1955. He and his wife, the former Maida Ruth Means, have two children, Deanna Ruth, who is six years, and Charles Everett Jr., who is two.

Lewis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lewis, are residents of Okmulgee, Okla. where his father is a practicing attorney. He has two brothers, Frank L. Lewis, missionary to Indonesia, and Dr. Wilbur C. Lewis, missionary to Paraguay. His only sister, Mrs. Ira Livingston, lives in Kansas City, Missouri.

The Lewises arrived in Monroe Friday and are stopping at a local motel until they find a home suited to their needs.

IN SCIENTIFIC AGE

Scholar Prizes Basic Wonders

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

In a world obsessed by scientific marvels, the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Miller will settle for an odd, old piece of driftwood.

He prizes the elemental wonders. He likes to sit on a rock and gaze at the sea. But he's no recluse, by a long shot.

In an age of speed, efficiency and engineering prodigies, he has taken on a highly influential role today in bringing the gospel to grips with the overshadowing influences of technology.

This involves, he said, a "revolt against the mechanization of man."

Dr. Miller, a tall, lofty-browed scholar with reflective blue eyes behind rimless glasses, is finishing his first year as the new dean of Harvard Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass.

He sees the precision-tooled, modern mode of life as a main challenge that Christianity must meet, and master.

"The principalities and powers are bent on dehumanizing us," he said.

Mass organizational techniques, he said, draw people together but reduce deep, personal relationships; the reliance on statistical evaluations enshrines quantity above quality; increasing speeds of doing things blurs all fine distinctions.

"We must practice a new asceticism to keep the world in its place, to serve the spirit, not exhaust it—to regain our humanity."

Although Dr. Miller's schedule demands a fast plane when he has to go somewhere, he doesn't think he covers any ground that way. "One can only do that when he walks," he said.

He shuns the organizational tide. Joiners, he said, do "many things superficially, nothing thoroughly. You have to choose and eliminate a number of things if you want to come to grips with anything profound or intimately."

Manhunt Outpost

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — On Memorial Hill west of this holy city, beside the cemetery of Israel's war dead, stands a group of gray-painted wooden bungalows which form the command post for one of the most dogged manhunts in the world today.

From the metal gate which gives access to these buildings went forth the Israeli agents who brought Adolf Eichmann back to stand trial for crimes against the Jewish people.

About 500 top-ranking Nazis are on priority lists for similar arrest. The list of smaller fry, including some women who were guards in Nazi death camps, adds up to about 10,000.

CLUES FILED

In rows of metal cabinets lining the corridors of the Israeli Foreign Office Research Department are the clues to the whereabouts of these Nazis, still sought for atrocities before and during World War II. The agency receives, from its own representatives and others around the world, the scraps of information it is hoped will lead to further arrests. What is known to it is collated and published for Jewish organizations and individuals here and elsewhere who are helping in the unprecedented manhunt.

The Foreign Office's agents are renowned as incorruptible. Some saw Nazi anti-Semitism at its worst; others grew up in Palestine with bitter knowledge that Jews elsewhere were being helplessly slaughtered. All are convinced that no other nation is as determined as they to apprehend the remaining leaders of the Nazi empire.

The World Jewish Congress, the American Joint Distribution Committee and B'nai B'rith in the United States are on the lookout for the missing Nazi leaders. Once discovered, they are kept under surveillance by Jews throughout the free world, working on their own time and at their own expense, in harrowing memory of loved ones put to death in Nazi Germany.

PRIEST'S GARB

Eichmann is known to have left Germany for Spain after the war in the garb of a Roman Catholic priest. Other Nazi leaders fled in the same manner. Many went from Spain to South America, where they found cover in the already large German-born and descended population of Argentina.

Others fled to the Arab countries, mainly to Egypt, which welcomes them as a powerful aid against Israel. A number of ex-Nazis hold high positions in the Egyptian army and various ministries.

Major Viktor Arais: The killer of large groups of Jews in Riga, Latvia, in 1941. Arrested by the British in Germany in 1949, he escaped.

Werner Blankenberg: The head of a department on Hitler's staff; he sent Jews to Poland for extermination. Whereabouts unknown.

Martin Borman: Hitler's second in command and head of his office. Believed to have been killed in Berlin near Hitler's bunker but there is no proof of his death. Rumor has it that he may be in Argentina. One version says he was slain there.

OTHERS

Theodor Denker: SS officer, in charge of Jews' expulsion from France in 1942, from Bulgaria in 1943, and from Italy in 1944. Whereabouts unknown.

Otto Honsche: Official in Eichmann's Einsatz Kommando which arranged mass murder of Jews in Hungary in 1944 under the command of Herbert Krumay. Whereabouts unknown.

Fritz Katzman: Organized the destruction of more than 400,000 Jews in Eastern Galicia. Reported to have been seen in Egypt in 1952.

Sandburg Talks Of Many Things

By ALBERT W. WIESE

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (UPI)—Carl Sandburg sat back on the veranda of his home deep in the Smoky Mountains and talked about golf, politics, goat raising, movies, and the life of Jesus Christ.

The grand old man of American literature picked up a 7-iron leaning against the wall and said it had been some time since he had taken his golf game seriously.

"But," the white-haired 82-year-old winner of two Pulitzer Prizes said, "I often get out on the lawn and knock a few balls around."

The soft-voiced poet and biographer lives in a modest two-story white house overlooking a meadow and a small lake.

"GOD'S LAKE"

"It isn't really my lake," Sandburg says. "It's God's lake. He just lets me look at it."

Sandburg lives in his quiet home with his wife, the former Lillian Paula Streichman, whom he married in 1908. Most of his time is spent in reading and writing. Almost every room in the house is filled with books and papers, and he has a desk in almost every room.

The poet reached over and scratched the neck of a Nubian goat that had climbed onto his lap as he sat sipping a soft drink.

"These are wonderful goats," he explained. "The breed came from North Africa. I've got 72 and their pedigrees go back 70 years."

DOE WITH RAM

He twitched the ear of the one that had settled down in his lap, winked, and said:

"Now this one here is a doe. That's the kind of a doe that goes with a ram. Not the kind of doe that goes with dem and does."

Like most persons in the country, Sandburg takes a vital interest in national politics.

"I'd like to see Stevenson president," he said. "But I guess Kennedy will make a stronger candidate."

Sandburg does not consider himself old at 82. In fact, he is entering a new field of expression—the movies.

FILM SCRIPT

Earlier this month he signed a contract with 20th Century Fox to go to Hollywood and write the movie script for the screen version of Fulton Oursler's book "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

"Why ain't I got a right to write for movies?" he asked. "I have written in more diversified fields than any other American author."

Sandburg said he had studied the history of the life of Jesus Christ, which is the book's story, and felt he wanted to do the screen version.

The research for the biography of Christ was extremely interesting, Sandburg said.

"Many of the records have been lost," he said. "Many persons who wrote about Chrit aw him in different ways. For example, writers such as Luke and John saw things about him that Matthew and Mark did not."

Freight Cars Are Mixed In Vast Network

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All mixed up like letters in a giant bowl of alphabet soup, the country's two million freight cars somehow always manage to return to home base. How do they do it?

If it sounds complicated, it is.

Crisscrossing 219,000 miles of tracks, yanked from one line to the other among 600 U.S. railroads, often gone for weeks or months on journeys from Maine to Mexico or Florida, to Nome, Alaska, the boxcars, flatcars, gondolas, tankers, refrigerators and hoppers might seem to be hopelessly ensnarled in a monster traffic maze.

KNOWN

Actually the whereabouts of every car is known at almost any hour of the day or night.

Basically, the highly integrated operation is made possible through the combined efforts of the individual railroads, the car service division of the Assn. of American Railroads (AAR), and the National Assn. of Shippers Advisory Boards. Together, they monitor 85 per cent of all carload rail freight shipments.

The primary rule under which they function is short and simple: Always return cars to their own lines as promptly as possible.

Without that rule, traffic experts say, one section of the country might have a rail-clogging surplus of freight cars while another area would be virtually paralyzed for lack of transportation.

Thus the AAR, with major responsibility for directing the even flow of traffic, recently saw to it that 12,000 boxcars were available in the Southwest for the shipment of newly harvested grain. Three days later, the grain was rolling to distant destinations.

At times there are complaints that one region may be "hogging" too many cars belonging to railroads in other parts of the country.

EXAMPLE

New England, for example, is a terminating rail area, and freight cars tend to pile up in that region.

On the other hand, the railroads have to haul empty boxcars to the Pacific Coast because it is an originating area with its rich production of fruit, vegetables, timber and oil.

To guard against "hogging," the AAR long ago laid down the rule that each railroad shall be paid for the time its cars are carried on another line. The present rate is $2.88 per car per day.

In theory, the $2.88 covers the average cost to own and maintain a freight car. However, the cars vary widely in cost, so that the per diem rate of $2.88 would fall short of covering the cost of a $25,000 refrigerator car, but would more than pay for a $6,000 flatcar.

CLEARING HOUSE

To keep track of the enormous volume of freight shipments, averaging over 150,000 car movements daily from one line to another, each railroad has its own central "clearing house"—known as a car record office—to pinpoint the movements of its own and "foreign" cars.

As soon as a "foreign" freight car moves off one line, a report goes by teletpye or other means of fast communication to the owner of the car and to the line which receives it. In addition, each car has a punch card on it, detailing its movements.

Barring accidents, freight cars have an average lifetime of 30 years. About 60,000 to 70,000 are junked annually.

Among the 111 class one U.S. railroads, the Pennsylvania system has the biggest fleet with 153,418 freight cars, followed by the New York Central with 107,500.

Besides the 1,674,442 freight cars owned by class one railroads, some of the big oil companies, packers and other corporate giants privately own nearly 400,000 cars.

HARMONY HURRICANE

Musical Sojourn On Lather Lane

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The organization known officially as the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. may sound like an alphabetical hangover from the early days of the New Deal, but its origins are even older than that.

The initials stand for the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. At the tweet of a pitch pipe, the society's 26,000 members shake themselves down into 6,500 quartets and, resplendant in blazer jackets and skimmer straw hats, evoke the good old turn-of-the-century days in a hurricane of harmony.

With chapters meeting once a week in bars, club rooms, school basements and even a few bona fide barber shops in almost every state, the society has become in the last 10 years America's largest and most dedicated singing organization.

Although almost all its members are untrained amateurs and weekend warblers at best, the society's overall competence was firmly established when a quartet called the Buffalo Bills went professional in a big way by joining the cast of the hit Broadway musical, "The Music Man." Made up of four guys fro mBuffalo, N. Y., the Buffalo Bills caught the ear of composer Meredith Wilson by winning the 1950 S.P.E.B.Q.S.A. national championships with a wonderfully resonant version of the old barbershop standby "Roses of Picardy."

They were neither the first nor the last of the society's championship quartets to turn professional. The other was the four singing siblings from Milwaukee, turned their 1951 championship into a gold mine of personal appearances and recording dates that has established them as the country's most popular and widely travelled quartet. They have logged more than a million miles in the past decade.

Decca Records salutes the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.'s palmist years with "Ten Years of Barbershop Champions," an album dedicated to preserving the sounds of the national contest winners in the past decade and the songs that won them the crowns.

Beginning with the Buffalo Bills in 1950 and winding up with the Four Pitchikers in 1959, the collection proves that where champions are concerned the old songs are still the best. Down the decade, such vintage numbers as "Last Night on the Back Porch," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Shine" and "Hard Hearted Hannah" copped the crown for the various championship quartets. Lone exception to the nostalgia bit was 1955 when a group known as "The Four Horsemen" won with "I Believe." Notably absent from the hoary hit parade was "Sweet Adeline," the song that probaby did more for tonsorial harmonizing than any other tune in history.

The album is a fine introduction for those unfamiliar with the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. and a must for those who belong.

Recommended and Otherwise

"BRIGHTEN THE CORNER" (Decca) — The Schmitt Brothers, warbling a reverent repertoire, again demonstrate why they are considered America's most popular quartet.

"HAWAIIANNETTE" (Vista) — Annette, Walt Disney's petite charmer, salutes the 50th state with a lilting medley of island favorites that goes off course geographically with the unaccountable inclusion of "Now is the Hour," an Australian song.

JAZZ OASIS (Capitol) — Saxsational Charlie Barnet deserts the big band for a swinging quartet that hits a hippy, happy style with "Take the A Train," "Jive At Five" and other far-out frenzies.

MIYOSHI (Mercury) — Miyoshi Umeki, the lovely lotus blossom who brightened Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" on Broadway, gives an exotic Oriental flavor to "My Heart Stood Still," "Sometimes I'm Happy" and similar occidental ballads.

Some Worthy Points Seen Under Grime

THE PARATROOPER OF MECHANIC AVENUE. By Lester Goran. Houghton Mifflin. $3.50.

An obese, cow-like mother, a drunken and vicious father, a bootleg neighborhood of speakeasies, brothels and ramshackle tenements — that was the setting for the birth and career of Ike-o Hartwell, hero of this first novel by a Pittsburgher.

Charlie was the father, Yolanda the mother; one drank all the time, and the other, sitting in a straight kitchen chair, all the time ate thick slabs of black bread spread with ketchup and Mayonnaise. Many decades before, Hartwell had been a distinguished name, but Charlie is a sorry derelict. He would lead his boy around to the saloons, and try to wangle a pint from Sabaski the bootlegger; he hated Gedunsky, and couldn't believe it when his own boy fell for a Smolcher girl. He swore to Fats Smolcher he'd never let the marriage take place.

EXCEPTION

Most of the Smolcher girls were no good, as even Ike-o knew. But young Dolly, his preferred, was the exception. They went to school together, and loved each other; and no matter what her cheap sisters did, or his friends, either, they were going to wait till they were married. Ike-o went off to the Army at the time of the Korean War, and Dolly promised to wait.

But that was a bad world for waiting; Sobaski's neighborhood of slums was no help to it, nor was an Army camp. It takes strength, courage and integrity to wait, and even their good Miss Fireman, hadn't been able to prepare them for that ordeal. And ultimately the trouble with Ike-o was, as a companion jeered without knowing just what he was talking about, that Ike-o was an idealist.

SETTING

Setting and people are sordid, yet somehow every now and then the repulsive surface parts to show you, hopefully, a human warmth, a worthy aspiration, and a fine burst of honesty. This is not all tragedy, then; here is rock bottom, but there is a fine reassuring lift, too.

Salvo Is Fired Lauding Artillery Of The Federals

GRAPE AND CANISTER. By L. Van Loan Naisawald. Oxford. $10.

"Confederate infantry and Federal artillery, side by side on the same field, need fear no foe on earth." That was the considered opinion of the Confederate Gen. D. H. Hill, after he had watched Federal gunners wreck charging Southern regiments at Malvern Hill in 1862.

In the course of the near-century since the Civil War, a great deal has been written about the Confederate infantry. Now comes Naisawald to put in a word for the Federal artillery in general and that of the Army of the Potomac in particular. And high time, too.

NOT DECISIVE

The artillery was not a decisive arm in the Civil War. Its chief role was defensive, its most important service was in support of infantry. Union batteries accounted for more than half of the casualties at Malvern Hill but that was an exception, not the rule. Over the four years of war, artillery inflicted not more than 10 per cent of the casualties.

PARALLELS

In a way, the story of the artillery parallels that of the Army of the Potomac — superior manpower and material wasted by slipshod command. In large part, the artillerymen were not to blame. The fault lay with an organizational and command system which put the batteries under the authority of infantry commanders who knew little or nothing of artillery's functions and capabilities.

Naisawald is an experienced artilleryman and military historian. He writes with authority and fluency. He writes of action, hot action from the first skirmishes on the Peninsula through the artillery's great day at Gettysburg and its relative eclipse after seige warfare became the order of things at Petersburg.

Stirring though the action may be, there is a certain sameness about the descriptive that makes the book laborious reading, at least to this reviewer. But that criticism is a detail which should not be permitted to obscure the fact that "Grape and Canister" is an important work. It brings the artillery of the Army of the Potomac out of the shadows.

From TV To Broadway

'It's Whole New World,' Says Parks Of Hurdle

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's a whole new world, boy," says Bert Parks of his leap from television to Broadway.

"I believe this will change my whole career."

Parks, whose tireless grin and surging voice have long been network features, is the new star of "The Music Man," one of the Rialto's most solid hits.

"Fortunately, it's ideal for my debut," says the ebullient entertainer whose only previous stage experience was two weeks of summer stock four years ago.

LAST REFUGE

"I feel I've got something to offer other than what I've been known for, and there's no better place to prove it than Broadway, the last refuge of creative theater.

"But I'm not abandoning television, and I'm not kicking it in the teeth. I've seen too many other guys get out and deride. Television can be great too, and it nurtured me."

The big thing, adds 42-year-old Parks, is that the theater provides a fine way to stop being typecast as a jolly master of ceremonies. As far as TV colleagues are concerned, he says, "I've already taken on an entirely new dimension."

Never again, he says, will he do a daily air show—"They're a dirge." His Broadway contract extends until June, 1961.

The square-jawed, ruddy Parks has yearned to try legitimate theater for a long time. But for more than 25 years demands for his talents kept him hoofing, punning and announcing through such varied fare as "Break the Bank," "Stop the Music," and "Double or Nothing."

FIRST

Parks first became interested in "The Music Man" when composer Meredith Willson, a long-time broadcasting associate, urged him to audition for the original cast. He did one song for the backers, but didn't follow up because of a crowded calendar.

The notion of portraying the breezy, bouncing travelling man who went about long-ago Iowa setting up boys' bands lingered on, however. Parks decided to have a go at it when he heard a successor was needed for Eddie Albert, who had followed Robert Preston in the role.

EXCITEMENT

Battle Hymn: a new element injects fresh theatrical excitement into a revival of "John Brown's Body" by a collegiate group which in September sets off on a national tour after off-Broadway triumph.

The production, directed by Curtis Canfield, dean of the Yale School of Drama, adds music to the dramatization that Charles Laughton staged on Broadway several season back.

The score by Fenno Heath, director of the Yale Glee Club, infuses a vibrant excitement into the Civil War saga. The chorus is young but versatile, and so are the three dramatic players who handle some 30 characterizations.

After winding up here Sept. 11, the company goes to Boston's Colonial theater., later moves on to the Civic Theater in Chicago.

'Match King' Portrayed As Evil Genius

KREUGER: GENIUS AND SWINDLER. By Robert Shaplen. Knopf. $4.50.

On March 12, 1932, Ivar Kreuger, "Match King," lay on his bed in his Paris apartment, and with a revolver bought the day before, shot himself. The London Times, the Economist, John Maynard Kenyes, among others, promptly lauded his intelligence and integrity. He had an honorary degree from Syracuse, the Legion of Honor from France. But the truth was, he juggled figures, deceived, lied, even counterfeited, and the ultimate revelation that he was a swindler and forger, says Shaplen, "was probably the greatest blow to the morale of the world of finance as a whole ever suffered."

LANDED

His story is told from the time when, at 20, he first landed in America in 1900, through the fantastic accumulation of wealth by a little industry and an immense amount of guile, to the incredible climax — Shaplen doesn't buy that old story that it was murder, not suicide.

If there were questionable episodes in his youth, nevertheless he set out fairly enough, cold and calculating, but well within the law. He worked for construction companies in New York, traveled widely, did some building abroad, organized Kreuger & Toll in 1908 and fatefully started his match empire in 1913.

But it was manipulation of properties real or pretended, the undercover switch of monies from company accounts to his own, the slippery sale of a bill of goods to subordinates, prying accountants and the most reputable financiers, that carried him to the dizzy heights where he swayed the course of governments almost as much as of markets. He took millions from American investors — proud to be permitted to buy the gentleman's stocks — before the depression caught up; and it was only fair that he was exposed largely because of the failure of some deals in this country.

Shaplen doesn't squander his space on Kreuger's women, but gives it to finances, clearly explained, however, and easy to understand. He credits Kreuger's finagling with the institution of important legal reforms. John Kenneth Galbraith in a foreword reminds us of the value of the individual of whom society often disapproves: The suspicious fellow, the doubter.

FOUND OUT

It was he who found Kreuger out, not the genteel person taken in by his slick reassuring air. In the long run, Kreuger cuts a sorry figure, but no sorrier than the suckers who fell for him; he knew he was dishonest, they didn't bother to wonder as long as the money rolled in. Evidently it couldn't happen today on this robber-baron scale. By this account, the 1920s and 1930s were not just a merry night-before and sobering morning - after; they were conscienceless and amoral. We'll read this for the grim Kreuger story — unless we're too embarrassed at seeing ourselves as the astute Kreuger saw us and out-smarted us a quarter century ago.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

General Interest Books Are Added

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Books of general interest were added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week and there is certain to be a title among this list, which will make your life happier and more interesting. Everyone wants to live a happy life and F. Alexander Magoun has written a very practical little book telling just how to do this. It is called "Living a Happy Life" and you will find it most valuable.

Those who have read "The Conscience of a Conservative" by Senator Barry Goldwater are lavish with their praise. It is a small book, which tells how one lawmaker feels about this responsibilities. Be sure to read it, you will enjoy it. Consumers are getting more and more careful about knowing the quality of goods which they purchase. Several times each day the library answers questions from the Consumer magazines. A new book on this subject is "The Consumer's Manifesto," and was written by Mario Pei.

DISCUSSED

A problem which has been widely discussed in periodicals, newspapers and books is that of financing the public schools. The library has recently added two new books on this subject. One is called "Financing the Public Schools" and was written by Roe Johns and the other is called "Public School Finance Programs of the United States, 1957-58." It was written by Albert R. Munse and was published by the United States Printing Office. An interesting new book in the world of wild animal training is "Born Free," by Joy Adamson. Don't miss this, if you like to read about animals.

Books on child care are always in demand and it is a heartening sign that this is so. The latest book of this type is "Complete Child Care in Body and Mind," by I. Newton Kuglemass. It will be of great help to the young and inexperienced parents. A beautiful and interesting book is "The South Builds; New Architecture in the Old South," by Edward and Elizabeth Waugh. It is beautifully illustrated and is quite an addition to our collection. "The Book of Modern Home Decoration," will be eagerly read and enjoyed by many of our patrons. A very scholarly edition of "Alice in Wonderland" is called the "Annotated Alice." It is sidesigned for the student of English literature and will be found with that group of books.

BEAUTIFUL

Saul K. Padover has written a beautiful new boon on world history which he calls "Nehru on World History." It is a simplification of Nehru's writings designed for the young adult to read. Many people are interested in the study of archaeology and will welcome a new book called "The Mute Stones Speak," the story of archaeology in Italy. An interesting and unusual book is called "The Anatomy of the Anecdote" and was written by Louis Brownlow. During the centennial period of the Civil War, more and more books on this subject are appearing. The latest one is "The Sword Over the Mantel," by J. Bryan III. This is an account of how the Civil War affected the lives of those who grew up in the period just following the war. "1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," by Walter Johnson, is a discussion of the men who have occupied the White House during the present century. It should be very interesting during this election year.

A book which sheds new light on the settlement of the west is called, "The Road to Virginia City," and is the diary of James Knox Polk Miller. Lloyd Alexander has written an interesting autobiography, which he calls, "My Love Affair with Music." Dr. Thomas Dooley is a wonderful character and his books are in great demand. The latest one is called "The Night They Burned the Mountain." You will surely want to read this.

LONG TV, RADIO RUN

Next Season Last, Says Groucho Marx

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Groucho Marx, burned by an article urging old comics to retire in favor of younger ones, vows he'll do just that after next season.

"By then, I'll have 14 years on my quiz show on TV and radio and the public should be sick of me by then," says the acid-tongued wit.

"Maybe that will make the jerk happy who wrote the article and the magazine that was jerky enough to print it. Probably paid him $500 for dreaming up such a phony angle.

"Since when have I or Jack Benny or Red Skelton ever stopped any comic from working? Have I ever said to Mort Sahl: 'Mort, you can't work'?

PUBLIC ROB

"The public keeps anybody working in this rat race—no one else. When the public drops you, you're through whether you're 19 to 69."

Groucho says his decision to retire from what is the easiest touch in television is not because of the article—although he's obviously very sore about it.

"I've been in show business 50 years and I'm basically lazy. Money means nothing anymore. Most of my income buys ships for the Navy. Let them buy their own ships for awhile.

"I've got a nice home in Beverly Hills, a pretty wife, lots of good books to read and a couple of television sets. What am I trying to prove?"

LATE LINE

"My brothers are even lazier than I. We'll never work together again. It's too bad because I just happened to think of a good line I could have used in 'The Cocoanuts'—33 years later.

"I played a hotel manager and had one scene where I called a guy and asked him if he had a girl in his room. I forgot the line I used when he said no. Just the other day, the scene returned to me and I had the guy answering yes. I just said 'congratulations' and hung up. It would have got a hell of a laugh in 1927."

TRAGET

Miss Dumont, as all Marx afficionados recall, was the bounteous dowager off whom Groucho and his brothers bounced all their zanies.

"She said she would only come on the show if we paid her price. I told her she would get only what she won as a contestant. She refused to go on."

Miss Dumont is generally considered by historians of comedy as the classic straight woman for mad comics. Groucho explains why in a revealing insight.

"Margaret never in her career with us ever thought she was a straight woman. She actually thought she was a society matron and played it straight. I doubt if she thinks any of the Marx Bros. shows were very funny."

Miss Luada Burnett Weds L. K. Parisey

Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Luada Burnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Burnett of Monroe, and Lawrence King Parisey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Parisey of Oakdale. The double ring ceremony on July 9, was performed by Father Fruge, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church of Oakdale.

Before the background of white gladioli, Gerald Dean sang "Ave Maria," and "Liebestraum," and was accompanied on the organ by Miss Edwin Hopkins.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza with lace roses appliqued on the skirt and edging the scooped neckline. Her headdress was an elbow length veil of white tulle held in place with a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley and a white orchid.

Miss Genie Geesey of Greenville, Texas, served as maid of honor. Her gown was of white silk chiffon and her headdress was a white princess crown covered with seed pearls and a circular tulle veil. Her bouquet was of white asters with a background of English ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. L. E. Alexander of New Orleans, and the bridesmaids, Miss Martha Kay Williams, and Miss Carol Lynn Jaco of Greenville, Texas, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride were hosts at a reception in the ballroom of the Paragon club. As she greeted the guests, Mrs. Burnett was wearing a sheath of ice blue lace with matching blue accessories. With this she wore a hat and a corsage of lilies of the valley.

Magnolia leaves decorated the ballroom. A three-tiered fountain was placed on the bandstand with the grand piano, where Mrs. Sara Lou Sims played throughout the reception.

Mrs. Craig Morgan invited guests to register in the bride's book. A memory candle decorated the table where the book was placed.

White asters and English ivy were used on the cake table. Tea girls who assisted in the serving were Mrs. Preston King, Miss Sallie Oliver, Miss Fran Guthrie, Miss Patti Geesey, Mrs. Weldon Jaco, Mrs. Forrest Geesey, Mrs. Herbert Rather, Mrs. Herbert King.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Geesey, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Jaco, Miss Carol Lynn Jaco, Miss Cassie Lu Jaco, Miss Cindy Lu Jaco, Master Charles Jaco, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Geesey, Miss Genie Geesey, Miss Patti Geesey, all from Greenville, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. A. BEAUTY HINTS

Today's vogue of making-up your lips with two shades of lipstick is becoming more and more popular because it enables the user to create a variety of interesting color tones and high fashion effects.

The basic application techniques are: 1. Outline lips with the darker shade, then fill-in with the lighter one. This allows you to wear a very light shade of lipstick and still have a strong definition of lip pattern. 2. Apply darker shade to lips as you normally would, then cover this application with a light or iridescent shade. This will give your lip color a special highlight and sparkle, and will also make your lips look fuller. For best results, apply lipstick with a lip brush, and be sure that the two shades you use are from the same color family.

Girl Scout News

The first session of Girl Scout day camp at Pine Wood ended Friday evening with visitors coming out for supper and campfire. Taking down the flag in a colorful ceremony were girls from Century Oak unit, who folded away memories of a happy camping season when they folded the flag. Heat and dust have been only minor inconveniences when there are so many things to do for fun. Campers merely slow the pace and rest frequently.

Girls from Campcraft Hill unit did get to sleep outdoors on their overnight. Sleeping in the moonlight, an evening hike, a watermelon treat, out door campfire, watching the moon rise, what could be more fun? Why, more camping, of course!

The R. R. James family of Farmerville were guests for supper and campfire of the unit that held a primitive camp on the James property. The visitors agreed that the girls and their leaders, Mrs. Woodrow Downs and Mrs. N. L. Huckabee, had done an excellent job. Milann Gannaway and Jane Edwards were patrol leaders, Mickie Varnado and Deas Parrish, assistant leaders. These girls have enjoyed telling the other campers of their experiences.

Credit for a camp goes to those volunteers who make it possible. For the season just closed they were: Mrs. D. T. Demasterson, Mrs. Leon Noland, Mrs. J. H. Keeling, Mrs. L. L. Nash, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Billy Nelson, Mrs. Walter Bell, Mrs. F. M. Waren, Mrs. George Herrel, Mrs. A. R. Nix, Mrs. Latham, Mrs. W. A. Roche, Mrs. Lycia Tolbird, Mrs. Quitman Hudnall, Mrs. Huckabee. Miss Annis Klie was camp director.

Second session, with 181 girls enrolled starts tomorrow. Bus stops will be as follows: Highland School, 7:30, Slack Street and others along Hy. 80, Jonesboro road for Ransom School, 7:30, Mitchell School 7:40, Plum Street, 7:45, Georgia Tucker, 8:00, Sherrouse, 8:00. A bus will pick up girls on 18th at Glenmar, Auburn, on Oliver Road, and along Forsythe. One will go out College to Webster, two will leave Lexington at 8:10. We know these girls are going to have as much fun as did the first session.

COLOR FILM

If space permits, the refrigerator is an excellent place to store color film during hot summer months. Place boxes of film in plastic bag, twist or tape shut. Allow film to come to room temperature before using in camera.

MISS CORNELIA WALTERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walters of Rayville, will become the bride on August 13, of Sidney Paul Etier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Etier, Jr. of Hebert.

Health and Safety chairman Maibel Hood presented a report concerning Traffic accidents and urged each member to earn a "Good Driver" award. Miss Elizabeth Stenberg announced her committee had agreed to hold a meeting each Friday prior to the business meeting. Mrs. Carmel Jones outlined the objectives of the National Security committee and Mrs. Sara Kennon stated program plans for the years study were underway.

Mrs. Helen Trichell, membership chairman, initiated six new members. They were: Barbara Lewin, Wilma Jollisant, Francella Bedoit, Mary Boyle, Georgia Nastasi and Phyllis Black.

TEEN-AGE MAIL

What About Restricted Dating For Teen-Agers?

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

In our Guidance Class at school we are going to have a series of debates about teen-agers. Four of us girls have the subject, "Should teen - agers have a restricted dating system or not?" Two of us are for it and two against it. Would you please give us a good argument for each side. Thank you. —Four Debators.

Dear Debators:

Sorry, girls, but I cannot give you an argument for "Both" sides of your debate. I firmly believe that teen-age dates should have some restrictions depending on the intelligence, emotional maturity, age and trustworthiness of the individual boy or girl.

For example, a youngster of, let's say, 14 should have an earlier curfew than one who is 17. But, even a 17-year-old should not be allowed to stay out every night 'till all hours.'

The same 14-year-old should not be allowed to date a 20-year-old, but it would be all right for the 17-year-old to do so. However, at 17, she should not be allowed to date men in their late twenties or thirties.

So, you see girls, restrictions of some kind are necessary for all teen-age dating. A teen-age member of a panel discussion I conducted summed it all up rather well. He said, "If parents are not interested in what their kids do or where they go, a teen-ager soon begins to feel that no one cares what happens to him—and that is when many teens get into serious trouble."

My advice, girls, is to try to choose a new topic for your debate, something which has definitely controversial issues. For example — "Does going steady cause a teen-ager to have more problems?" Or, "Should parents expect standards of behavior from their youngsters which they do not follow themselves?"

Likes to Dance—But Stumbles at Conversation

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I am just an average 16-year-old high school boy who likes to dance very much. I go to a local, weekly teen dance and often meet new girls. I can 'get by' the first part of a dance with a new girl by introducing myself, asking her name and where she goes to school—but that is the extent of my conversation! After a few questions I do not know what to say and I feel very stupid Because of this I am even considering staying home. Please tell me what to talk about so I can have fun at these dances like some of the other boys do. Thank you. —Jim

Dear Jim:

Staying at home will not solve your problem. Learning to be an interesting conversationalist takes practice and the only way to get that "practice" is to associate with other people.

Perhaps the lack of conversation is not all your fault. The girls should contribute something other than just answers to your questions. Remember, too, that some people prefer to concentrate on the music so it isn't a 'must' to keep up a steady flow of chatter while dancing.

I have a "Free" leaflet, "Conversation Clues For Teen-Agers" which will help you, I am sure. Just send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request to Dorothy Ricker in care of this newspaper.
